I'm not sure I'm ready to experiment, and I like how this antenna looks.  The problem is, I can't find it for sale... anywhere online...
Is it discontinued?

Mine has two sockets on the PCB.  The ground pins are easy to spot since they go the ground plane, and the signal pins have a fat trace that I assume is designed to have a certain impedance.

The two remaining pins on each side are a bit of a mystery. One  pin on each side goes to a loading cap (i.e .two caps, one for each pin). The loading caps are already connected to the ground plane.

I think I have enough info to test the filter prior to opening up the radio. Wouldn't you know my RF generator doesn't go beneath 1Mhz (I need a different plug in) and my other function generator that would conver the range has the sine wave output blown. I'm going to pad down and cap couple the square wave output, which should be good enough for a quick visual test.

The AR7030 has a very fine step size of 2.655Hz, though it doesn't display that fine a step.

And a bunch of barefoot peasants with decayed teeth, spindly legs and

No, that's because the two country's dollars aren't equal, and there may be additional cost in getting it here.  If a book has enough demand in Canada, it's easier to add the Canadian price than require someone to add a price sticker after the fact.

There is clearly quite a bit of cluelessness in this thread.

Not unless it's clear and obvious (i.e. the auction says "you are bidding on CD-R's of Godzilla). Find out who the VeRO is and report it to them.

It really doesn't take very much power to drive a typical speaker to enough volume to fill a typical room.

Often, an external speaker will be more efficient than the one that's built into the radio.

On the wire - nothing special - the external speakers I use (Bose vs100) have the push in spring clips. I use 16 gauge speaker wire, and tin the wires on the end that goes into the speakers and the other end I put whatever connector the radio wants, or if it's a screw terminal or spring clip, I just tin that end too.

For "True Believers" Rush Limbaugh and many so called Conservative Talk Radio Hosts are Entertainingand Informative =Their Daily Dose of Reality / Truth !

The same 'potential' Over Time could be said for Air America for "True Believers" they will be Fulfilled:  Being both Entertained and Informed.  Yes - For them Air America will be : Their Daily Dose of Reality / Truth !.

Forget the Idea that Liberals or Conservatives are being 'narrow' Minded by listening to either so called Left-Wing or Right-Wing Talk Radio.

Instead "View" it as an Entertainment Choice; much like they would choose 'their' Music Station on the Radio . . . Hey It's Just "Chin Music" without the instruments ;-)

Did you try Universal Radio ??? I think I remember reading a post on this ng about a year ago from some one that purchased one from them.  I also saw one on E-bay a few months back and the auction ended early.  The buyer must have contacted the seller and made him an offer.

DH,
It is my understanding that in Canada there are:
+  National/Federal Sales/Value Added Taxes.
+  Provincial/State Sales/Value Added Taxes.
+  Local Sales/Value Added Taxes.
These vary from location to location and they do Add-Up to some rather high Double Digit Percentage Tax Rates

I don't give a rats ass what site you went to 'tard boy... if you'd stick around long enough you might actually be able to ID the damn station... but no, little 'tard boys these days gotta have a great spinner dial on the radio because they have the attention span of a gnat.

Sheesh... the hobby is about 'listening' is it not?

As I've said, time and time again, this once great hobby is now filled with worthless 'tard boys.

And barring that, myself and others have posted material time and time again that would help you ID that station in a matter of minutes.

You, and many others just refuse to pay fucking attention, time after time.

Are you retarded, or what?

One thing for sure, you are far from being 'Lucky'.

XXX porn on the cable system in California, after all, this is what people want (I guess we'll eventually move on to pedophilia and snuff movies, if that is what the people want). God in schools, though entire schools at graduation ceremonies may support the students mentioning God, we need the courts to protect us from this. Rather odd isn't it? Freedom of speech only comes in support of porn, somehow it's missing when it comes to conservative causes.

Listening to an idiot on Alex Jones at the moment. (sorry, it's not Alex). A doctor (of something, likely not medical), advocating forced drugging of children, quoting the American Pediatric Society suggesting that perhaps 20% of American children would benefit by mandatory drugging.

Let me see how this works, if I am a conservative and I oppose abortion, I seek to determine what women can do with their bodies. But if I am a modern person, (Neo-Conservative or Liberal), they feel at ease with the idea of forcing children and adults to take medication, thereby violating the individual's control of their body. Ironic isn't it?

Incredibly, this stuff probably makes sense to many of you. How, I don't know? Alex's guest went on to discuss the Amish (I'm still looking for an Amish family to adopt me) in a deprecating way. He initially used the Amish as an example of how the government "tolerates" the Amish, but then went on to excoriate them as inter-breeders, and to claim that society shouldn't have to bend over backward to appease the Amish. How can the government be bending over backward to appease a group that shuns contact with the government? How many Amish are on welfare?

(P.S. save your vomit bags, you too can be an artist).

Well, what a fine world you pinheads are helping to gestate. LOL (the standard fair for the Modern American Brainless male). Laugh out loud, laugh so loud and so often that you fail to see what's going on around you. Watch them football (sic) games, sitting there with your hand part way down your pants, the other hand wielding a brew to nurse your already burgeoning gut. Grease stains on the TV control from the snacks that you consume while watching TV, crumbs asunder.

Have fun, you deserve it.

Soliloquy.

While I disagree with his political outlook and analysis, that is because Bob Haberkost and I have different points of view. His positions and reasonings are among the most literate, coherent and well expressed I have read on Usenet.

Which is totally opposite my analysis of your points of view and posts.

I've got to throw in my 2 cents here...

This is an idea I came up with (though I don't claim to have invented it) which works very well.

Firstly, the report includes data from Kerry supporters. While Kerry supporters do not represent all Bush opponents, you can hardly say that it ignores the beliefs of those opposing Bush.

Secondly, the issues weren't chosen to show Bush supporters in a bad light. They were key issues in the election campaign, like the WMD question: "Is it your belief that, just before the war, Iraq had a) WMD
b) a major program?"

> How about the other poll that involved far more participants taking an

What does the presidential election have to do with it? We're not discussing the validity of the electoral process - that's another issue
- we're discussing whether the beliefs of Bush supporters match reality.

> Your only recourse is to claim all those millions upon millions of polling

Your argument boils down to this: Bush won the election, so Bush supporters are correct. Sorry, but winning the election does not make incorrect beliefs correct.

"Reality" means the facts - there were no WMD and Iraq was not involved in 9/11. Bush supporters believe the opposite of these facts, therefore they are out of touch with reality.

Holy crap
by John in DC - 2/8/2005 07:03:51 PM

Update: He just resigned.

Let me say again, holy crap.

The blogosphere has dug up some really really really creepy stuff about that pseudo-reporter with the pseudonym who the White House lets ask all the softball questions about their briefings. His pseudonym is Jeff Gannon, and well, the folks at DailyKos, and Eschaton, have been doing a little digging around on him.

It's a long and sordid tale, but let me give it to you in a nutshell. Mr. Gannon's home page is JeffGannon.com. Well, JeffGannon.com is owned by a person and company that owns the following Web addresses as well:

Hotmilitarystud.com
Militaryescorts.com
Militaryescortsm4m.com

And for those of you who are really straight or really clueless, "m4m" is a gay online term for men who are looking to have sex with other men, and "escort" means prostitute. And being a military escort is also against the Uniform Code of Military Justice in at least two different ways, if not more.

Now, I'm not one to judge how folks like to get their jollies (assuming no children are involved and it's consensual), but then again, I don't suck up to the family values agenda like Mr. Gannon does. I've been through Gannon's archives, and it's a horrendous accumulation of religious right suck-up pieces on gay issues. Some are concerned that perhaps it's not fair to hit him with the gay card, if he is gay. Well, take a look at some of the stories from Gannon's Talon News Service: here, here, here Talon is promoting "ex-gays," defending Bush on gay marriage, and Gannon himself writing a story defending Santorum on his man-dog-sex commments about gays. There are lots more, you get the picture.

The big issue here is whether the White House has been knowingly opening its doors to a pseudonymous male hustler (or pimp) so he'll pose softball questions to the president. If that's the case here - and in all fairness, we still need to hear from Gannon - it's not just creepy, it's outrageous and an incredible violation of the country's trust, and just as importantly, White House security. Do these people do a background check on anyone?

Just go and read it all for yourself.

I suspect authority and am old enough to know that the people in power tend to lie more than the loyal opposition.  That being said, these people in Washington who claim to be conservative are far from it.  I grew up conservative and hold conservative core beliefs, but I will align with progressives/liberals right now because they are more conservative than  the socialist neocon corporatists running the government now.

OK, call me a name...

1 out of every 4 Clear Channel talk stations will be ''Progressive winner every where they do it.  They are totally pleased.

This points out that Americans are hungry for truly balanced discussion.

Every time I read something like this, I'm reminded that we did do something like this already, and the country survived.  Mr. Lincoln saw to that.

Riiiiiight.  And all those dictatorships or civil wars zones or monarchies or theocracies in Africa, Asia and Oceania are all hotbeds of tolerance and liberalism?

> Most of the world is liberal and nonreligious while Americans

Most of the world is Buddhist and Moslem, and is definitely not liberal.  Western Europe and Canada might be more liberal in general, but most of the rest of the world isn't.  Western Europe may be more secular than the US, but my company's European office has an official holiday for All Saints Day and Ascension Thursday, something that you'd never see in the US.

Cite, please??  Last I checked, Germany was looking at cutting programs because they simply couldn't afford them.

Western Europe is definitely more secular, but that does not mean non-religious.  Western Europe also tends to be more left leaning in some ways, not in others.  Class still plays a big role over there, especially in the UK. A British friend once told me that Bush (the current one) would be too liberal to be a member of the Tories in Britain.  I found that rather hard to believe, but she lives there, and I don't.

Eastern Europe is a completely different animal from Western Europe, and don't mix the two.

Exorbitant??  Where do you live, the West Coast??

> Europe
> may be expensive, but Europeans can afford it.

That's because the government regulates things far more over there.  If someone over in Belgium gets laid off, they get 80% of their salary for a year. I've had some European co-workers tell me that if they get laid off, they intend to go travel for half a year before looking for a job.  It's like a vacation to them.

> Americans, OTOH, face a chronic shortage of

Not in the Midwest.  There's plenty of housing to go around.  The shortage is only in the areas in the exurbs in high demand, not in most of the other areas.  I've heard about the housing bubble on the West Coast, but that's not a national phenomenon.

> Fuel costs are higher in Europe, but most Europeans don't have to SUV's (and cars in general) are gaining in popularity in Europe.  It's a big growth area over there.

Yeah, right.  And the fact that I drive a rather fuel efficient sedan isn't an option, right?

The one big thing that Europe does have is the rail lines, which would be nice here, if the infrastructure were beefed up to handle high speed intercity rail.  Then again, rail is completely subsidized by the government over there (as are the major air carriers, with the major exception being Branson's Virgin Atlantic).

Well, no matter what, you're still a 'tard boy. That hasn't changed.

Now go take those meds, pick up that Sirius radio and go tote it you frickin 'tard.

Is 48, including #1 and #2 markets, plus Serius and XM and the largest realaudio serivice a "very limited number of markets" ?

They seem to be adding a station a month, or better.

BTW; What's with the AM-only ? Is it a strategy ?

Now you are asking this poor fool to comprehend the inverse square law.

You're a very demanding member of the reality-based community, David.

It's probably what's available.  There are a whole lot of underperforming AM stations around.

The Mic 92.1 in Madison, WI is the only FM AAR affiliate I know of.  If what I hear on their their stream is any indication, AAR is only offering a mono feed, even for their music programming.

Indeed. Far better to have too much rather than too little. It used to be that way with arrows, (and in some instances that may still hold true).

Now where did I stash those RPG's?

I was looking at the Spooks Digest list this morning and I noted a report that Yosemite Sam was operating again on 6500 so I decided to check that and the other frequencies that YS operated on at the same time 6500 was last used and found YS on 10500 at 1707.

I didn't hear YS on 6500, but that may be a propagation issue.

When YS last used 10500 and 6500 he was also using 3700, so that may bear watching later today when propagation will be favourable.

Content is secondary to the entertainment value of the personalities. Sure, they talk about stuff, but the same stuff talked about by uninteresting fools gets no ratings. So entertainment is 100% of the formula to win listeners.

I just checked 6500 again and can hear YS with a very weak signal at 1720.

I think it is more likely due to the difference in value of the Canadian and U.S. dollars. Back when the Canadian dollar was equal to, or even a little more valuable than, the U.S. dollar prices were about equal.

If it takes $12Can to purchase $10US one would expect a product selling for $5US to cost $6Can. If it costs $6Can and is exported to the US I would expect it to cost $5US - When I cross the toll bridge to or from the US the fee depends on whether I pay in Canadian or US currency - regardless of which I use the value is the same.

It is not discontinued.  You will be hard pressed to find an on-line order form for most Sony products because Sony does not authorize the advertisement of on-line prices.  So you must make a call to a Sony dealer to order in most cases.

Oh you're right... I don't remember the name of it, but it's something like Israeli Defense Forces radio... kind of like our own AFRTS.

Federal Value Added Tax = GST
Provincial Sales Tax = PST (In some provinces)

Some provinces combine them into a Harmonized Sales Tax = HST

Maximum should be 15%

I don't know for certain, but I don't believe any cities have general sales or value added taxes, although some have things like hotel taxes.

Bush's plant reporter "Jeff Gannon" poses in his

the best reporter the White House could find was a gay hustler with no journalistic background.

Grrr.  I can't seem to pull in any African station.  My setup is admittedly amateur, but I though I should be able to pull in one of the big ones.

I did hear what sounded like a traffic report and music from Accra, Ghana one morning (for them, anyway), but I lost the signal to rising noise.  Must have been a lucky grey-line thing.

Sigh.  I need to build a better antenna.

Thanks for the report, though.  I'll give it a try tonight/tomorrow morning.

Just as long as I have an Uzi and enough ammo, I can protect myself. I suppose that a good number of Americans feel the same way, although admittedly fewer than there used to be.

The question is, name four people who will be meeting together at a parole hearing in the future.

DE,
" as shown by Clear Channel's commitment to a score of AA stations. "
Clear Channels 'commitment' in Markets where it owns several Radio Stations is to offer a diversity of 'targeted' On-the-Air Products to attract different demographics of that market. {Cover-the-Market}
For Clear Channel what goes On-the-Air is about Business and Profitability:  Having little to do with Politics.
In the end if it makes Business Sense for Clear Channel to 'move'
Air America to a better Radio Station to capture a 'potential' Bigger Market Share -or- to Modify the Radio Stations FCC License and/or Transmitter and Antenna :  Then as a matter of Good Business Clear Channel will act to improve it's bottom-line.

I went down the local Radio Shack. They had a single, stand alone, discontinued, small but sturdy RCA bookshelf speaker, which they let me have for peanuts. I took it home, wired up a phone plug and it does sound pretty good...definitely better than the MS8 speaker I'd been using. And you're right: powering the speaker without an amp is no issue at all. There's plenty of volume.

Thanks guys.

Thanks for this - I would like to know (1) where you are, and (2) what time in UTC (GMT) or zulu you heard it.

Was it Botswana, or Voice of America relay?

Thanks,

0.2 in Arbitron is way, way inside the margin of error. A 2.4 is a 2.2 is a 2.0 is a 2.6. In other words, no change.

They have a sizable audience considering thier more limited signal. They are doing far better than anything on 1190 has done for decades.

No, that is like saying that all of NY's Jews suddenly showed up at St. Paddys for mass. Ain't going to happen.

And Air America catching up with Rush... Ain't gonna happen.

Failed ideas, failed philosophy, failed candidates (many of whom should be in jail, (Teddy Kennedy for one, John Kerry for another))

Buy ammo! It'll be over fairly quickly, but always be prepared.

Nice try, Lardass Davies. You voted yourself that award. The real award was the ASSCLOWN of the CENTURY award that everybody realy voted you tops in.

LOL!  That crossed my mind as well.  I was wondering what would even explain the 2.2 (after hearing their programming).

You know what, Edildo, you should get a job taping Air America and selling

That's very well-thought insight, RHF.

Well, we can go by public opinion polls, which show that Bush supporters have a skewed view of reality.

In some markets, where AA has competitive signals, it is happening. The margin, especially in 25-54, is close in some places, far off in others.
Just as Rush has 5 or 6 shares in some places, 2 to 3 shares in others.

But it is entertaining radio. Talk radio is about entertainment, not content.

I have been doing Arbitron analysis for the last 35 years, and make a living with the "simple math" of statistics.

Your response shows you know nothing about how radio ratings work.

I don't like Air America, don't much care for Rush, either. But I do dislike people who do not understand ratings who try to make convincing points based on said ignorance.

Nepal's King Cracks Down on Politics and News Media
By AMY WALDMAN

KATMANDU, Nepal, Feb. 7 - Instead of the usual spicy mix of current affairs and politics, the subject of Radio Sagarmatha's talk show on Saturday night was as bland as rice.

In fact, the subject was rice: the differences, as explained by a scientist, between golden, wild and other varieties. That was the only topic the independent Nepali FM station felt safe to discuss.

"Normally I don't do that kind of program," a 31-year-old journalist at the station said, laughing nervously as a soldier listened. When the soldier - one of six lounging around the station - moved off, the smile fell away.

"Our hands are tied," the journalist said.

Six days ago Nepal's king ended the country's 15-year experiment with democracy and took power for himself, imposing a state of emergency and suspending a host of civil liberties, including freedom of expression. Nepalis have been facing something between fear and a farce since then, adjusting to a combination of royal rule and martial law. Those in politics and the news media feel particularly under siege.

In a televised address last Tuesday morning, King Gyanendra said he was taking power for three years because the country's fractious political parties had failed to hold elections or bring Maoist rebels to peace talks. As he spoke, phone lines and Internet connections were being cut, political and student leaders were being detained and soldiers were arriving at news organizations' offices to take on their new role as censors.

Nepalis now have no freedom of assembly, expression or opinion; no right to information, property or privacy; and no protection from preventive detention. The government has banned any criticism of the king's action for six months, and any public comment that could affect the morale of the security agencies.

All of the community radio stations that sprang up in the 1990's are locked up, playing only music or discussing things like rice. The BBC's popular Nepali news service has been stopped, and Netra K. C., its reporter in the western city of Nepalganj, has been detained, according to human rights activists. Newspapers have been reduced to editorializing about safely banal subjects, like the weather or clean socks, or resorting to metaphor to make their case.

And your response shows you don't know the difference between 15 and 2.2.

Must all liberals resort to condescending tones to pretend that they know a deeper truth than the facts right in front of their noses?

For what it's worth, I put myself through college working at radio stations, and I know my way through a book.

And I don't like pompous blowhards that pretend they have a deeper truth about a ridiculously tiny number 24 with a 2.2 in NYC, a market literally full of liberals.

Set the radio for SSB reception .

Try LSB for frequencies below 10 MHz or USB for frequencies above 10 MHz .

Tune in the SSB station

Set the radio tuning steps for best resolution i.e., slow tuning

Slowly adjust the main tuning dial for a natural sound or at least best intelligibility

I know that Air America in NY underperforms because the 5 mv/m signal barely covers 40% of the market's population. If one retabulates the nubmers for the city-grade coverage area, WLIB actually is very close to WABC in key sales demos. In some markets, like Portland, it beats the conservative talker. In San Diego, AA is on a vastly inferior signal, yet comes very close to KOGO in 25-54. In most other markets, the format is way too new to make any conclusion at all.

I am not a liberal. In fact, in the last election I voted for the Partido Nuevo Progresista, which is conservative. Being conservative does not, as a rule, require divorcing oneself from reality.

That is not apparent. College interns generally don't even see books... or the electronic version in use for the last decade.

But had it gone from 2.2 to 2.4, you'd be touting it as a 400% increase.

Actually, this screed from this leftist, leftist-supported organization doesn't say that. And you missed the part about the Kerry supporters who believe the 9/11 hijackers were Iraqis.

Any organization funded by the Tides Foundation (Kerry's wife's little ultraleftist funding project) had damn well better please leftists. From your glee it appears they've succeeded.

And then there's Kerry, who said both that Saddam was a threat and that Saddam was not a threat, in the second debate:

KERRY: Well, let me tell you straight up: I've never changed my mind about Iraq. I do believe Saddam Hussein was a threat. I always believed he was a threat. Believed it in 1998 when Clinton was president. I wanted to give Clinton the power to use force if necessary.

then, about five minutes later:

KERRY: I don't think you can just rely on U.N. sanctions, Randee. But you're absolutely correct, [Iran] is a threat, it's a huge threat. And what's interesting is, it's a threat that has grown while the president has been preoccupied with Iraq, where there wasn't a threat.

This only works for amateur radio stations.  Almost all utility stations that use SSB use USB.  And the few 60 meter amateur channels on 5MHZ are USB only.

You presume too much again.  I wasn't an intern -- I was on-air talent (I still do commercials in my spare time).  It was a great way to pay the bills while I went to graduate school.

And you can bitch about the signal all you want, but it doesn't change the fact that Air America's numbers are not growing, and appear to have actually fallen in their flagship market.  Sure, if they broadcast in Berkely, they might pick up a couple of listeners, but the fact is that they have very little chance of surviving as a commercially viable network outside of a very limited number of markets.

Again, although I posted this in my previous reply. WLIB puts a 5 mv/m over less than 40% of the NY MSA. Most broadcasters today understand that heavily populated urban areas with thick buildings and lots of man made interference require as much as 10 to even 15 mv/m of field strength. WABC has such a signal over the entire MSA. WLIB, when plotted against a 10 mv/m covers around 30% of the population.

A 2.2 against 30% indexes as a 6.5 against the entire maket... meaning that in areas where both stations cover well, the two are very, very close to each other.

Studies of AM Arbitron diary returns show that more than 80% of listening is inside the "hightly listenable" interference free countour... in Los Angeles, this is 15 mv/m... with very little outside this zone.

AA is obviously doing well, or Clear Channel, a notoriously pro-Republican and pro-Bush company, would not have committed nearly 20 major market stations to the liberal talk format, based on AA's offering and one show from Jones / Media America. Clear Channel just switched a 50 kw AM in Cincy, and another in LA to AA. They also have moved AA onto a more limited signal in DC (where every AM in the market is limited) and several other markets. Clear Channel AM talk VP of Programming Gabe Hobbs recently stated that liberal talk was on a strong, long term growth trend and said he anticipated dedicating more stations to liberal talk formats in the future.

Remember, also, that talk is generally a long-term growth format and seldom has the amazing initial spikes of AA. Usually, talk formats take several years to develop, with ones like WABC, WLS and KFI taking 4 to 6 years to break into consistent Top 10 performers (see Duncan's "An American Radio Trilogy Vol. 1" for a 25 year trending of major talk conversions of the last two and a half decades).

Blah, blah blah blah BLAH.

The fact is, if Air America had better ratings, they could land a blowtorch. But they don't, so that's why they're not on one.

The difficulties you speak of that WLS and others had with switching to talk formats had much more to do with finding the right talent than finding the right format (as you should know).  Nobody wanted to hear a nobody discussing traffic, weather, and sports all day.  It took them that long to find the right talent -- and when they did, the results were there fairly quickly.

For instance, Stern and Limbaugh have gone from zip to number one in plenty of markets within one year.  Believe me, Clear Channel, Infinity, or any number of other groups would be all over Air America if they thought people were actually going to listen -- they're not about ideology, they're about audience numbers and demographics.  They make more money when more of the right people listen to their stations (or did they forget to print that in An American Radio Trilogy Vol. 1?)  Well, there's always room for volume 2, isn't there?

there is a seller on eBay that is selling a 30 DVD sets of Godzilla movies. they are ALL copies. he seems to have many sets, I have reported him several times over the past few weeks since he keeps selling them. he is getting big money. one set went for close to $400. His cost is probably about $50, since they are all copies.
Ebay doesn't seem to care unless a company like Sony does the complaining ! that implies to me that they are not protecting the public but watching their butt from getting sued !

Am I mistaken but don't they have some responsibility when they have been notified that illegal activities are going on ?

Jocks seldom see books, and even less likely is that they would be instructed how to read them.

A 2.4 to a 2.2 is not a "fall" but, in radio terms, a "wobble." What it looks like is that two things happened. First, there was more sample outside the WLIB signal (this also affected the ethnic stations, with all Spanish stations being off as a group). Second, there was lighter than average talk listening in 25-54, which affected both WABC and WLIB.

In other markets, where AA had been on for at least part of Summer, the programming did very well in Fall across the nation. Considering the format debut on signal-impaired facilities, it really performed better than is obvious. It is a very viable format, as shown by Clear Channel's commitment to a score of AA stations.

It is far, far more viable than that.

All I have to do is look at Bush backing down from stupid proposal after stupid proposal, and to see more and more real Republicans finally disassociating themselves from the Neocon agenda every day, and I am no longer concerned about my schadenfreude.

Bush is daily solidifying his record as the Worst President Ever, ensuring that the American body politic will be sufficiently inoculated against the fascist Neocon virus by 2006 to solidly restore checks and balances to our tripartite government for many decades to come.

| Nah, you're just a moronic 'tard boy.

| You just can't seem to get a grip on the facts.

| Now go take those meds, before your day gets totally screwed up.

1) - The advice to "adjust one's meds" is so old that an exhibit of the first time it was used was just recently installed in the Smithsonian

2) - If you were to go visit this hallowed shrine to glib, droll wit, you might want to visit the National Archives, where you can look at the Declaration of Independence, the Consitution and the Bill of Rights.  Of course, you can look at them on the web, too, at http://www.archives.gov/national_archives_experience/charters/declaration_transcript.html,
http://www.archives.gov/national_archives_experience/charters/constitution_transcript.html and
http://www.archives.gov/national_archives_experience/charters/bill_of_rights_transcript.html, respectively.  You might want to read what the contemporaries of Paine and Franklin (and Jefferson and Monroe) wrote.  Believe it or not (but I'd wager the latter, given your earlier response) they're your heroes.

3) - One of the reasons they'd be your heroes is because, despite the fact that they'd disagree with your attitude, tone and content, they'd still advocate your right to say these rude, clueless and downright vile things. And while disagreeing with you, they wouldn't even resort to calling you "a moronic 'tard boy" (or any other insult of the day).  You see, they were civil and enlightened, and hoped to provide people like you the same opportunities.  Your actions are an affront to everything they fought for. Your ignorance undermines the very foundations that the United States was built on.

So, here's the question.  Will you get educated, and defend the Constitution and what it stands for?  Or will you continue your ignorance, disgrace the country you (so you claim) love, and cause further damage to the reputation and security of the United States?  The fate of the U-S is in your hands. Don't blow it.

There are no blowtorches available right now in NY. However, markets like LA, Denver, Portland, Seattle, Miami, Cincy, etc. have true "blowtorch" signals. More are coming since AA can no be more discriminating in its station relations.

660, 710, 770, 880, 1010, 1050, and 1130 are the only bolowtorch or semi-blowtorch signals. All are in the hands of major broadcasters and are either cash flowing in major proportions or part of a national strategy, like ESPN. 1190 is probably as good as it will get for AA in NY for some time.

> The difficulties you speak of that WLS and others had with switching to talk formats had much more to do with finding the right talent than finding the right format (as you should know).  Nobody wanted to hear a nobody discussing traffic, weather, and sports all day.  It took them that long to find the right talent -- and when they did, the results were there fairly quickly.

Not true. The stations grew as listeners became accustomed to talk radio as a first priority, first preference listening choice. In smaller markets, it still takes a while to make a talker work, even when 100% of the talent is proven, syndicated material.

I have done a number of local live talkers, in markets ranging from 4 million to over 18 million. In the three recent startups I have done, no talent was changed over the first 18 to 24 months, but audience gains were slow until well into the second year. I had the talent... what I did not have was habit, and that formed as the station proved, in each case, to be useful to listeners over time.

> For instance, Stern and Limbaugh have gone from zip to number one in plenty of markets within one year.

I have worked with the guy who put Stern on in Philly (first market outside NY) for Mel, and in LA afterwards. It took well into two years for it to work well. Same with Rush until he was so well known that he got instant recognition. Other than those two, there are not a lot of talents with the ready-made star quality to do instant leaps.

> Believe me, Clear Channel, Infinity, or any number of other groups would be all over Air America if they thought people were actually going to listen -- they're not about ideology, they're about audience numbers and demographics.

Clear Channel has about 20 AA affiliates, with more coming.

"Clear Channel Communications is announcing today that its KXTA-AM (1150) will switch to "progressive talk" on Feb. 3 and carry the network whose lineup includes comedians Al Franken and Janeane Garofalo, as well as left-leaning hosts from other syndicates. "We have the Rush Limbaughs and the Sean Hannitys now, who have moved pretty far to the right. So there's all this constituency to the left of that," said Gabe Hobbs, vice president of news, talk and sports programming for Clear Channel, which owns eight stations locally and more than 1,200 nationwide. "To me, there's a hole big enough to drive a truck through."

> They make more money when more of the right people listen to their > stations (or did they forget to print that in An American Radio Trilogy > Vol. 1?) Well, there's always room for volume 2, isn't there?

Vol. 2 is not the ratings trending part.

And, again, AA has gone to nearly 100 affiliates in its first year. This is more than Rush did in his first year. And the largest supporter, Clear Channel, has just committed a $100 million dollar 50,000 watt LA station to the format, along with other stations in about 20 markets... many with great signals. In Portland, where AA is on the markets best signal, KPOJ is in a tie with conservative KEX in 25-54. On equal signals, or in geographic breaks based on signal parity, AA is very close to conservative talk, despite not being a mature service.

Hiya...

That is a great choice if you prefer to shell out some loot on an "out of the box solution". It is also an option to spend next to nothing for some standard hook up wire and apply some imagination.

I have a 7600gr and I use it off the whip for strong signals. At times, I've also use it with my outdoor roof antenna. When I've use it with one of the two antennas I have on the roof, I always use it with my pre-selector too to help prevent overload and I apply some attenuation via the 7600gr's adjustable attenuator. It is a great radio but it is still a portable that wasn't intended to use with so much wire. So... I came up with a new solution.

I've been using a new make shift antenna set up that has been working just great. I have a mercury light pole in my bedroom that is colored black. I took fifty feet of 22 gauge solid core wire with black insulation and I wrapped it around the light pole. It is like doing a "broomstick" antenna using the light pole as the broomstick. You can hardly notice the wire against the light pole which is a plus. I soldered a jack to the end of the wire that I plug into the external antenna hook up on the 7600gr. I've got the other end of the wire insulated. It is really doing a respectable job.

So... I dont think you need to spend money for the AN LP1. If you are going to use it as a semi-portable indoor home antenna, you can do quite well for little money by constructing a basic wire antenna. It is also lots of fun to experiment with antenna construction. If you want something to travel with that you can deploy and then put away cleanly, the AN-LP1 is the better option. It is also the better option if you dont want to fuss with making your own antenna. If you do decide to buy the AN-LP1, you'll get very good results with it above 4.000. It looks neet too. :-)

Michael

You obviously didn't learn anything while you were there.  Must have been sweeping the newsroom floor, would be my guess.  You must have worked with the the writer who did this PR piece you quote, to wit:

"LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12 /PRNewswire/ -- Rush Limbaugh received a great birthday gift today from his New York City listeners -- Arbitron, the official monitoring service of broadcast radio, reports that listening Adults 18-49 years old grew more than 50 percent over the last year. As the ratings roll out nationally from city to city, New York's WABC-AM numbers are out first, demonstrating the following overall gains for The Rush Limbaugh Show: Adults 18-34 are up 25 percent, Persons 12+ are up 35 percent, and Adults 25-54 are up 47 percent. (source: Arbitron MSA)"

It's not possible for demographic segments to gain less than 50%, yet in aggregate grow ":more than 50 percent".  Please note, too, that each demographic segment overlaps the others, so the increase itself is double-stated.

It sucks when  a furry friend dies.
My wife nursed an abandoned kittnen who turned out be the best four legged frined either of had ever meet. Strangest cat I ever saw, he would come after youy water chestnut crouching and crying. He also loved grape stems. But he was a great foot warmer and would sit on the side of the bath tub and, time after wet time, pounce on the whirlpool.
The only way to cope with the loss is to find another friend.
When you least expect it, a golden opurtunity will arise.

And, talk stations generally do poorly in under-55 demos, so a tiny change in number of listeners can result in an impressive percentage. Two listeners is 100% more than one. Air America is looking at far better under-55 growth in number of listeners than Rush. Both must be subjected to the "election year" filter before total credibility is given... and the recent elections were such fine examples of content over form (insert sarcasm smiley here).

Good News!

Do you know how simple it is to go to Heaven after this life has ended?

The good news is that God came from Heaven to earth in the person of Jesus Christ over 2000 years ago and died for our past, present and future sins(misdeeds). He was born in the land of Israel supernaturally to a virgin Jewish woman named Mary. He lived a sinless life for thirty-three years and then sacrificed His sinless blood and died on a cross to pay the death penalty for our sins.

After Jesus died He rose from the dead three days later as He said He would. The Holy Bible also tells us that Jesus Christ ascended into Heaven and that all who accept Him as their Lord and Saviour will live forever with Him in Heaven where there is no more death, sorrow, sickness and pain.

The Holy Bible very clearly explains how simple it is to be saved and on your way to Heaven, "For if you confess with your mouth, "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you WILL BE SAVED." (Romans 10:9)

You can be saved right now and on your way to Heaven if you will open your heart to Jesus and pray the following prayer:

Dear Jesus Christ, I want to be saved so that I can have a home in Heaven when I die. I agree with You that I am a sinner. I believe You love me and want to save me. I believe that You bled and died on the cross to pay the penalty for my sins. I believe that You rose from the dead.
Please forgive my sins and come into my heart and be my Lord and Saviour. Thank You Lord Jesus Christ for forgiving me and saving me through Your merciful grace.
Amen.

You are now a Christian if you said the prayer and allowed God to save you. Welcome to the family of God.

Have a great day!

the diagram I have shows 4 smaller pins with two larger "locater" pins.
Looking at it from the bottom with the pins away from you,
the ground pins are closet to the locator pins.
This is based on the fitler having 6 pins, with two located on either side in the middle viewed lenghtwise, and there being 4 pins along one edge.
The YG-455C is a CW 500Hz BW and the YG-455-CN is the narrow version.

This is all based on the assumption that a  note I got from Kewood 20 years ago is correct.  The 250Hz BW filter will work in a Kenwood R2000, but the BW was viewed as being "too narrow" for a receiver with 50Hz tuning. They where correct, I put a 160Hz Collins CW filter, and while it does work very well, and tuning is very interesting.

Certainly is if you happen to be the publisher, as for readers, that is a more difficult question.

Keep in mind that ebay fees are paid by sellers, not buyers, so it should come as no surprise that ebay policies strongly favor sellers. If you are a buyer and stiff two sellers, you get kicked off. If you are a seller, you can stiff hundreds and stick around. Anyone doubting that, I suggest you take a look at some feedback. One of my favorites is gadgetuniverse. They skewered literally hundreds of customers before they got tossed.

The short answer on copyright issues, is that unless the copyright holder complains, not much happens.  If the Intellectual propery owner complains, the things tend to happen quickly, but not because they are protecting buyers, it is protecting themselves!

Also, early nightfall and the end of daylight saving time greatly hurts the coverage and ratings (especially evening drive time) of AM stations with marginal facilities during the fall and winter months.

Conversely, "heritage" AM stations with full power, enjoy BETTER coverage during the fall and winter months due to reduced levels of atmoshpheric noise.

Will most tabletop receivers have the power to drive such speakers without an amplifier? I'd worry that I wouldn't be able to get reasonable volume without some sort of amplicication.

Also, if no amplification is necessary, what sort of cable do you use to connect the speaker output of the receiver to the spring clips on the back of the speaker?

Here is another option.
http://www.target.com/gp/detail.html/ref=3430811_bxgy_cc_img_b/

You can use the one speaker by itself. And have a standalone radio left over.

You can feed the output of your radio into the aux input and have an amplified speaker solution. You also add FM broadcast radio.

Just make sure the speakers are efficient. I use Sony's SS-MB100H and usually have the volume control at 30%. At 50% even the RX-340 is as loud as I like it and it has a weak output but that's all the drive it has. Turning it up over 50% doesn't do much. The Drake R8B has a little more audio power and can be a little louder. If you want to shake the walls you will need an amplifier. Table top radios only put out a watt on two so check the speaker efficiency before you buy.

The SS-MB100H are small bookshelf speakers about 10" tall by 6' wide with two drivers, a small base reflex and tweeter.

I'm happy with the sound and volume but they don't get loud. They get to a little over conversational level. If you want to listen to music then you might want to consider amplification.

Just regular speaker wire to the appropriate connector on the back of the radio, which may require you to wire a plug. In my case it's a 1/4" phono type plug.

Not that it really matters in this context; but I have difficulty figuring out how one gets 22% Combined Canadian Sales Taxes unless they add an extra 7% or so for themselves. Maybe someone can enlighten me.

Taking it across the border personally is definitely the solution.

The YG-455C-1 are rated at 500Hz/6dB and 820Hz/60dB
The YG-455CN-1 are rated at 250Hz/6dB and 480Hz/60dB
Both are rated for guaranteed attenuation greater than 80dB

There is no polarity to the filters and they can be installed in either direction.

Unfortunately that is all the information on the data sheet supplied with mine. I thought I had seen a graph of the passband, but that must have been for the 8MHz ones.

I guess this is the reason why books cost 20% more in Canada than the US-the same book, with a US price on it that's 20% less than the Canadian price listed right below the US price.

this is a serious question that I have wondered about for a while and don't have a good answer.

How do people lose a knob on their radio ????????

many times on ebay you will see someone selling a radio with an original knob missing. if the radio is a desktop unit, how did the knob get lost ??????????

Answer to the missing knob
1. It cracked - tossed it out
2. While disassembled for repair the dog ate it (happened to me)
3. While disassembled for repair the kids stole it - disappeared forever (happened to me)
4. No one ever disassembled a radio for repair -- and could find all the parts (happened to me)
5. The wife got tired of that mess on the kitchen table -- scooped it all up -- knob fell into heating vent. (happened to me)
6. Bought a used rig -- some idiot replaced the original with his favorite spinner
7. Disassembled radio in garage -- delayed project -- came back a year later and the knob walked away, never to be seen again
8. Oppps - hit it with the soldering iron
9. The set screw(s) got stripped -- need a new one
10. The shiny insert fell off - disappeared -- need a new one.
11. Bought a garage sale boatanchor -- knob missing -- need a new one

Guess Folks are just plain careless

Not necessarily lost - it could break then you'd need a new knob. :)

Shep sends his amateur call by kazoo (Jan 6 1965)
http://rhhardin.home.mindspring.com/shep.code.ram

TEST CQ VV DE K2ORS

not a pretty fist though.

The significance is that he just told every ham in the audience his home address, the CALLBOOK being a standard accessory for every ham;
but Shep liked hams.

I remember listening to a different show where he did the same thing, call sent just so, fast and a single time, as I was falling asleep.

In the morning I looked it up and there he was in the book.

Easy to remember overnight because ORS was IBM7090 for ``OR to storage.''

There's at least some correlation between missing boatanchor knobs and chupacabra sitings. I have no comment on what we should conclude from this.

I am in Miami Florida. It was 0508 UTC time.

When I looked it up, it did say VOA, but under country it said "Botswanna" and the broadcast was in a tribal type of language. So, how do I know if it was relay or the real thing?? I went by country of origin.

Absolutely. In one trade publication, Clear indicated another 20 stations are targeted for liberal talk.

I guess they have a habit of getting lost.Serious problem???????????? is that all you have to worry about????????????? Go to Vulcan and vulcanize a new knob.New replacement knobs can be made by useing some of that RTV,room tempureture vulcanizing? stuff to make a mold for a new knob.Any Vulcan knows that.

Just browsing Universal Radios' site and noticed thst they made an agreement with AOR UK to stock and sell the AOR-7030+ begining the end of March 2005.
It's nice to see this receiver avaulable in the U.S.

I suggest you do what I do when taking a radio apart. use several empty pill containers for different parts of the radio (label each container case or main board etc) and a small plastic box for the knobs and other large parts. this really helps keep things together

Sometimes that works. But sometimes the containers will also walk off all by themselves.

Then one doesn't lose just one knob but many, all at once!

Whoa. Prove those "facts".

The actual facts that you distorted into lies are: there is no strong proof that WMD were in Iraq at invasion time, and there is no strong evidence that Iraq was involved in 9/11.

Note the following quote from this article:

"Dr. Len Lictepeen, deputy chief medical officer for the American Cancer Society, said women should not overlook or "play down" these findings."

With a contrived line like this, you surely cannot take this seriously...

I looked up "condescention" in the dictionary, and it does not have any definition close to "reality."

If you are going to judge liberal talk, in NY or anywhere, you have to judge it based on equivalent coverage. If that is too difficult a concept, then that is your problem.

Bingo.  From 0300-0430, he would have had VOA via Botswana in English (After I posted, I headed over to EiBi as well).  Not yet knowing exactly where he was when his timer read "9:08 pm" made the report just mysterious enough to make me wonder, despite the 0508 title time.  As it turns out, he is in Miami, FL - which means that the "9:08 pm" reading on his post does not accurately reflect his location (0908 is Pacific Standard time).

While being appreciative of luckydaze's tip, I was also hopefully making the point that to relay the most useful information, it is helpful if the reporter includes a few details about when and where he is.  With worldwide subscription to this newgroup, these details can be important...but you knew that :-)

After all is said and done, it is cool that Botswana photons reached your radio, luckydaze.  Here in California, Africa requently puts in a better signal than Europe, despite its greater distance.  Those polar disturbances can raise havoc.

The highest rate of combined GST/PST you'll find in Canada is in Quebec, where it is 15.5%. (1.07*1.075)

Point is though it was not Botswana if EiBi is correct.

Here is Lucky's header as read here:

Wed, 9 Feb 2005 00:08:32 -0500

Time stamped here as 12:08 AM

Additionally he himself time stamped it as 0508 utc.

Somewhere under the ocean in the middle of the Bermuda Triangle are the missing knobs from rigs from around the world.

I've noticed that unlike other receivers I've had the R-8's BFO in the CW mode is not offset to produce a tone but is exactly on zero beat. Is it possible to adjust this for an offset that produces, say, a 600 or 700 Hz tone when you are dead nuts on the signal frequency?  I don't have the service manual/schematic where I could figure this out.

Thanks,

I don't think so. At least I've never seen anything like that out there.

That holds true for the A and B versions as well.

I agree 100%.   In fact I know of a couple of feral neighborhood kids in this general area what should be chained to their beds more often when they come home from skool.

Some of these little bastards think it's fun to tip trashcans and hurl eggs at passing cars, even if it's not mischeif night in October. No suprise as their parents are trailer trash also.

Yes, I say drug em. Drug the freakin crap outta them an give em subliminal messages flashing on their computer screens what tell them to go work at Mc Donalds or Walmart and be a good little worker bee or join the military at 19 and go fight for Big Oil to keep that sweet crude oil commin into the USA by the tanker-full for the next 20 years also.

As for Alex Jones, I'm suprised he ain't had himself a stroke yet from all his bombast and boilerplate he spouts daily thru his toilet microphone. A true mentor to morons. Here's a listener of his' photoblog. Seems Alex told his listeners that the "evil gubbimint" has been bombarding them with microwaves and other e-vile electronic behaviour modification stuff. So this guy asked his Magic 8-Ball what 2 do and here's what he came up with:   http://www.imagireal.com/gallery/foiled

Good News!

Do you know how simple it is to go to Heaven after this life has ended?

The good news is that God came from Heaven to earth in the person of Jesus Christ over 2000 years ago and died for our past, present and future sins(misdeeds). He was born in the land of Israel supernaturally to a virgin Jewish woman named Mary. He lived a sinless life for thirty-three years and then sacrificed His sinless blood and died on a cross to pay the death penalty for our sins.

After Jesus died He rose from the dead three days later as He said He would. The Holy Bible also tells us that Jesus Christ ascended into Heaven and that all who accept Him as their Lord and Saviour will live forever with Him in Heaven where there is no more death, sorrow, sickness and pain.

The Holy Bible very clearly explains how simple it is to be saved and on your way to Heaven, "For if you confess with your mouth, "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you WILL BE SAVED." (Romans 10:9)

You can be saved right now and on your way to Heaven if you will open your heart to Jesus and pray the following prayer:

Dear Jesus Christ, I want to be saved so that I can have a home in Heaven when I die. I agree with You that I am a sinner. I believe You love me and want to save me. I believe that You bled and died on the cross to pay the penalty for my sins. I believe that You rose from the dead. Please forgive my sins and come into my heart and be my Lord and Saviour. Thank You Lord Jesus Christ for forgiving me and saving me through Your merciful grace. Amen.

You are now a Christian if you said the prayer and allowed God to save you. Welcome to the family of God.

Have a great day!

You probably are more occupied with looking for that bottle of Scotch than you are with trying to remember the name of some obscure Ukrainian radio station.

Thank you for making my point!

This liberal "condescention"

( FYI:  Pronunciation: "k�n-di-'sen(t)-sh&n Function: noun  Etymology: Late Latin condescension-, condescensio, from condescendere
1 : patronizing attitude or behavior)

Has no basis in "reality."

Oh I forgot one --- While disassembled for repair --- put all the parts (including the tuning knob) into muffin tins - (I did good)!

Wife wanted to make muffins - so scooped it all up -- tossed em in the garage and yep you guessed it -- the tuning knob and several other parts -- just vanished to the Bermuda triangle as some one noted. (She did bad)

Sidenote -- I once built a Heathkit color TV set with a zillion parts -- took 25 muffin tins -- hi hi Bought two more tins for the wife in case she wanted to make muffins during the two months it took to build the Heathkit.
Great set BTW.

Case closed

What does is the fact that WLIB is doing very well vs. WABC in the areas where the coverage is usable.

No, I just say it's basically irrelevant.  It's like saying some hobbyist with a low-power FM transmitter has a good following in a 4-block area of Manhattan, so he's a threat to WABC.  He's a flea on an elephant.

And to wrestle this thing back to what we were talking about earlier, I pointed out that their ratings were stagnant (with some evidence of an actual fall in listenership).  Then you came up with a bunch of  irrelevant gobbledygook trying in vain to explain why that was a good thing.  It's like trying to say the Philadelphia Eagles won the Super Bowl because they played a good game.

Deal with it.

The burden of proof is on those who would use lack of strong proof as reason to cluster-bomb people in their homes. It is a failure of logic, and worse - a profound moral failure.

How do you explain the fact that Bush supporters still believed in these falsehoods when the study was made during the last election? This was after the 9/11 Commission findings and after the resignation of CIA director George Tenet. Gullibility is perhaps too charitable an explanation.

I used this site and it came up 'VOA" country "Botswanna"   Now, besides adding the UTC time in my header, what else should I include in the future?
http://shortwave.hfradio.org/

1] Frequency
2] UTC time
3] EST time too???
4] My location

What else? What site should I use for the ID? Sometimes even if I wait till the top of the hour to listen for it, I sometimes can't make out the ID.

So, what site was right??

You are one dense person. It is very common to compare lesser and greater signals based on usable coverage. This is why Arbitron issues "embedded market" reports so that smaller signal stations in distinct parts of a market can sell effectively in smaller geographies against the larger signal stations. In fact, no US market has more embeded markets inside it than the NY MSA.

There is no statistical evidence of a fall in listenership. There is evidence that the listenrship is stable, and not in a growth pattern. when compared to WABC in 25-54, where the money is, the comparison is good and very salable.

> Then you came up with a bunch of  irrelevant gobbledygook trying in vain

I came up with the usable signal comparison which is a standard practice in the industry in evaluating signals.

>  It's like trying to say the Philadelphia Eagles won the Super Bowl > because they played a good game.

Unlike sports, where there is only one winner, in radio there are many winners. Stations way down in the 1-share range make excellent money. In fact, the third highest billing station in the market is 18th in ratings (nearly tied with WLIB) proving that rank alone has nothing to do with making money.

So, your sports comparison is invalid.

Why would you assume that RHF has any need to adhere to the truth?  If it's in his gunsight, it's fair game, and no matter that the charges aren't true, he'll still shoot.

Luckidaze - Interesting website!  You're right, his info shows VOA-Botswana at 0508z.

It also shows Swiss Radio as being here too, though, so maybe his schedule is slightly out of date.  Website is unclear about last update, although his copyright statement says 2002-2004.

1] Frequency
2] UTC time
3] EST time too???
4] My location <<

Nos. 1, 2 and 4 are fine as far as I am concerned...those are what I try to include (if I can remember).  Part of my concern was that your time stamp on the message said 9:08 pm, when it was probably after midnight for you.  Otherwise, you're fine.

David - logic doesn't work with this crew (rather my complaint about the new Right, anyway). The degree of density is overpowering. It might be time to go silent, and let them argue with themselves (provided they don't think that this would be too gay).

DE,
Considering the Market penetration ?saturation? of Conservative Talk Radio in all major Metro Areas.

Then factoring in the large number of oh-so-bland
Public (NPR) Radio Stations.  Plus a Nation Wide Electorate that is 32% Republican; 32% Democrat and 36% Independent.
Now a Program Format that features Air America's Talk Radio Hosts with a winning personalities should be a natural Market Leader in all those Urban Areas that are surrounded by so called Blue Counties.
This could easily lead to having an Air America Radio Network that has a 'featured' Liberal Talk Radio Station in everyone of the Top 100 Metro Areas.
EXAMPLE :
Look at the SF Bay Area where Music Favorites Format
KABL 960 kHz was shuffled off to an FM Radio Station as 92.1 MHz KABL with a limited signal.
http://www.kablradio.com/main.html
This free up the AM Radio Station License to be renamed KQKE 960 kHz AM "The Quake" Liberal Talk Radio with a signal that has good SF Bay Area wide coverage.
http://www.quakeradio.com/main.html
time will tell ~ RHF

Welcome to America, how do you know his business is not legit? Is there that many Godzilla movies that it would take 30 DVD's? Who really cares?

Bob... arguing with you is fun, entertaining and educational. It is like debate in college, forcing you to research even if you do not agree with the position you must defend. Debating with these "experts" is like trying to sustain an intelligent conversation on the drive-through intercom at McDonalds.

Yes, indeed, David...I don't know why you try, although you deserve kudos for a patience which rivals Job in doing so.  But thank you for the compliments, and most assuredly, even though we often disagree, I have often come away with a better understanding of the issues at hand after engaging you (or anyone else of sufficient intellect and integrity).  What I fear for the U-S is that this level of discussion has all but disappeared, whether it's in an open forum such as this, or in the halls of government.

Good News!

Do you know how simple it is to go to Heaven after this life has ended?

The good news is that God came from Heaven to earth in the person of Jesus Christ over 2000 years ago and died for our past, present and future sins(misdeeds).

He was born in the land of Israel supernaturally to a virgin Jewish woman named Mary. He lived a sinless life for thirty-three years and then sacrificed His sinless blood and died on a cross to pay the death penalty for our sins.

After Jesus died He rose from the dead three days later as He said He would. The Holy Bible also tells us that Jesus Christ ascended into Heaven and that all who accept Him as their Lord and Saviour will live forever with Him in Heaven where there is no more death, sorrow, sickness and pain.

The Holy Bible very clearly explains how simple it is to be saved and on your way to Heaven, "For if you confess with your mouth, "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you WILL BE SAVED." (Romans 10:9)

You can be saved right now and on your way to Heaven if you will open your heart to Jesus and pray the following prayer:

Dear Jesus Christ, I want to be saved so that I can have a home in Heaven when I die. I agree with You that I am a sinner. I believe You love me and want to save me. I believe that You bled and died on the cross to pay the penalty for my sins. I believe that You rose from the dead. Please forgive my sins and come into my heart and be my Lord and Saviour. Thank You Lord Jesus Christ for forgiving me and saving me through Your merciful grace. Amen.

You are now a Christian if you said the prayer and allowed God to save you. Welcome to the family of God.

If you decide to wait till later you may die before you get another chance to be saved because none of us knows exactly when we will die.

Have a great day!

Y'know, I'm not sure there any of those really left anymore, after all the keynesian economic theories were discreditted so thoroughly in the 1980's and 90's.  All the so called 'socialist' gov'ts (except for a few anachronisms like N. Korea and Cuba) have jumped into the middle or what used to be the middle.  I'm looking at balanced budgets in jurisdictions with definite and originally radical 'social democratic' gov'ts who've cut back on services just like prudent business people would consider when the bucks are there to pay for them.  I live in a province in Canada with an NDP gov't (New Democratic Party).  They spent the 60's and 70's buying up resource companies (mining, forestry, oil, etc), and have spent the past 10 years selling and privatising them.  Taxes are down, cut backs are up.
Though they are on the outs with the voters and will be turfed next election.  I'm also thinking of the UK Labour party - Tony Blair's gang.
Another party trying to hang on to the middle.  I'm rambling a bit, but it used to be if a party was in the middle, it appealed to everyone.  Now, it appears a middle party annoys everyone.  From the outside, it looks to me that your Democratic party is a middle party.  I've seen nothing that looks like true left wing from the US - as compared to the rest of the world.
You want to see left, try this link:
www.arts.uwaterloo.ca/ECON/ needhdata/Regina_Manifesto.html

This is the founding document of the CCF, which renamed itself the NDP in the 1960's.  Now THAT'S left!  (And frightening).

I was teasing a bit here.  Hope it was obvious!  Greed is the second oldest sin isn't it (after lust?)  I may have this wrong. Not sure about the 40%.
I've heard of 50+% in some places, like Sweden.  Might not be true.

Not. No municipal or local sales taxes in Canada. They don't have the authority. Different provinces have difference sales taxes and different items are exempt depending on where they are from and whether the seller has a physical presence in the province (a province can't collect extra-territorially). The range of sales tax in Canada is from 0% to 15% depending on these factors. Items from out of the country usually have 7% GST (federal goods and services tax) on them if over certain declare value.

Last time I looked the French and English were the same race, as are a whole bunch of other groups.

It is bigotry not racism.

feed and "broke the house" and his family had to move away in the middle of the night.

Hello
I was tuning around with my GE Superradio III and instead of hearing CKLW on 800 Kc/s I heard this SS station.  My Spanish language skills are non-existant.  Just out of curiousity any idea who this might be?
Thanks 73 Greg

OCEAN CITY STATE PARK DXPEDITION - Feb. 7-8, 2005

What a difference a week makes! Seven days earlier, trans-Pacific MW reception was at the best level since the amazing reception of last September and October.

A few of us in the Pacific Northwest listen for TP hets or audio from our Victoria, BC and Tacoma, WA area homes for signs of Asian or Down-Under signals. Last week we were wishing we were at Grayland or another coastal DXpedition site, knowing that our good conditions inland were equivalent to excellent reception at the coast.

I couldn't get away until Sunday the 7th (UTC), and unfortunately the propagation conditions were degraded due to a recurring sunspot region and associated geostorms. Still it was an enjoyable trip, with sunny weather and spectacular ocean sunsets. The DX highlight was morning longpath African reception on 60 meters lasting far past local sunrise.

Mediumwave was almost entirely DU; the only Japanese station heard was JOAK Tokyo on 594. All signal levels were modest, without the strong, long reception that characterizes better openings. On this DXpedition, it was common for a station to rise above the noise for a half minute or less, and then fade back into the muck for long stretches of time.

Except for the longpath Africa reception, the tropical bands were below average. The Papua New Guinea regionals were at low levels on the 7th, and stronger the next night. However, the weaker Indonesian targets like RPDT2 Manggarai (2960) and RSPK Ngada (2899) were totally absent.

Ocean City State Park is north of the well-known Grayland DXpedition site, and across Grays Harbor on the sandy, flat Ocean Shores pennisula. Most visitors head straight for the resorts and casinos of the pennisula, but the smart ones do their gambling by stringing out a Beverage antenna and DXing! An empty logbook is cheaper than an empty wallet if things don't work out...

558 FIJI R. Fiji One, Feb 7 1445 - Low level island music of acoustical guitar and choral singing; woman announcer in pres. Fijian. Noted parallel to 639 and 684, all with weak signals. I found it interesting that all three frequencies began and ended their long fades into the noise at the same time, and then rose again at 1454. More guitar and choral singing over the top of the hour. (Atkins-WA)

594 AUSTRALIA 3WV Horsham, Feb 8 1550 - Poor-fair, with woman announcer in English, and parallel to 738 2NR Grafton. (Atkins-WA)

594 JAPAN JOAK Tokyo, Feb 8 1523 - First and only Japanese MW station of the DXpedition, in at a poor-fair level. Man and woman with talk in Japanese interspersed with English comments; seemed to be discussing aviation or flight. Even without a northwest Beverage, the Japanese and other North Asian stations are usually heard on a west Beverage antenna also (although at weaker level) if propagation permits. (Atkins-WA)

639 AUSTRALIA 8RN Katherine, Feb 7 1502 - Two men with talk or interview in English, talking about movies and taking phone calls. Parallel to 4RN 792. Fair, and competing with Fiji R. One on the frequency. Also heard 2/8 at fair level. (Atkins-WA)

639 FIJI R. Fiji One, Feb 8 1505 - Better reception than last night 2/7, with a fair-good signal on peaks. Beautiful island vocals and instrumentals, and song introductions by man in Fijian, parallel to 558 and 684. Fiji giving way again to 8RN Katherine by 1515. (Atkins-WA)

684 FIJI R. Fiji One, Feb 8 1509 - Heard during a brief peak with island music and male announcer in Fijian, parallel to 639. Poor. (Atkins-WA)

729 AUSTRALIA 5RN Adelaide, Feb 7 1513 - Woman announcer with mention of 'ABC news and sports' at tune-in; advertisement or promo, and then signal took a nose dive. Poor-fair. (Atkins-WA)

738 AUSTRALIA 2NR Grafton, Feb 8 1544 - Woman announcer with talk in English, poor level, but clearly parallel to 594 3WV Horsham. (Atkins-WA)

738 TAHITI RFO Papeete, Feb 8 0500 - I checked a number of times for audio from this South Pacific regular, but never heard more than a strong het. This is unusual, given the presence of audio from other MW stations in the South Pacific region. (Atkins-WA)

774 AUSTRALIA 3LO Melbourne, Feb 8 1612 - Fair during very brief peaks, with man and woman announcers in English. Parallel to 891 5AN Adelaide. (Atkins-WA)

792 AUSTRALIA 4RN Brisbane, Feb 7 1519 - Aussie-accent announcers in English with talk, parallel to 639. Fair. (Atkins-WA)

846 AUSTRALIA 2RN Canberra, Feb 7 1525 - Briefly peaking above the slop, with a male announcer interviewing a woman, apparently about her visit to Africa. Parallel to 639. Fair signal. (Atkins-WA)

846 KIRIBATI T3K1 R. Kiribati, Feb 7 0950 - Old US country music at tune-in; female announcer in pres. I-Kiribati lang. with possible mention of 'frequency'. Into log drumming music with male choral vocals. A fair signal, but it took the inevitable nose dive before the top of the hour. (Atkins-WA)

891 AUSTRALIA 5AN Adelaide, Feb 7 1529 - Woman announcer with news updates, including Pope John Paul's health. Man with weather forecast, and ID as 'ABC Adelaide' at 1535. Adelaide faded down at 1540, to be replaced by an EZL music station (2XW The Breeze, Wellington?). Fair-good. (Atkins-WA)

891 UNIDENTIFIED , Feb 7 1540 - Fading up to replace 5AN Adelaide, with Beach Boys music and female announcer in English. Sounded Kiwi... perhaps 2XW The Breeze in Wellington, NZ? Fair signal before fading into noise. (Atkins-WA)

1098 MARSHALL ISLANDS V7AD Radio Marshalls, Feb 7 0940 - Nice island choral music fading up from the noise, with a few moments of a male announcer in pres. Marshallese before fading down again. Fair signal while it lasted. (Atkins-WA)

1548 AUSTRALIA 4QD Emerald, Feb 8 1602 - Woman announcer reading news items; poor level and frequent fades. However, during a short peak 1548 was found parallel 3WV Horsham on 594. 'ABC Radio...weeknights' heard at 1605. (Atkins-WA)

1575 THAILAND VOA Ayutthaya, Feb 7 1555 - Man and woman VOA announcers with special (slow) English. Very low level, but in the clear. Gone by 1558. I heard this station much better from home last week. At the coast, VOA 1575 is often a powerhouse. (Atkins-WA)

SHORTWAVE

AUSTRALIA 2310, 1012-1018, VL8A Alice Springs Feb 7 Bluesy country music and male vocals by Joe White to 1016 announcer in English. Into old British comedy routine. Fair-good signal, and parallel 2325 VL8T Tenant Creek (fair) and 2485 VL8K Katherine (fair). (Atkins-WA)

BOTSWANA 4930, 1709-1730, VOA Feb 7 Very good longpath signal at Botswana sunset. Man and woman announcers in African language giving news items from around Africa, and mentions of many regional locations. Brief mabira music selection 1711, and back to news or political talk. Woman with mention of 'Washington DC' at 1713, followed by '909 AM' and 'shortwave 11975 and 17895 kHz' , and what sounded like 'Voi Amerika' or similar at 1714. Man with 'Washington, DC' at 1729, and 'This is the Voice of America' by woman in English at 1730, and into English programming with mention of upcoming features and news. Surprisingly strong at more than two hours past local sunrise. Also heard VOA Botswana at a very good level on 2/8 at 1657 with VOA NewsNow report on human rights in Laos. (Atkins-WA)

BOTSWANA 4930, 0338-0346, VOA Feb 8 Various news items in English read by different male announcers, including a US envoy travels to Pakistan, fighting in Afghanistan, and others. 'VOA News' IDs 0343. Good signal as Botswana sunrise approaches. (Atkins-WA)

BRAZIL 4885, 0520-0531, R. Club do Para Feb 7 Brazilian music to 0529 ID by male announcer with promo and mentions of meter band and frequency. Good signal. (Atkins-WA)

CONGO 5985, 1713-1750, R. Congo Feb 8 Fair to good level at Brazzaville sunset (1715). Male announcer in African vernacular; into French at 1723 with 'Ici Brazzaville, Congo' ID at 1731. Enjoyable Soukous music selections starting at 1732, but unfortunately by 1740 the signal was weakening and getting noisy. However, Congo was still listenable with a fair signal even past 1800 (10am local time PST). Strongest on southwest Beverage. (Atkins-WA)

GABON 4777, 0538-0605, R. Diff. TV Gabonaise Feb 7 Very good signal of French pop music and male announcer in French. Fading considerably at 0550, and almost gone by 0555. However, signal improved somewhat at 0558. ID at 0600 and into presumed news, with mentions of Libreville and Gabon. (Atkins-WA)

INDIA 3223, 1611-1614, AIR Shimla Feb 7 Tentative; with woman in English. Barely above threshold level. (Atkins-WA)

INDIA 3315, 1615-1620, AIR Bhopal Feb 7 Noted in passing, with fair signal of woman and man announcers in Hindi. (Atkins-WA)

INDIA 3365, 1620-1633, AIR Delhi Feb 7 Presumed, with English announcers; orchestral music 1625, and woman with mention of India at 1632. Weak, noisy signal at 1+ hour past local sunrise. (Atkins-WA)

INDIA 4760, 1647-1653, AIR Port Blair Feb 8 Presumed, with sub-contintental vocals over/under TWR Swaziland. Good signal and best on west Beverage. (Atkins-WA)

INDIA 4920, 1702-1705, AIR Chennai Feb 8 Exotic subcontinental music, with male announcer in Hindi or Tamil at 1704. Much stronger than faint Xizang PBS (China) signal co-channel in background. (Atkins-WA)

INDONESIA 3976, 1120-1127, RRI Pontianak Feb 7 Male announcer with poss. talk of regional politics, with mentions of Indonesia and Pakistan. Female Indo vocals at 1127. Excellent signal, but some co-channel ham interference. (Atkins-WA)

INDONESIA 4000.1, 1125-1135, RRI Kendari Feb 7 Two Indonesian announcers with talk and occasional mentions of Kendari. Good signal. The notch filters on the 756Pro are the best I've ever encountered, and did a great job on the big het that's usually present on this frequency. (Atkins-WA)

INDONESIA 4604.95, 1135-1147, RRI Serui Feb 7 Male announcer with 'RRI Serui' ID at tune-in, followed by brief news items with mentions of Indonesian cities and pauses in-between. Orchestral anthem at 1142, and into C&W style Indonesian music and vocals. Excellent signal. (Atkins-WA)

INDONESIA 4925, 1145-1201, RRI Jambi Feb 7 Playing a mix of Indonesian pops and US music; male announcer with 'RRI Jambi' ID 1159 and into Love Ambon tune briefly, then more pop music at 1200. Good signal. (Atkins-WA)

MADAGASCAR 5010, 1617-1633, R. National Malagasy Feb 8 Probable. Man and woman with discussion or interview in heavily African accented English, over/under AIR Thiruvananthapuram in Hindi. Good signal, but very difficult to follow due to the Indian at equal level. Language changed to pres. Malagasy 1628 with announcements by a man; brief drumming, then woman in French at 1631with possible mention of 'Malagache' beneath AIR's subcontinental music. I was surprised to hear English on this frequency at tune-in; unfortunately the level was so low I couldn't make out the subject or topic. (Atkins-WA)

NEW ZEALAND 3935.07, 1116-1121, ZLXA Levin Feb 7 Tentative. Threshold level of female announcer in English (seemed Kiwi accent) with monotone talk. Very weak with occasional ham QRM. Only audible on southwest Beverage antenna. (Atkins-WA)

NIGERIA 4770, 0510-0537, R. Nigeria Feb 7 Very tentative. I first tuned 4770 at 0510 and found a weak signal with threshold English language. Later checks revealed an African-sounding language as sunrise approached Lagos. The signal never improved, but stayed threshold. Gabon 4777 also in at a very good level. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3205, 1018-1031, R. West Sepik Feb 7 Two men in English with a discussion on PNG economics; many mentions of 'Kina'. Poor to fair signal. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3260, 1031-1034, R. Madang Feb 7 Male announcer in Pidgin with mentions of Madang at 1032 and 1035. Poor signal. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3275, 1035-1039, R. Southern Highlands Feb 7 Enjoyable PNG sing-sing music with female chorus and guitars; announcer in Pidgin. Too bad the signal was such a low level; tonight is a poor PNG propagation evening. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3315, 1041-1048, R. Manus Feb 7 Announcer in Pidgin with US pops tunes; seemed to be a music countdown program. 'R. Manus' ID noted at 1106 recheck. Fair. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3355, 1057-1101, R. Simbu Feb 7 PNG pop music 1057; male announcer at 1059 with announcements in Pidgin; 'R. Simbu' ID at 1100 with mentions of 'province'. Suddenly off without fanfare at 1101*. Other PNG stations still on, though. Poor-fair signal. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3385, 1048-, R. East New Britain Feb 7 Male announcer in Pidgin with slow, casual talk. Time check in English 'five minutes until 9 o'clock' at 1055; phone number and poss. quick ad for restaurant. Initially a poor-fair signal, but a recheck at 1107 revealed a good level with Pidgin language hymn and male chorus. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 3905, 1105-1111, R. New Ireland Feb 7 Presumed. Male announcer in Pidgin with mentions of 'tok tok' and 'come up long hearim...'. Poor level signal, with strong co-channel ham QRM from the New England Weather Net. No evidence of RRI Merauke on the frequency. (Atkins-WA)

PAPUA NEW GUINEA 4960, 1112-1116, Catholic Radio Network Feb 7 Talk or interview about Catholic and family planning issues. First noted at 1035 with Christian contemporary music. Poor-fair level, but seemed to be slowly improving. Also heard at 1707 on 2/8 with choir music; weak signal. (Atkins-WA)

SOLOMON ISLANDS 5019.9, 1737-1740, SIBC Feb 7 Honiara still in at a good level with BBC news relay in English, 2-1/2 hours past local sunrise. Panel discussion about economies of Middle Eastern countries. (Atkins-WA)

SOUTH AFRICA 3255, 0314-0318, BBC WS, Meyerton Feb 8 Two men with discussion in English about USA farm exports; fair signal and parallel to 5975 with a slight delay. Only audible via the backend of the southwest Beverage antenna. (Atkins-WA)

SOUTH AFRICA 3320, 0303-0312, R. Sonder Grense Feb 8 Two men with lively discussion in Afrikaans. Fair to good, and improving as sunrise approaches South Africa. (Atkins-WA)

SWAZILAND 4760, 1647-1652, TWR Mpangela Ranch Feb 8 Male preacher in African vernacular, over/under AIR Port Blair's sub-contintental vocals. Fair-good level and best on southwest Beverage. (Atkins-WA)

SWAZILAND 4774.95, 0409-0420, TWR Mpangela Ranch Feb 8 African choral music that sounded like a hymn at tune-in; religious organ music 0413; brief talk or meditation by man in what sounded like the German language (per WRTH sked), and into a series of short hymns by choir with organ accompaniment. Language switched to English at 0430, also per schedule. Faint signal. (Atkins-WA)

TAJIKISTAN 4965, 1603-1612, V. of Russia, Yangiyul Feb 7 While searching for R. Christian Voice, Zambia, I came across Voice of Russia on the frequency. Female newscaster with world news, VOR ID at 1607, and into light jazz. 'VOR World service' ID again at 1609 and 1611 by male announcer. Good. (Atkins-WA)

ZAMBIA 4910, 1634-1708, ZNBC Radio One Feb 7 Male announcer in African language, with sermon; numerous mentions of 'Janni' or 'Juani' and 'Patmos', which was likely a Bible story relating to the apostle John who was imprisoned on the Island of Patmos. Announcer with voice-over organ music at 1656; hymn and choir 1658; 2+1 time pips at 1700. Female announcer with possible ID and mentions of Lusaka 1701, followed by news items read by a man, mentioning Zambia, Angola, Malawi, and other locations. Choral anthem or national song at 1704. Bassy modulation. Very good signal, with AIR Jaipur faintly in background 1634-1650 with sub-continental music. Surprisingly strong even at 1 hour 40 minutes past local sunrise and peaking at 1705, which is Lusaka sunset. Still in at a fair to good level at 1735 recheck, 2+ hours past SR with fast-paced advertisement mentioning many African music styles such as makossa, soukous, mbqanga, hilife, and others. Also heard 2/8 with a good signal. (Atkins-WA)

ZAMBIA 4910, 0327-0338, ZNBC Radio One Feb 8 Fading up nicely with Afropops music and cheery male announcer in vernacular at 0330; mentions of Zambia and 'ZNBC'. I heard a clear mention of 'Radio Three' just before 0333; perhaps a promo for another network (?). 2+1 time pips at 0400 and into short vocal selection by female chorus. Good signal. (Atkins-WA)

ZAMBIA 4965, 0346-0355, Radio Christian Voice Feb 8 Tentative. Weak signal of Black Gospel music; traditional African choral music (hymn?) at 0348, but signal lost to the noise by 0355. (Atkins-WA)

ZAMBIA 4965, 1706-1715, R. Christian Voice Feb 8 Presumed. Woman in English giving web address ('www..' something) at tune-in; Christian contemporary music 1707; short prayer or devotion 1712, and into Black Gospel  music. Weak signal, nearly two hours past local sunrise. (Atkins-WA)

My friend had to take the knobs off to fix a minor problem on his R71A, and since the knobs were kinda funky, he put them in some cleaner and worked on the radio for a while they soaked. He got a call or something and left the PBT/NOTCH knob and collar soaking, the rest were done. When he remembered to take them out, they weren't exactly in great shape. He used some sort of cleaner that even ate the aluminum notch ring to the point it wouldn't stay on anymore. DOH!!!

I asked him why he couldn't have used plain old dish soap. He never even though about using that. He used some kind of car stuff...

I have the radio now, and trying to find that knob and collar is going to take a long time. It works great, but that missing knob bugs me...

Edildo, you're so dense you actually bend light.

2.4 to 2.2 is a DECREASE, period.  You can spin all you want, but it doesn't change that FACT.  One book to the next they were at the best, flat, but probably lost listeners.

In a way, the pro sports metaphor is appropriate.  Championship teams on the field are but a small percentage of the total, and they're not always profitable.  True ROI comes to the teams that are managed well as businesses.

Also, because many teams bid for his services, a player's remuneration is overwhelmingly determined by individual performance, whether his team wins or loses.

Excellent "condescention" -- you had to work at it, Edildo, but you are

Simple math:  2.2 < 2.4

Liberal math:  2.2 = Boo hoo!  It's not fair!

> 2.4 to 2.2 is a DECREASE, period. You can spin all you want, but it doesn't change that FACT. One book to the next they were at the best, flat, but probably lost listeners.

2.4 to a 2.2 is not a STATISTICAL decrease. Statistically, using Arbitron's margin of error formula based on share, diaries and population, a 2.2 and a 2.4 are within margin of error and are, thus, the same number.

There is no way to know, at that level, whether the station gained, lost or stayed the same.

I have an LA station that has been in the 2.4 to 2.7 range for a year, with no competitive changes among P2 or P3 stations. We consider it to be flat. If you look at the individual months, the range is 1.9 to 3.1, which, given that each month has 1/3 the sample, is also flat. So flatness is a 1.2 share range.

No matter how you spin it, there is nothing that can be concluded from a 0.2 share difference from book to book.

I could care less about the content. I am focusing on the numbers, which are statistically flat.

Display Stirs Controversy In Land Park

Soldier's Uniform Hangs From Noose In Front Of Home

POSTED: 7:58 am PST February 9, 2005
UPDATED: 1:43 pm PST February 9, 2005

SACRAMENTO, Calif. -- Nestled in a quiet Sacramento neighborhood is a very loud political statement that is testing the very foundation of the right to free speech.

Hanging from a house in Land Park, a soldier's uniform in a noose dangles from a rooftop. The words "your tax dollars at work" are scrolled across the chest.

In a community full of patriotism, this view of the war in Iraq has not gone unnoticed.

"I think it's the ultimate sign of disrespect. We have troops dying for us," Land Park resident Mark Cohen said.

"(I'm) annoyed and disgusted. I think if this is the way someone feels they can find a better way to vent their opinions," Land Park resident Pete Miles said.

The homeowners behind the controversy are Steve and Virginia Pearcy. They released a statement saying, "There will always be people who are offended by political speech, and the most important forum of all ... is one's own residence. The First Amendment is meaningless unless dissent is allowed."

Some neighbors agree.

"Even if you don't agree with it, he has the right to state his opinion. I don't find it offensive at all," Land Park resident Cece Williams said.

The tension in the neighborhood has escalated into more than just a political feud.

The matter has been reported to the police department and to the city attorney. The city council has even heard about it, but says they can't solve the problem.

"Unfortunately or fortunately this is protected speech by the First Amendment ... so there is nothing we can do about it," Sacramento City Councilman Rob Fong said.

KCRA 3 received a call late Wednesday morning from the homeowner saying that a group of people had torn down the display. He said that what he did was not illegal, but what was done by the people who removed the display was.

Anyone else notice this seller who was selling a total of eight DX-398's, all miraculously new and in mint condition, in box?

First thing that got me wondering what was why anyone would have nine of these radios,   The reason of "I am gradually quitting my radio collecting hobby to pursue my other passion in life which is vintage cars and trucks. Doing so is taking up all my free time which leaves me with no time with my radios anymore so all 8 of these Radio Shack units MUST GO NOW!!!" sounded rather bogus.  Collecting eight identical radios and letting them sitting around is a hobby now?  I suspect something else like customer returns that were liquidated at a high discount.  The radios might be new and appear mint in appearance, but I bet something is wrong with them.

In addition, the seller uses a lot of private auctions.  This leads me to think that something funny must have happened in the past.  For reference, another user who uses many private auctions is radio-mart.  Note a recent feedback comment, "NICE PACKING&SHIPPING JUST CAN'T GET THE RADIO TO WORK alan."

Another thing was, I emailed the seller asking for a picture of the radio on and tuned into a station.  I suggested WWV(H). The seller angrily retorted that the radios simply "worked."  The degree of functionality was not stated.  I think this is a reasonable request for an E-bay auction--the single blurry picture provided, of just one of the eight original units, with just the clock functioning is not adequate.  I've heard of radios that were broken except for the clock before.

Anyways, I'm steering clear for these reasons.  If I was new to this newsgroup and to shortwave radios, I might have bit.

The document was central to debates in the 9/11 hearings over the Bush administration's policies and actions on terrorism before September 11, 2001. Clarke's memo requests an immediate meeting of the National Security Council's Principals Committee to discuss broad strategies for combating al-Qaeda by giving counterterrorism aid to the Northern Alliance and Uzbekistan, expanding the counterterrorism budget and responding to the U.S.S. Cole attack. Despite Clarke's request, there was no Principals Committee meeting on al-Qaeda until September 4, 2001.

Responding to claims that she ignored the al-Qaeda threat before September 11, Rice stated in a March 22, 2004 Washington Post op-ed, "No al Qaeda plan was turned over to the new administration."

They were done. They were done after September 11th. They were all done. I didn't really understand why they couldn't have been done in February."

"Tab B, September 1998 Paper: Pol-Mil Plan for al-Qida," also known as the Delenda Plan, was attached to the original memo, but was not released to the Archive and remains under request with the National Security Council.

The resulting paper, titled "A Strategy for Eliminating the Threat from the Jihadist Networks of Al Qaida; Status and Prospects," reviewed the threat, the records to date, incorporated the CIA's new ideas from the Blue Sky memo, and posed several near-term policy choices. The goal was to roll back Al Qaida over a period of three to five years, reducing it eventually to a rump group like others formerly feared but now largely defunct terrorist organizations in the 1980s. Quote, "Continued anti-Al Qaida operations at the current level will prevent some attacks, but will not seriously attrite their ability to plan and conduct attacks," Clarke and his staff wrote.

> Asked by Hadley to offer major initiatives, on January 25, 2001 Clarke forwarded his December 2000 strategy paper and a copy of his 1998 Delenda plan to the new national security adviser, Condoleezza Rice. Clarke laid out a proposed agenda for urgent action by the new Administration: Approval of covert assistance to the Northern Alliance; significantly increase funding; choosing a standard of evidence for attributing responsibility for the Cole and deciding on a response; going forward with new Predator missions in the spring and preparation of an armed version; and more work on terrorist fundraising.

> Clarke asked on several occasions for early principals meetings on these issues, and was frustrated that no early meeting was scheduled. No principals committee meetings on Al Qaida were held until September 4th, 2001. Rice and Hadley said this was because the deputies committee needed to work through many issues relating to the new policy on Al Qaida. The principals committee did meet frequently before September 11th on other subjects, Rice told us, including Russia, the Persian Gulf and the Middle East peace process. Rice and Hadley told us that, although the Clinton administration had worked very hard on the Al Qaida program, its policies on Al Qaida, quote, "had run out of gas," and they therefore set about developing a new presidential directive and a new, comprehensive policy on terrorism.

You include helping the Northern Alliance, covert aid, significant new '02 budget authority to help fight Al Qaida and a response to the USS Cole. You attach to this document both the Delenda Plan of 1998 and a strategy paper from December 2000.
> Do you get a response to this urgent request for a principals meeting on these? And how does this affect your time frame for dealing with these important issues?
> CLARKE: I did get a response, and the response was that in the Bush administration I should, and my committee, counterterrorism security group, should report to the deputies committee, which is a sub-Cabinet level committee, and not to the principals and that, therefore, it was inappropriate for me to be asking for a principals' meeting. Instead, there would be a deputies meeting.
> ROEMER: So does this slow the process down to go to the deputies rather than to the principals or a small group as you had previously done?
> CLARKE: It slowed it down enormously, by months. First of all, the deputies committee didn't meet urgently in January or February. Then when the deputies committee did meet, it took the issue of Al Qaida as part of a cluster of policy issues, including nuclear proliferation in South Asia, democratization in Pakistan, how to treat the various problems, including narcotics and other problems in Afghanistan, and launched on a series of deputies meetings extending over several months to address Al Qaida in the context of all of those inter-related issues. That process probably ended, I think in July of 2001. So we were ready for a principals meeting in July. But the principals calendar was full and then they went on vacation, many of them in August, so we couldn't meet in August, and therefore the > ROEMER: You then wrote a memo on September 4th to Dr. Rice expressing some of these frustrations several months later, if you say the time frame is May or June when you decided to resign. A memo comes out that we have seen on September the 4th. You are blunt in blasting DOD for not willingly using the force and the power. You blast the CIA for blocking Predator. You urge policy-makers to imagine a day after hundreds of Americans lay dead at home or abroad after a terrorist attack and ask themselves what else they could have done. You write this on September the 4th, seven days before September 11th.

> CLARKE: Well, all of the things that we recommended in the plan or strategy -- there's a lot of debate about whether it's a plan or a strategy or a series of options -- but all of the things we recommended back in January were those things on the table in September. They were done. They were done after September 11th. They were all done. I didn't really understand why they couldn't have been done in February.

> TIMOTHY J. ROEMER: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Having served on the joint inquiry, the only person of this 9/11 panel to have served on the inquiry, I can say in open session to some of Mr. Fielding's inquiries that as the joint inquiry asked for information on the National Security Council and we requested that the National Security Adviser Dr. Rice come before the joint inquiry and answer those questions. She refused. And she didn't come. She didn't come before the 9/11 commission. And when we asked for some questions to be answered, Mr. Hadley answered those questions in a written form. So I think part of the answer might be that we didn't have access to the January 25th memo. We didn't have access to the September 4th memo. We didn't have access to many of the documents and the e-mails. We're not only talking about Mr. Clarke being before the 9/11 commission for more than 15 hours, but I think in talking to the staff, we have hundreds of documents and e-mails that we didn't previously have, which hopefully informs us to ask Mr. Clarke and ask Dr. Rice the tough questions.

> Also in this August 2002 interview, Clarke noted the Bush administration, in mid-January of 2001--before the 9/11 attack--decided to do two things to respond to the threat of terrorism: "One, to vigorously pursue the existing policy, including all the lethal covert action finds which we have now made public, to some extent; the second thing the administration decided to do was to initiate a process to look at these issues which had been on the table for a couple of years and get them decided.''
> In other words, what Clarke was saying in 2002 to members of the press was that the Bush administration's response to the war on terror was much more aggressive than it was under the Clinton years.
> Now he is singing an entirely different tune. This is a man who lacks credibility. He may be an intelligent man, he may be a dedicated public servant, but clearly he has a grudge of some sort against the Bush administration. If he was unable to develop a more robust response during the Clinton years, he would only be able to blame himself. He was in charge of counterterrorism during those 8 years. How could the Bush administration be to blame in 8 months for the previous administration's failure over 8 years to truly declare war on al-Qaida?

> When the administration wants to bolster its public case, there is little that appears too sensitive to be declassified.
> Now, people around the President want to release parts of Mr. Clarke's earlier testimony in 2002. According to news reports, the CIA is already working on declassifying that testimony--at the administration's request.
> And last week several documents were declassified literally overnight, not in an effort to provide information on a pressing policy matter to the American people, but in an apparent effort to discredit a public servant who gave 30 years of service to the American Government.
> I'll support declassifying Mr. Clarke's testimony before the Joint Inquiry, but the administration shouldn't be selective. Consistent with our need to protect sources and methods, we should declassify his entire testimony. And to make sure that the American people have access to the full record as they consider this question, we should also declassify his January 25 memo to Dr. Rice, the September 4, 2001 National Security Directive dealing with terrorism, Dr. Rice's testimony to the 9-11 Commission, the still-classified 28 pages from the House-Senate inquiry relating to Saudi Arabia, and a list of the dates and topics of all National Security Council meetings before September 4, 2001.

Dick Clarke had in his memo on the 20th of January overt military operations as a -- he turned that memo around in 24 hours, Dr. Clarke. There were a lot of plans in place in the Clinton administration, military plans in the Clinton administration. In fact, just since we're in the mood to declassify stuff, he included in his January 25th memo two appendixes: Appendix A, "Strategy for the Elimination of the Jihadist Threat of al Qaeda;" Appendix B, "Political- Military Plan for al Qaeda."

Right like a guy will collect (8) of the same radios!!! I sold mine that was new a while back for $135.00 with all documentation, box, etc. This guy wants $205.00 BuyItNow, WTF?

It was '57 or '58

I'd been saving and saving.

Finally could afford a Hallicrafters SX ??
It was a 5 tube AC/DC radio.

Unfortunately, they put all their engineering prowess into making it "look capable".

What a crappy radio !
No sensitivity, no selectivity....

Hell has open it,s gate to trick me.
Oh! Death, Oh! Death, can't you spare me, over for another year!
I'll stuff your jaws till you can't talk
I'll blind your leg's till you can't walk
I'll tie your hands till you can't make a

Oh, Anna Why Didn�t You Appear
T� was perfect plan of deviant pleasure so bold on that Spring nite
My inner felling hot with propension of the new awakening season Warn, wet with inner fear and rapture, my pleasure of entanglement, like new vines at night

Oh, Anna, Why Didn�t You Appear
Drop of fear fresh Spring rain would roll down from your nakedness to scent to lofty fever that burns within,
In that small world of longing, fear, rapture, and desparation, the game
we play, fall on devil ears Fantasy spring forth, mounts, to storm fury, then winter clam at the end.
Oh, Anna Why Didn�t You Appear
Alone, now in another time span I lay with sweet enrapture garments across most private thought Bed of Spring moist grass, clean before the sun, enslaved with control, warm wind scenting the air, sun light sparkle tears in eyes so deep and clear.
Alone again I trod in pass memory of mirrors, and ponder why for number eight was not.
Oh, Anna Why Didn�t You Appear

Those radios take knowledge and work to bring them up to par. I have a SX-42 and 28 that have great ears. I've owned a lot of vintage gear that would give modern rigs a run for their money.

What if the Roman Empire had short wave before the end of the first century ???

If the Roman Imperial government had their own "Praetorian Short Wave Guards" that could get the point across quicker then the famed "Roman Roads", what kind world would we have today ??? Better or worse ??? As so many historians have said, the so called "fall" of the Roam Empire cost the world in general a few hundred years in social and technological evolution. IMO although the Romans had gladiatorial games (American football without regular mortalities) and slavery... (below poverty class but they actually had a fine Greek education open to them as well as a chance to break out and gain freedom), were by far and away the most socially advanced and religiously inclusive society that ever graced the planet.

I cant help thinking what might have been if they had the capability to get the message across the globe in seconds.

When Scipio Africanus pushed Hannibal Barca aside, and Julius Cesar corralled the Gauls, with a shortwave transmitter, we may have had world peace about 2,000 years ago.

Yes... A retarded but interesting question.  IMO technology came a few thousand years too late.

Michael

For a bit of history, check out Cromwell.

The movie " A Man for all Seasons" with  Paul Scofield is pretty good too.
His portrayal of Thomas More is excellent. It's worth watching.

Yeah, the norm for me is very strong signal S9 to +10dB on a folded dipole and a flat horizontal loop. No amplifiers. When conditions are right and the band is hot they can be as much as +30dB average.

CF & JD,
FWIW - A "New-in-the-Box" Sangean ATS-909 {RadioShack DX-398} sells for $220 on Amazon.Com
http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/tg/detail/-/B0000228GG/104-7651851-7542315

The Shortwave Store has the Sangean ATS-909 for $240 http://usa.shortwavestore.com/sangean-ats909.html#order
C. Crane Co  has the Sangean ATS-909 for $260

Grove-Enterprise.Com has the Sangean ATS-909 for $240
http://www.grove-ent.com/ATS909.html
RadioLabs  has the Sangean ATS-909 for $250
http://www.radiolabs.com/products/receivers/ats909.php
What he is trying to do is offer these older "?" Discontinued and Out-of-Stock RadioShack DX-398s at a slightly lower Price-Point.
PRICE - From the Buyers Prespective the Price-Point should be about 70% of the Average OnLine Discount Price {$245} roughly $170 for these "?"

Questionable New-in-the-Box Radios.
New & Mint Radio Shack DX-398 AM/FM LW Shortwave Radio sold by "DevoCom73" on eBay
http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=5749557980
So a Starting Bid of $165 plus $15 for Shipping and Handling is not bad:  But I would NOT Bid any more than that [.]

Sorry sheep licker - Iraq had nothing to do with terrorism. Just a gov't that might have had the capability of launching dirty nukes at us. We discovered they didn't have that capability. So we should get out. You're making stuff up. LMAO at the marooon>>>

Maybe he's not a fan and wants to make a dart board? A friend of mine took a pic of a hated teacher in Jr High, and made her face into a target in one version, and a dartboard in another. I bought several
and still is!

I confirmed the impedance requirements of this filter is suitable for the AR7030. Now looking at the filter and the AOR daughter board, I realize that the Kenwood crystal filter is in itself on a daughterboard. I can't put this filter/daughterboard combo on the AR daughter board as the connectors on the Kenwood daughter board hang out too far, blocking access to screws on the AR7030.

Now looking at the PCB pattern on the AR7030 filter board, it looks like there is a standard layout for these filters. That is, the PCB used on the Kenwood filter is similar to the pattern on the AR board. The screws line up as well.

So this leads to my question. Does anyone perceive a problem of removing the screws on the Kenwood PCB and then desoldering the Kenwood PCB. I would then solder the filter to the AOR daughterboard.

A good thing I'm only into this $10. ;-)

You should be fine, as long as you are careful when you desolder the crystal filter pins.

There is a Canadian program called "History Bytes" (http://www.historybites.com/) that is unknown and unseen in the US.

I don't believe any PBS station in the US will ever run it as it is educational in nature.

The US upper and ruling class are terrified that any history might be learned, as it allows them total freedom from precedence...

== www.ssp.ca publicity text ==

Why is it that most people can't list the first three leaders of their country but can tell you the name of every contestant that appeared on Survivor?

Because Survivor is on TV.

History Bites is a skit comedy show that explores the premise, "What if television had been around for the past 5,000 years?" Each episode channel surfs through a particular day in history and the result is a history lesson hidden inside a clever spoof of TV.

Creator and host Rick Green takes the viewer on a journey with his trusty remote, up and down the dial for a hilarious look at what Regis Philbin might offer to a peasant during the reign of Vlad the Impaler, then what pronouncements Judge Judy would have for blue collar Transylvanians and even an in depth 20/20 interview with Vlad at home.

On History Bites, you might see Nero singing (badly) on Letterman or explorer Henry Hudson taping his own version of the Blair Witch Project.

Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine as Madonna and Henry the VIII's wife Catherine

Howard as Princess Di - how easy could a history lesson be?

At the same time HB offers a wide look at the daily life concerns of the era by spoofing hygiene commercials, Martha Stewart and sports with Don Cherry.

That's History Bites.
The past on the tube.
Channel surfing through the ages.
They say those who forget the past are destined to repeat it.
Well now, on History Bites, reality is in reruns.

Forget radio, what if the Romans had thought of Semaphore?  In the time of Napoleon, semaphore towers could convey official messages from Paris to Rome in 20 minutes.  I imagine that a just-sent "The Huns are approching. We are burning all records," would bring help faster than a guy riding a horse as fast as possible.  An elaborate system could even have had room for a newswire type of service, where space was available, with slaves copying down messages to be read to the masses.

It is possible they could have come up with some sort of Telegraph system way back then if somebody had thought of it.I forget which country it was discovered (Italy,I think) in not many years ago,but a sort of a clay bowl/pot thingy was discovered and in the middle of the pot is an iron anode rod.It is claimed by some folks they used it for electroplating.There were some very smart people way back then.

Yes the NPR Audience has been Listening since the 1970s and they still Listen Today.   They make-up a good part of the Liberal 'enlightened' Listeners that Air America wants to 'needs to' Attract today grow and sustain itself in the future.
Before Air America - The present and future Air America Listeners had to Listen to some Radio.  And a good percentage of NPR Radio Listeners are 'potential' Air America Listeners.
IMHO - More NPR 'type' Listeners will become Air America Listeners then Rush Limbaugh Listeners would be become Air America Listeners.

Fred Vurobaravu - Vanuatu Daily Post
Friday, February 11, 2005

The management of the Vanuatu Broadcasting and Television Corporation has announced the resurrection of its short wave transmitter, which was fired up 4pm last Tuesday.

The people around the country who receive Radio Vanuatu services through the short wave frequency can now hear the station again on 7260 KHz.

Prime Minister and Minister responsible for media Ham Lini specially acknowledged the commitment and dedication of Radio Vanuatu senior technician Willie Daniel with the technical support of the consultant Hendrick Kettner to overcome the defaulted radio transmission wave link.

The transmitter went down during the week of Christmas. For seven weeks VBTC technicians, led by Acting Technician Manager Daniel, sweated to revive the transmitter.

Midway through January, Kettner was brought in to assist. At the same time spare parts supplied by Radio Australia boosted their repair efforts.

Mr Kettner said the problem was a series of faults in many areas of the transmitter, which took them time to identify and rectify.
He said the final answer to the puzzle was located Tuesday morning. In the afternoon it was fixed and at 4 pm the transmitter was successfully fired up.

The management has decided to allow the transmitter to run for a few weeks before work begins to fix the faulty component for switching from the daytime frequency of 7260 KHz to the night time frequency of 3940 KHz.

For now listeners in some parts of the country will experience loss of signal starting from 5 pm to 7 am the next day. But during the day, the signal should be clear.

The prime minister's office also thanked Rod Newel for the provision of the services of his company the Renerel Tech Ltd to VBTC when the short wave transmission was down for the last few months.

Radio reception in the islands is heavily reliant on the transmitter functioning well. The President of the Republic of Vanuatu Kalkot Mataskelekele has made repeated calls to have the radio transmissions in the islands reopened so that people can have access to news, information and entertainment.

According to 2004 survey results published in the January/February issue of The DX Magazine http://www.dxpub.com/, North Korea (P5) remains atop DXers' "most-wanted" lists for DXCC.

"It was a real surprise to see North Korea at the top of the most-wanted list," commented The Daily DX http://www.dailydx.com/ Editor Bernie McClenny, W3UR. The most-recent P5 operation was by Ed Giorgadze, P5/4L4FN, in 2001 and 2002, during which he logged more than 16,000 QSOs.

Number two on the list is Andaman and Nicobar Islands (VU4), although a post-survey DXpedition in December likely diminished worldwide demand, despite being cut short by the tsunami.

In third place--but topping the list in four US time zones--was Scarborough Reef (BS7). Fourth is Lakshadweep (VU7), and fifth is Yemen (7O). A DXpedition set for this month from number six Peter Island (3Y/P) could blunt demand for that rare one. Rounding out the top 10 are Navassa Island (KP1) and Desecheo Island (KP5), both under jurisdiction of the US Fish and Wildlife Service which has denied visitation permission, Bouvet (3Y/B) and Kure Island (KH7K).

McClenny, who also edits "How's DX?" for QST, notes there's still a large demand for VU4, but he expressed guarded optimism that the VU4RBI/VU4NRO DXpedition's emergency communication operation following the December 29 earthquake and tsunami would make Indian authorities more willing to allow future DXpeditions. "Keep you fingers crossed," he said.

I am using Ham Scope and Mmtty to decode RTTY with my sound card. It works fine for hame radio operators but I have found RTTY on non-ham frquencies and all I get is garbage. For example, there is an RTTY signal at approximately 2.042 MHZ at 1100 UTC on the West Coast and all that displays is random characters. I suspect it has something to do with the protocol or baud rate settings. Anyone know what they might be? Not sure if this is maritime station or not. Thanks.

The ARRL Letter, Vol 24, No 06
Website: http://www.arrl.org/ on February 11, 2005

Local telecommunication authorities in Austria have sent a "first-step" legal notice to Linz Strom GmbH (Linz Power), calling on the utility to "take necessary technical measures" to operate its "Speed-Web" broadband over power line (BPL) system so it doesn't cause interference to other telecommunication equipment. Joseph Ibinger, who heads the Upper Austria-Salzburg field office for the Federal Ministry for Commerce, Innovation and Technology (BMVIT), told Linz Power in late December that interference mentioned in complaints is definitely coming from the utility's BPL system. From the time the BPL installation was a pilot project, radio amateurs have been among the most vocal in expressing their displeasure, blaming BPL for causing excessive interference on HF bands throughout the City of Linz. The Austrian Amateur Transmitter Federation (�sterreichischer Versuchssenderverband--�VSV), Austria's International Amateur Radio Union (IARU) member-society, praised the action, which the utility is very likely to appeal.

"The Austrian Amateur Radio Society applauds this decision of local authorities and notes that radio users have repeatedly indicated the problem of unwanted radiation from unshielded mains wiring," said �VSV President Michael Zwingl, OE3MZC. "The recent decision will be an example for authorities in other European countries facing similar problems in BPL trials."

In October 2003, Linz Power received a similar letter from local telecommunications authorities asking the utility to "remove the illegal interference" on the HF bands generated by the utility's BPL then-pilot project. As a result, Zwingl says, the utility took legal action against �VSV.

Assuming an appeal by Linz Power, the BMVIT must move Ibinger's initial response--essentially the equivalent of a warning notice or citation--up to the next level, and it could take up to six months to resolve the matter. Zwingl says if the federal authorities affirm the local decision, they could prohibit operation of the BPL system. As it now stands, the utility was given a month to resolve the interference.

Zwingl said �VSV has been unable to obtain a copy of the actual decision and was only able to obtain details of the document in January by working through a "peoples' lawyer," essentially a legal ombudsman who runs interference between the Austrian federal government and citizens.

According to legal ombudsman Peter Kostelka's report to Zwingl, the telecommunication authorities cited Linz Power's use of unshielded wiring to transport data signals, resulting in constant emissions that interfere with short wave bands as "an undesirable byproduct" of the system.

The Linz Power BPL system boasts upward of 4000 "satisfied customers" out of the 40,000 in its service area. It offers its basic service for ?24 a month; a faster version goes for ?42 a month, both less installation charges. Speed-Web uses Main.net BPL technology.

Zwingl said the recent official decree followed "some years of complaints and investigations" into the Linz Power BPL project.
"We put pressure on officials to not just take measurements but also to react by all legal means," he said. "It took us some time, but we never agreed with the opinion of some authorities who have made a judgment between the importance of ham radio and BPL." Zwingl maintains that Austria's telecommunication rules conform with International Telecommunication Union (ITU) regulations and "protect radio services and spectrum regardless of subjective importance."

Linz Power Executive Josef Heizinger reportedly reacted calmly to the field office decision. "We are absolutely in the right, legally, and will continue the BPL development according to plan," he's quoted in the media. In another interview, Heizinger declared that "simultaneous problem-free operation of BPL and Amateur Radio equipment is possible," and he blamed a small group of dissident radio amateurs for trying to discredit "this innovative and economical technology."

Linz Strom blames the few radio interference problems its system has caused on "defective equipment," and says it's resolved those cases promptly.

�VSV continues to insist that in its current form BPL--also known in German-speaking countries as "Internet from the Electrical Outlet"--is incompatible with HF reception.

Much of the RTTY that you'll receive on non HAM frequencies will be encrypted.
That is probably why you'll receive the random characters even though you might have the protocol and baud settings correct.

Most hams are received in the LSB mode.  Comercial statisons usually are received in the USB mode or the reversed mark/space relationship.   Also the speed (baud rate) and shift are usually differant than the normal ham 45 baud (60 wpm) and 170 Hz shift.

This is why shortwave sucks.  Here is the break down.

10,000 shortwave broadcasters.

4000 foreign language
2000 too weak to hear
3000 religion
1000 boring shows

I agree.  That's what I have and am very happy with it.  Got it for

I hesitated on buying the 7600GR because it lacked a tuning knob.  Now that I have it, not only do I not miss the tuning knob, I wouldn't want a radio with one. I like how I can just scan across the channels with the touch of the button.

The October surprise ... five months late

There are two scandals in today's NY Times story on just-declassified portions of the 9/11 Commission report that detail the many specific warnings about al Qaeda the FAA received:

The first is the dangerous incompetence of the FAA and of airport security in the months leading up to September 11th.

The second is that this was not released before the election. That feels, sounds, tastes, and smells like election fraud.

During the commission hearings and when its report was released, based on what we were told, I was one of those who said the blame for not stopping the attacks could not fall on one administration, neither Clinton nor Bush. But now we are told this:

The report discloses that the Federal Aviation Administration, despite being focused on risks of hijackings overseas, warned airports in the spring of 2001 that if "the intent of the hijacker is not to exchange hostages for prisoners, but to commit suicide in a spectacular explosion, a domestic hijacking would probably be preferable."

The report takes the F.A.A. to task for failing to pursue domestic security measures that could conceivably have altered the events of Sept. 11, 2001, like toughening airport screening procedures for weapons or expanding the use of on-flight air marshals. The report, completed last August, said officials appeared more concerned with reducing airline congestion, lessening delays, and easing airlines' financial woes than deterring a terrorist attack.

The Bush administration has blocked the public release of the full, classified version of the report for more than five months, officials said, much to the frustration of former commission members who say it provides a critical understanding of the failures of the civil aviation system. The administration provided both the classified report and a declassified, 120-page version to the National Archives two weeks ago and, even with heavy redactions in some areas, the declassified version provides the firmest evidence to date about the warnings that aviation officials received concerning the threat of an attack on airliners and the failure to take steps to deter it.

Among other things, the report says that leaders of the F.A.A. received 52 intelligence reports from their security branch that mentioned Mr. bin Laden or Al Qaeda from April to Sept. 10, 2001. That represented half of all the intelligence summaries in that time.

Five of the intelligence reports specifically mentioned Al Qaeda's training or capability to conduct hijackings, the report said. Two mentioned suicide operations, although not connected to aviation, the report said....

The F.A.A. did not see a need to increase the air marshal ranks because hijackings were seen as an overseas threat, and one aviation official told the commission said that airlines did not want to give up revenues by providing free seats to marshals.

The F.A.A. also made no concerted effort to expand their list of terror suspects, which included a dozen names on Sept. 11, the report said. The former head of the F.A.A.'s civil aviation security branch said he was not aware of the government's main watch list, called Tipoff, which included the names of two hijackers who were living in the San Diego area, the report said.

Nor was there evidence that a senior F.A.A. working group on security had ever met in 2001 to discuss "the high threat period that summer," the report said.

Now we must know who decided to classify this material and keep it from the nation before the election. Who and why?

Why would I lie?  What purpose would it serve?

Learn to think.  Who has the motivation to lie?  Certainly not me.  I wish it wasn't true.  But hiding won't help.

Well, of COURSE you can't believe yourself!  You KNOW you are morally and intellectually incapable of reading the clear evidence I offered you, thinking independently, and coming to a rational conclusion.

No, you are only capable of being a good little Bush-cultist sheep, accepting whatever the Bush-designated authority tells you as gospel, even when your own eyes would tell you otherwise.

Ignorance must truly be bliss for you to cling so fervently to it.

Okay, I have some questions about RTTY:

1.  What unencrypted RTTY traffic is out there besides hams?

2.  What sort of encoder would I need to read RTTY with my NRD-525 and what do I need to know to get it functioning?

3.  My receiver has an RTTY mode.  What exactly does that do in my receiver? Couldn't I just use USB or LSB?

Thanks,

Greg

Yep, nobody is 'smarter' than lil' Tommy Betz.

You and David Rickets need to get together and take a look at the meds you're both obviously taking and perhaps together you might come to the realization that they just aren't working.

After that, you might ask mommy to take you back to the doctor.

I am not sure about RTTY that is not ham now.  I doubt much is in use.
There used to be some  using other shifts and upside down from the ham standard.

You may find a list on rtty.com

YOu can use your computer with the built in sound card.  There are several free programs you can use .  MMTTY is a good one to start with.

Go here to get the programs.

http://www.muenster.de/~welp/sb.htm

YOu just hook the sound card input to the speaker or output of the receiver. Even a mic on the computer layed next to the speakers will work in a quiet location.

> 3.  My receiver has an RTTY mode.  What exactly does that do in my receiver?
> Couldn't I just use USB or LSB?

The reciever will go to either the LSB or USB mode but the filters will be shifted so they will be centered at higher audio frequencies.  The normal ham rtty audio tones are 2125 hz and 2295 hz for the normal 170 hz shift. In real use the receiver could be tuned so that almost any lower frequencies are comming out of the speaker and the demodulator (converter or sound card freqwuencies) set for the lower frequencies.  The way it was done in the precomputer days were with fixed filters and it was hard to change the tuning of them.  By using lsb and the mark tone of 2125 (think that was a multple of some audio tuning fork but not sure)  the tuning was simplified.

You can use LSB for most ham and USB for the comercial rtty.  You may or may not be able to use the narrow filters in the receiver.  I don't know exectally how that receiver switches the filers in and out.

IIRC it can. Grab the service manual to be sure, it can be found on the 'net. (I think I got mine from one of the 7600-related Yahoo! Groups.)
It lists the voltages on various places depending on which band the receiver is tuned to when an external antenna is connected.

No idea. Maybe I'll get me an SW07 one day, currently it's still too expensive for my taste...

It's not that simple. Do a search on the Council of Whitby, 644 AD, if you're interested.  The King of Northumbria decided in favour of the Roman versus indigenous Celtic church at that time.  Archbishop Cranmer, when he wrote up the first Book of Common Prayer, specifically returned to the traditions of the ancient church of the British Isles.  You could "spin" this and say that he only took advantage of Henry's marital issues, and you would be cozy with the Roman Catholic propaganda of many centuries.  You can certainly denigrate a church if you promote that the founding of it was based on someone's desire for divorce.  That would be like saying the Roman Catholic Church is based on Peter's three times denial of Christ in His our of need.

I've an R-75 with 100 m (330 feet or so) antenna.  The signal has been quite good for me.  No fading at all last night here.  Night still starts about 2300 UTC here, ending about 1430.  RA this morning was excellent.

| Idiot alert. This news item is from 10 months ago.

You know, the fact that this is starting to look like an urban legend suggests (and, admittedly, can't prove) that the right-wingnuts we're seeing here have started to be a little concerned that Air America is making room for discussions on issues with a viewpoint contrary to their own. For a number of years, now, with the suspension of the Fairness Doctrine, this group has had unfettered confirmation of their flawed view of the world (this, consistent with my studies which show that the media can create a pseudoreality inconsistent with the real world, but functions as though real-world principles work...for a while) and now that there may be a chance that they might hear something which would shatter those misperceptions, they use any means possible, including lies and smears, to avoid having to confront those fears.

This is consistent with the manner in which the last Presidential campaign was executed...get a group who has no compulsion for the truth, and no inhibitions about sharing a lie, which undermined a challenger with once-strong chances to unseat the government in power through smears and vaguely-true references asserting that their claims must be true.

I meant to applaud you, by the way, when you revealed that you were a member, at some risk to your life, of a patriotic opposition to the government of Ecuador in the 70s.  And this speaks volumes on why you think the U-S is a much freer society, with the sorts of constitutional protections which would make the sort of anti-democratic assumption of dictatorial powers impossible here.  Yet I wonder...are you, possibly, like a frog in a kettle of water, being heated so slowly that you don't know you're getting cooked?  I see it all around, but that's because I grew up at a time when the U-S was on a path to finally expanding the freedoms guaranteed in our Constitution, people were, voluntarily or through federal actions, becoming more tolerant and relativistic, and the nation as a whole was becoming more diverse through immigration and the attractiions of the American Dream.  But the American Dream is gone, assailed as it is by efforts to restore the tax policies of the 1920s (remember those days and what it led to?) and destroying the middle class, whose previous contributions to the consumer society built in post war times made the U-S the economic powerhouse it was.  The Constitution, and our system of government is broken, and I've jumped out of the pot.  I encourage everyone who has been deluded into thinking that the United States is still the best country in the world to do a reality check and get the heat turned off, or face the fate of the frog, too comfortably warm to realise that he won't survive the heat.

Okay, thanks for the info Ralph.  I haven't gone to the links yes but I'm betting there's not a lot of RTTY software for my Apple computer.  That's why I thought of a standalone decoder, like an MFJ or something.  But it's probably not worth the trouble if, as you say, there isn't much RTTY traffic out there.

I remember seeing that exact artifact on a documentary I saw about three years ago on the Discovery Channel. No question about it, people were just as smart a few thousand years ago as they are today. Although there have been advances in technology, the human IQ has not increased at all since the days of the classical civilizations like the Romans or the ancient Greeks. I always get a kick out of how modern day man looks back on older civilizations and sums them up as backwards or superstitious because archeologists find the remains of their religious accoutrements, religious buildings or written accounts of their religious practices. At the same time we view ourselves as modern, enlightened and advanced. That reasoning is flawed. Say for instance, all the people on Earth now decided to leave for the stars or something like that. Then, ten thousand years later, a group of humans archeologists return to Earth to uncover how the civilizations of the 2000's lived their lives. No question that those future archeologists would find a church on every corner. They'd say... Hey, man.. Those guys were a bunch of superstitious nuts. These churches are everywhere. They used religion and superstition to explain everything that their meager level of scientific understanding couldn't figure out. And, hey... Look at this... There are these four wheeled things all over the place. And those maniacs burned fossil fuels to make them go. That's right, they poisoned their own planet. Those guys weren't smart, they were suppositious and destructive. No wonder they started to use radio signals to the stars until they got another raced to show up and get them out of this place :-)

(I got radio in there) :-)

Michael

IIRC - Did not the 'original' Star Trek TV Series have an Episode that had a Theme where a Planet was found/visited where there was a Roman Imperial 'like' Culture that had held together; and had Radio and TV as part of its Modern Means of Informing and Controlling the Populous.

Thanks for sharing your logs Guy.
One of these days I've got to head over to the west coast and give Pacific

Yes... I'm a huge fan of the original Star Trek series. That was a second season episode called "Bread And Circuses". It was a depiction of exactly what this string has been about. Kirk, Spock and McCoy go to a planet to investigate the loss of a space ship and its crew. When they get to the planet they find a world where Rome never fell. It was Rome with 20th century technology. They had broadcast media, fire arms and the entire host of familiar 20th century devices. In the episode you even get to see modern media advertisements for products called "Neptune Bath Salts" and the "Jupiter 8" automobile. Although It was Rome with "modern" technology, they were no more socially advance then the Rome of antiquity that we know. They still had the defects of gladiatorial games and slavery. You got to watch Spock and McCoy fight in televised gladiatorial games with swords and shields while they were being covered off camera with Roman soldiers that had automatic machine guns. At the end of the episode, we learn that this particular Roman empire is also destine to take a fall due to the rise of a new theology that sounded conspicuously like Christianity. It wasn't one of the best Trek episodes, but it was a good concept to depict a Rome that never fell. Still... I dont see how a modern day Rome would have maintained arrested social development as was depicted in the episode. Thanx for pointing that Trek episode out. I wasn't even thinking of that :-)

Michael

I agree with you in that Robert Green used to be very funny with his weekly round-up of what happened in Europe and Holland during the previous week; it reminded me of Paul Harvey in this country (USA). I actually made a point of listening to RNW every Saturday night just to hear him.

It is unfortunate that now his weekly commentary is almost completely political, and all negative against the Bush administration. I wouldn't mind this anti-Bush approach if it were still in his old style, with clever sarcastic humor just poking fun at the events of the day.

What used to be a five minute segment of great radio is now nothing more than propoganda, and even if I were to agree with this anti-Bush approach, I couldn't enjoy it knowing that Mr. Green used to be so entertaining.

I am going to email RNW and send them a copy of this post.  Its not that I expect them to pull the plug or even reign in Mr. Green, but hopefully they will understand that his weekly commentary had been a true gem in the world of radio, and that they should not just let it disappear into the ether simply because of politics.

Sunday 13 February 2005

Following on from the Spectrum Framework Review and the Annual Plan, the RSGB has learned that Ofcom plans to enter into a further consultation. The next consultation is aimed at the amateur radio community and will be entitled 'The Future of Amateur Radio Licensing'. The document is expected to be published towards the end of February and will lay out a number of proposals for consultation on the future shape of amateur radio licensing. Talks between Ofcom and the RSGB on the future direction of amateur radio in the UK continue with meetings scheduled to take place throughout February.

Asses like you remind me of the stupid caucasian Anglo/American that has lost his way on the x-way but keeps getting deeper into unknown territory but will not stop to ask directions.By the way I created  the word zionazi to show the relationship of the zionist to the Faith Based Christian nazi mentality. And it has been nothing but down hill for zionists ever since.
That was over 5 years ago, I believe I first used it on soc.culture.palestine or maybe it was ab.poliics. Use to be a bunch of cracked neo-cons that use to hang out there.

I see a couple of reasons,

1)  Will it do any good?  Unless it's backed up with a really orwellian online system where any offical can swipe your card and get an online display of ALL your details, it'll just be another piece of paper to forge. The country is too big, too mobile, and too interested in getting cheap illegal immigrant labor to make the system really work for any terrorist threat.  Too cheap, and probably too corrupt, too.

2)  It conflicts with the American myth of being able to reinvent yourself with a new life.  One of the stupider myths, to tell the truth, but like the "lone inventor making a fortune", it has a following.

For 5 bit asynch (start and stop bits using Murray code), not much.
There may still be some very cryptic weather reports, and maybe the North Korean news service is still at it.

Ex-Soviet maritime traffic uses a code where the Cyrillic charaters are mapped to their close Latin alphabet phonetic matches so you can sort of read it.

TOR, (which is actually two different ways of packaging 5 bit RTTY with some error correction), will have some maritime traffic.  There are probably FEC-TOR weather reports from the various coast guards around the world on shortwave , and a system that runs down on 512? kHz for maritime information.  FEC-TOR is a 100 baud narrow shift continuous transmission.  ARQ-TOR is the dREEP-dREEP-dREEP of three character blocks or the 1? character reply from the other station.  Hams use half duplex ARQ-TOR where the same frequency is used for both stations, maritime channels are full duplex.

>2.  What sort of encoder would I need to read RTTY with my NRD-525 and what >do I need to know to get it functioning?

A lot of the 1980's vintage packet controllers had numerous monitoring modes.
I built the Heathkit version of AEA's PK-232 and it will copy RTTY, TOR, AX.25, even weather fax if you have a graphics printer of that vintage.

>3.  My receiver has an RTTY mode.  What exactly does that do in my receiver?
>Couldn't I just use USB or LSB?

Maritime RTTY channels are on .5 kHz spacing, a bit too narrow for a 2 kHz wide USB filter if the band is busy.

They did indeed have a form of paper made from reeds.  Those who could afford it also wrote on animal skins.

Has anyone heard of the R1120 sailor receiver?

It looks a very professional piece of kit, but I would primarily like to use it on LF-and MW (300khz-2mhz)

Any opinions/info would be appreciated

Well, not really. Holland is essentially another name for the Netherlands. There are two provinces that have Holland in their names though.

I just got a ATS 505 from c. crane and want to setup a long wire antena the informatin sheet they gave me says to keep it away from foil insualtion and things like that well i have a metal roof and i am sure that is afecting my reception i have tried a few things i have tried atached the end of a coax cable comming from the tv antena to the telescopic antena on the radio and that doesn to seam to do much but i want to know if i can run a whire along the tv antena towner that is metal and to my radio

what is the best way to seup an antena?

any help would be great thanks

So?  My point was about the slow pace of technological development in slave societies.  Neither the slave nor the slave owner has any strong incentive to create newer, better ways of doing things.  The slave owner's surest way to get richer is to buy more slaves.  The slave risks punishment for failure, but will won't much benefit from success.

More than that, freedom allows far more creative minds to work on a problem.
I suppose the small percentage of free Roman elites might have someday devloped shortwave radio.  Maybe by the year 3000 or something.

Had Rome remained strong, I doubt they ever would have abandoned slavery.
More likely, Rome would have fallen technologically behind free societies and the Roman Empire would have fallen apart like the Soviet Union.

The technological and industrial advantages of the North had much to do with ending slavery in the US.

Yes, the Romans were bad.  The other groups may have been even worse.

It's also entirely possible the common Vandal had more chance of having an enjoyable life than the common Roman.

Likely because he's made the too common error of thinking that because this newsgroup has "shortwave" in the name, it covers amateur radio.

There is of course the whole rec.radio.amateur.* hierarchy for things related to amateur radio.

This one is about listening, and while the "shortwave" is a tad of a misnomer since it wasn't intended to just be about shortwave but to include AM and FM broadcast DXing, as well as longwave listening, the messages I've seen about the origins of this newsgroup did specifically mention it wasn't supposed to be about amateur radio.

The times when amateur radio does fit in here is in the cases of listeners wanting to talk about receiving the ham bands, or what they hear.  Once it's transmission related, there's a whole hierarchy for that.

I was spinning the dial after midnight here in Missouri and found the same program on several freqs at once. It was sports talk with news at 0630UTC. I'm just curious why they would broadcast on so many at once? Three in the same band:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 12080 | Brandon | 10KW |
| 13630 | Shepparton | 100KW |
| 15160 | Shepparton | 100KW |
| 15240 | Shepparton | 100KW |
| 15515 | Shepparton | 100KW |

I can understand if they are aimed to different regions- but I was getting them all at a similar signal quality; although 15160 and 15515 were certainly best. The location and power info are from Passport. If the Brandon wattage is correct, I'm surprised I heard that at all!
Can anybody shed some light on why they go the expense on so much repetition? I'm sure not complaining- I really like to hear radio from Down Under. I hate to think that this could all be history if BPL comes to my town.

Thanks for posting this as now I know I'm not the only person that feels this way. You were also more descriptive about the past and present of Robert Green's monolog.

I used to like listening to him even though I rarely agreed with him because he was humorous.

For whatever reason today they are only on 17,875 out of Sackville.
Good signal from them but all the signals from the antilles are missing on 17,725 and 17,810 and 15315. I was listening from 19:30 to 20:00 UTC.

Couple of different target areas there, and with the multiple freq's they have a better chance of being heard.

Brandon does apparently run 10kw, unless they've upgraded.

You should endeavor to get the wire at least 5 to 10 feet off the roof.

Use a BALUN to connect the wire to the coax lead-in to your radio where the BALUN ground is connected to the metal roof.

Conversely if raising the wire is a problem then keep it a few inches off the roof and connect the wire directly to the coax center conductor and the shield to the metal roof.

In order to accept that you would have to ignore the fact that the Romans reigned supreme as the masters of architecture and building materials.
Although they get historic accolades for law and government, they were also the worlds master builders.  Not of useless and hulking monuments, but of practical and powerful architecture.  The stuff that lasting cultures and civilizations are built on.  A simple example of their mastery: When new St Peters Basilica was built, the architects had to study the dome of the Pantheon to get their bearings.

Ancient Rome was far more then slavery. You have to admit that.  Many historians feel that the Roman Empire was so successful in transmuting its positive components of law, government and civilization that it is legitimate to say that it didn't really fall.  It just morphed.
Fortunately, the components of slavery and blood sport didn't make it into Rome Mark Two; post imperial western civilization.

The ancient world could be brutal in general. What puts the Romans above their contemporaries is that despite the institution of slavery (and the US had it too !!!), they were by far the most socially, racially and religiously inclusive of any of the ancient civilizations.  Not  to mention, extremely well founded mechanisms of law and government.  Add to that, they built buildings, public works and founded cites 2,000 years ago that are still functioning today.

> It's also entirely possible the common Vandal had more chance of having an Excellent point.  IMO what spelled the end of the classical Roman Empire was corruption and greed.  During the Roman Republic and the early part of the Imperial period, there were real benefits to be part of the Roman Empire. As it progressed, the true ideology of Pax Romana gave way to run away greed and corruption in both the political body and the military.  In order to combat invasion and to satisfy the needs of the patricians, provinces were bled dry and starved.  Greed and corruption got to be so bad during the decline of the Empire that those living in Roman holdings preferred "barbarian" life to that of what Rome had become.  Regardless, Rome was the foundation for western civilization.  Their basic legal structure did not vanish, their buildings and architecture did not vanish and thank goodness, their notions of a nation with social, ethnic and religious inclusion did not vanish.

If you are interested in detailed information regarding the mutual influence of the Romans and the so called "barbarians" of western Europe on each other, check out this book: "ROME AND THE BARBARIANS" by Thomas S. Burns. One of the better books I have read about how the Romans, Celts and Germanic Tribes mixed and morphed into modern day Western civilization.

Cosby has been hitting home with his message on morality and personal responsibility, so the liberals are setting him up with all sorts of vile bimbos saying he did immoral things with/to/on them, in order to silence him.

Cuhulin's a homophobe. I don't think he'd appreciate you calling him by his pet names in public. In pubic, perhaps.

Great thread Jerry.

My most "enjoyable" would have to be a Sony ICF-2003 purchased back in the late 80's.  It was made in Japan from 1987-1991.

- SSB mode in addition to AM
- external antenna jack
- Continous coverage 153KHz - 30MHz

I received it as a birthday gift after much begging and pleading.  Now
I am using a professional receiver, however I still have that little Sony and it still works great after 15 years.

Well first of all your TV antenna will be too short to pick up shortwave signals very well.  You might try connecting just the outer shield of the coax to the radio's antenna input and see if that works better.

I believe the ATS-505 is a portable radio, so you may want to construct something like the following:
http://www.geocities.com/n2uhc/portablewire.html .  All you need to do is wrap some wire around the radio's whip antenna, and get the other end of the wire up high somewhere.  Or you may just want to get a wire antenna up high and attach it directly to the radio's whip, but this may cause overloading since most portables use a lot of preamplification to compensate for the relatively short whip.

FRANCIS1234,
"ZionNazi Right-Wingers" aka: NEUCON = Openly Anti-Semitic "Hate Speech"
So is this the new In-Our-Face Buzz Word
>From the Democrat Party of the USA ? ? ?
Recently it has become evident that many so called Liberals in the Democrat Party of the USA have been using a a new [Hidden] 'transformed' Meaning for the Political Hot Button Word "Neucon" Morphing it into NEUCON as an Anti-Semitic {Those Jews} Hate Word.
Originally it was used by some Jewish Liberals to "Label" some Jewish Conservatives who held certain World and Social Views.
Next "Neucon" was pick-up by the Liberal Press as a Political Label for certain Highly Visible Conservatives who publicly were promoting the so called "Neucon" Agenda.  Then the Democrat Party of the USA made "Neucon" a Political Buzz Word.  Now most recently Non-Jewish Political Cadre of the Democrat Party of the USA are using the Word "Neucon" and been Morphed into NEUCON :
Meaning "Those Jews" showing the 'true' nature of the Anti-Semitic Feelings within the Democrat Party of the USA.
So Now We Have You Stepping Right Out-There and cobbling a New Word to be used to Label "Those-Jews" and showing the True Colors of the Political Cadre and Leadership of Democrat Party of the USA.  And That Word Is "ZionNazi" which you identify as 'Ring-Wingers'.
Whether you or others use "ZionNazi" or NEUCON - We now know what you really Mean and the True Intention of the Bias, Bigotry and HATE in Your Words.
ZionNazi or NEUCON - Two Words That Can Be Viewed By All As :
Openly Anti-Semitic "Hate Speech" and Considered Overtly Bigoted [.]
[ Some May Go So Far As To Call These Words "RACIST" ! ]

I figure that shortwave radio will be one of the next things they take away, right after they realize how people can get news and commentary and info from all over the world that isn't and can't be passed through the Bush propaganda machine. Shortwave radio has a small constituency, thus making us-vs-them demonization practical and possible. All they'll have to tell the sheep is that shortwave radio makes it possible to hear terrorist lies (Voice of the Islamic Republic of Iran and Voice of Korea, although I've never heard Iran in English) and the sheep will support mass jamming and/or BPL in order to eliminate the "threat". It's already next to impossible to get a shortwave radio from anywhere except the internet-I was recently in one of my area's largest Radio Shacks and the only SW capable radio they had was the Grundig Porsche radio, the rest were non-SW radios. You can still buy a SW radio at Fry's, but they don't have too many stores outside California. It would be relatively simple to shut down the few stores still selling SW radios exclusively (Universal Radio, for example) and order the rest not to sell them-I doubt many people would notice. Next they'd put in some sort of jamming (BPL?) to make the rest useless. Then it would be off to censor the internet, which is easy. At that point the only source of info people would have would be Bush propaganda, and the Project for a New American Century could proceed to conquer the world. And when the next terrorist attack happens, people would truly believe that they hate our efforts to bring freedom to the world (ha ha) despite what Osama himself has said and then Americans would invade even more countries, thus setting off more terrorist attacks...

Yes, but they will all be AM and/or FM radios, and most likely set to receive just a handful of frequencies, like radios in North Korea.

But neither of those radios are 5 tube AC/DC radios.  I think the poster might have had one of the S-38s.  I also think the S-38s are very nice radios, within their limits.  S-38s are best suited for listening to the high power SW broadcast stations in their target area.  They had better sound than many of the more expensive communications receivers.

S-38s are poor DX radios and trying to demodulate SSB will be an exercise in frustration with one.

Radio is one of the best ways to reach a lot of people, in a lot of places.   In the case of shortwave a broadcast just may reach people on several continents at (approximately) the same time.  I expect this is one reason it is so popular with ministers.

So why didn't the Romans develop shortwave?

The Romans were too busy accumulating wealth the old fashioned way.  They were stealing it.  They were stealing the lives of the Maxwells and Teslas of the day under slavery.  The ancient EH Armstrong spend his life lugging some damn standard in a Roman Legion.

Technology developed at a glaical pace until the people had a chance to develop their own inventions and keep the rewards.

It's a fine thing the Roman Empire is gone.

SONY ICF-S10MK2 right?  It appears to be so--these are the radios that devocom73 is selling.  He doesn't give the model number, probably so you can't look it up on the internet as easy.

on ebay from devocom73 for $21 shipped look around on google, $18 shipped local Future shop (Canada), $19 Canadian.

A lot of E-Bay sellers are ripping people off.

Radio-Opera,

If this a a personal reception report.
Then it would be nice if you could provide a point-of-reference general location like your : Country / State / Metro-Area.

It's just a list, and it took me just a few seconds to tell that there are certainly errors in it.

It's my Loewe-Opta LO-50.
This a rare stereo-radio with tubes and transistores.

http://www.radiomuseum-bocket.de/u_loewe/images%20bilder/62091%20lo%2050%20ers.jpg

It is in a wooden cabinet with a front door to hide the dial plate.
Needs external speakers. Unfotunately I don't have the original speakers.

It has LW 150-340khz
MW 490-1650khz
SW 5800-18300khz
FM-stereo 87,75-104Mhz

Everywhere the Romans went, they took technology with them.  Without any question, the quality of life and the level of technology went up tremendously in the areas that they added to their empire.  Paris, London and Cologne were all Roman cities that didn't have so much as a wading pool much less advanced stone architecture, running water and a sanitary system before the Romans got there.

As far as slavery goes... Yes.. Indeed... They had slavery.  Was it a bad thing ???  Yes, it was terrible.  Though, from my own studies, it would seem that the life of a Roman slave serving in a Roman house circa the first century had a better life then  the average American slave serving on a plantation circa 1850.  It is always good to remember that fact before writing them off as just a bunch of brutal and abusive animals. The point I was making was not to show how idea and desirable the Romans were, but to explore how the world might have evolved if they had some sort of broadcast technology.  The way things went, slavery wasn't legally abolished in the US until 1863. It is more then entirely possible that slavery would have been abolished sooner had Rome not fell. All civilizations are open to change and social growth. Not just the US.

Also... If you think that Romans were all that bad, may be we should think about giving technology to the Huns, Vandals or even worse, some body of ethnocentric religious fanatics that have it all figured out.

Michael

You don't believe what you post here or you would take your cause to a more effective venue. Everyone here believes one way or the other and your posts have no effect at all. You just think it's funny to watch people get upset. So go ahead and waste your time stupid.

Are you certain the signal even is RTTY? I've run across a number of signals that sound like RTTY, but are in reality anything but.

Also, as others have pointed out, you may be picking up an encrypted signal.

Keep the peace(es).

Kinda doubt that -- it would seem any civilization would have to go thru many centuries of discovering knowledge and developing technology. And probably did things similar to us - cars - fossil fuel etc.

And I suspect intelligent beings will always seek the spiritual.

And I wonder if your advanced civilization still would have to eat other living things to survive (;-)

I have a conservative approach to liberties and freedoms. Having seen the worst, I realize that there is an extreme to the other side that is equally dangerous... an extreme where the tiny secondary interests are somehow elevated to the point of subjugating the majority ones:

Example:

I have had frequent discussions at airports on the need for a national ID card. Folks who have just been through the TSA security procedures seem ready to give a little to gain more perceived safety, while believing that identity theft, illegal immigration, fraud, etc. will be less prevalent. Yet there is strident opposition to this move (anyone who has been victim of identity theft is for it, of course=.

At the same time, in some areas of society we have made life so complex it is not enjoyable. The raw number of laws we must know and obey are staggering. Yet is this a result of a more regimented society... with the assumption that regimentation leads to abuse of power... or just a more complex, technological society?

Or, am I just the frog?

In article <1108144108.719133.294820@c13g2000cwb.googlegroups.com>, sdaniel13@nyc.rr.com says...

Lowe stopped manufacturing the 150 for a while, they handed production to SMC - many of those were the black case 150s with no Europa identification - However they suffered QC problems in the early days, and Lowe (apparently) took a load off them and tweaked them up to spec - so for a while Lowe sold the 150 again....

Had a play with one once, knocked the living daylights out of my R-2000
- but that was only to be expected!

Compelling points.   Though it is completely debatable that another civilization would go the same way we did.  My primary point though, was to how people today have the flawed perception of  intellectual superiority of contemporary man and civilizations over civilizations that were around two thousand years ago.  When the "founding fathers" of America worked together to develop the political, legal and social framework of their new country, one of their favorite men to refer to was Cicero.  The architecture of prominent buildings in the American Capitol is predominantly Romanesque.

Also...  we don't need to eat other living things to survive.  We choose to.
I dont think I could ever give up things like Alaskan King Crab Legs :-)

Mmmmm... Tasty....

And speaking of fishing, I heard what I think may have been some ship to ship com on 18840 at about 17:35 UTC.  It was very weak, but I heard one operator mention "Montauk", so I'm gathering it might have been some fishing boats off Long Island.  Just a guess.

(I got radio in there)

Good News!

Do you know how simple it is to go to Heaven after this life has ended?

The good news is that God came from Heaven to earth
in the person of Jesus Christ over 2000 years ago and died for our past, present and future sins(misdeeds).
He was born in the land of Israel supernaturally to a virgin Jewish woman named Mary. He lived a sinless life for thirty-three years and then sacrificed His sinless blood and died on a cross to pay the death penalty for our sins.

After Jesus died He rose from the dead three days later as He said He would. The Holy Bible also tells us that Jesus Christ ascended into Heaven and that all who accept Him as their Lord and Saviour will live forever with Him in Heaven where there is no more death, sorrow, sickness and pain.

The Holy Bible very clearly explains how simple it is to be saved and on your way to Heaven, "For if you confess with your mouth, "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you WILL BE SAVED." (Romans 10:9)

You can be saved right now and on your way to Heaven if you will open your heart to Jesus and pray the following prayer:

Dear Jesus Christ, I want to be saved so that I can have a home in Heaven when I die. I agree with You that I am a sinner. I believe You love me and want to save me. I believe that You bled and died on the cross to pay the penalty for my sins. I believe that You rose from the dead. Please forgive my sins and come into my heart and be my Lord and Saviour. Thank You Lord Jesus Christ for forgiving me and saving me through Your merciful grace. Amen.

You are now a Christian if you said the prayer and allowed God to save you. Welcome to the family of God.

If you decide to wait till later you may die before you get another chance to be saved because none of us knows exactly when we will die.

Have a great day!

Indeed Michael -- the ancients were of great intelligence -- one only has to read of Pythagoras, Eratosthenes, Archimedes, and many others to realize this.

But the knowledge was not spread to the masses with compulsory education. So many who could have contributed had no foundation to build on. And many great discoveries were ignored for various reasons.

And celery and carrots are living things in my book. I am not fond of rocks and minerals.

That ties into my original post about "What if the Romans had shortwave". Again... Although they take their lumps given to them by historians for having the defects of slavery and blood sports, they were quite advanced and structured. They were also socially and religiously inclusive to an extent that is not seen at all in our times. When the western empire came apart at the seams, it kicked off the dark ages.  If they had any kind of electronic media like shortwave before the decay and collapse, they could have used it to readily spread their concepts of civilization, law and inclusive social structure.  I know the "what if" questions are powerless to combat realities, but they are fun to ponder :-)

I would think that even fruits and vegetables could be substituted for with synthesized matter of one kind or another.  Thoug, it would probably be worse then eating nothing but microwaved hot pockets all the time...

You've just given a 'tards typical response when questioned about their stupidity.

Put simply, you're a 'tard, and mommy and/or daddy did lie to you.

Now hit the frickin road.

Why don't you take over for Franken on Air America. You are by far more amusing. This was a pretty funny response. I had a good laugh imagining it coming over the radio.

I've seen instructions for changing audio related caps in the DE1102 on a Chinese page [1] (apparently tantalums have been used there, and these really suck in terms of linearity and should not be used for audio unless absolutely required by space constraints), but nothing for the 1101 so far.

Good god what an unbearable whine. I listened to it for a few minutes but it seemed it wasn't ever going to end and I had to turn it off.
What a totally clueless person. A big part of his complaints had to do with the Condoleezza Rice being the new secretary of state and other changes toward better agreement with France and Germany of middle eastern relations. Imagine that, complaining about improving relations.
He even complained about Condoleezza's hair so I guess he thinks himself a style critic now.

17,810 and 15,315 much weaker than usual out of the Neth antilles.
17,725 out of Neth antilles strong as usual.
17,875 out of Sackville as strong as usual.

Perhaps this explains why you preach socialist propaganda at every opportunity on this newsgroup, then proclaim yourself "ultra-right wing".

Maybe his full time job is at a hair salon?

What time is this guy usually on? I've not listened to RN for some time (about the time Media Network w/Jonathon Marks went off) so I've not heard him.

I didn't hear him last week so it was a rare opportunity to listen to the entire broadcast and enjoy it.

Green's segment is just a few minute monolog but the rant when longer than I could tolerate. He gets stuck in between the usually excellent programs but I have not paid attention to exactly when. Seems he is usually heard around the hour or the half. Sorry about not being more specific as I never want to hear him these days. He used to be funny and self depreciating but now he's more strident and nasty and just plain negative. He has the ability to find the bad anywhere he looks appearently. In todays rant he even made reference to the holocaust in a depreciating way and that's when I turned him off.

The week before last he was running down the new Air buss pointing out the problems of moving ever larger groups through airports. Since this was a rant on a product design instead of religion or politicks he thinking process was a little more exposed. He does not check his assumptions for one thing.

I think his commentary is basically uninformed and negative. It used to be funny and in that way was entertaining. I make allowances for material that is entertaining.

And here he is again at 20:53 UTC as I type this so I just turned the radio off for the next few minutes.

That's just a spelling mistake.

He's in his own group "ultra-wrong-wing."

OK, I'll check their next EG language broadcast and see if he's on then.

Betz- you never have much of a 'rational argument' -

Maybe that is why you are so sensitive to perceived insults.

On the topic - it is true that Clarke "told the truth'
-- but which of his conflicting stories was the truth??

Three things....

1) It's time, don't you know, to killfile him. I have. As David Eduardo noted, dxAce hasn't added a single valuable comment in many, many days, and his retorts have become repetitive. He strikes me as being a child, since he really hasn't come up with anything novel in many weeks.

2) We really need, if we can't restrain ourselves, to omit the cross-post to rec.radio.shortwave. This is the last one I'll do, if only to apologise to the good folks there who wish we didn't know about them. If the nutbags are the ones cross-posting FROM rec.radio.shortwave, would the moderator (don't all rec.*'s have them?) suppress them, please?

3) HTML in a newsgroup is generally not recommended. I don't know if this group's charter prohibits it (or if this group even has a charter) but unless you see a lot of it in a newsgroup, it's best not to be the first.

Yes, you are 100 % correct here.  I'm with you all the way on that one.

> Am I wrong about any of that?

I'm glad slavery is gone.  100 %.  A slave state is a defective and immoral state.  No question.  But to deny the accomplishments of a state or culture because it had slavery is to murder the truth.  When I speak of the ancient Romans, it is always nice to remember who their contemporaries were and who came before and after them.  The Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, Parthian, Huns and the entire hose of other ancient cultures including just about every classic Mesoamerican civilization had slavery.  Get it ???  We are talking about the ancient world.  They all had slavery.  The Romans also happened to have a lot of positive and influential components to their civilization.

> If I recall correctly the Confederacy's Virginia/Merrimac was a > technologically simple, hulking ironclad.  The Union's Monitor had most of > the actual technological innovations, including a rotating turret.  Am I > wrong about that, as well?

Your correct about that.  The Monitor was by far the more innovative and technical of the two. The revolving turret was the primary innovation.  I'm also going to point out, that the south developed the first "modern" submarine called the CSS Hunley.  May naval historians consider the Hunley to be the most remarkable naval weapons development of the entire war.  Sure it killed everyone that served on it, but it was a remarkable piece of technology.  Please done insinuate me into the position of being pro slavery.  That is as far from the truth as is possible.  My point is that you cant write off chunks of history just because they came from cultures or states that were defective.  Yes, they were defective, indeed, but in the case of the Romans, remember the times they came from and dont bother trying to burry volumes of recorded history.

Slavery is not good.  It never was and never will be.  Free societies are more conducive to technological growth.  Regardless, the Romans made a huge contribution to the future.  If they never fell, it is likely that they would have abolished slavery.  During that later part of the empire,  blood sports were banned, slavery would have been too.  The US abolished slavery. Do you think that all other cultures are arrested and incapable of positive social growth ???

Now, let me ask you.... Should we just burry the accomplishments and influences of the Roman Republic/Empire ??? If we did that, Europe as we know it would be a totally different place.  There would be no French language, no Italian language, no Spanish.. etc.  There would also be no USA without the Roman Republic/Empire to precede it.

And, no, I dont like slavery.

Michael

Among other things, it depends on whether or not the stories about satellite radio being replaced with pretty much nationwide wi-fi broadcast antennas by, say, 2015 are accurate.  If the stations you mention are available to pretty much anyone with a digital receiver, or even a cell phone, then shortwave's low point gets closer and closer.  (I won't say "demise" because it won't die out entirely, unless broadcasting is legislated out of business for some incredibly strange reason.)  Until then, there will always be a need for alternative voices to be heard, and shortwave seems to be the only medium with anything resembling "open availability".

(On the other hand, some organizations may feel that replacing shortwave with "local rebroadcasting" is a good thing, especially when it includes the occasional "signal failure" when somebody is saying something that somebody in the USA doesn't want Joe Lunchpail and Sally Soapopera to hear...)

If you find the SW kits too much check out a crystal radio, that would be easier to build and possibly more exciting for the others checking out the projects

Radio Shack has a bunch of simple project books that may be what you are looking for and of course they'll sell you all the parts for the projects.

I understand it's Steve doing exploratory work on something he's always been prone to. The use of alter egos to experiment with deviation is quite common...and NO, I didn't mean to imply being Canadian is in any way deviant.

He's been fascinated with both Canada and the homosexual lifestyle ever since his stint in the US Navy. He developed his trademark " 'tard " affliction while enlisted.

It would appear that trying to yell "GUARD" while your palate is otherwise employed is almost impossible, resulting in the muffled, almost illegible sounding 'tard he now subconsciously uses.

I've stopped noticing it because he is unaware he's doing it. It's a subliminal effort to get help for urges he knows he can no longer control. Living in the Tulip Capital of the US doesn't help matters much.

Poor Steve.

Im tellin yah it workx and its so worth it

Turn $5.00 into $50,000...read this to find out how!!!
READING THIS COULD CHANGE YOUR LIFE!!!
I found this on a bulletin board like this one and decided to try it.
A little while back, I was browsing through a newsgroup, just like you are now, and came across an article similar to this that said you could make thousands of dollars within weeks with only an initial investment of $5.00! So I thought, "Yeah right, this must be a scam", but like most of us, I was curious, so I kept reading... I also did an internet search and found nothing but success stories.

Anyway, it said that you need to send $1.00 to each of the 5 names and address stated in the article. You then place your own name and address in the bottom of the list at ..5, and post the article in at least 200 newsgroups. (There are thousands) No catch, that was it. So after thinking it over, and talking to a few people first, I thought about trying it. I figured "what have I got to lose except 5 stamps and $5.00, right?"

Then I invested the measly $5.00 (I use the word "measly" because $5 really is measly compared to the money I have made through the initial investment). Well GUESS WHAT!!... within 7 days, I started getting money in the mail! I was shocked! I figured it would end soon, but the money just kept coming in.
In my first week, I made about $25.00. By the end of the second week I had made a total of over $1,000.00! In the third week I had over $10,000.00 and it's still growing.

This is now my fourth week and I have made just over $42,000.00 and it's still coming in rapidly. It's certainly worth $5.00, and 5 stamps, I have spent more than that on the lottery!!
Let me tell you how this works and most importantly, why it works....

Also, make sure you print a copy of this article NOW, so you can get the information off of it as you need it.
I promise you that if you follow the directions exactly, that you will start making more money than you thought possible by doing something so easy!

Suggestion:
Read this entire message carefully! (print it out or download it.)
Follow the simple directions and watch the money come in! It's easy.
It's legal. And, your investment is only $5.00 (Plus postage)

IMPORTANT:
This is not a rip-off; it is not indecent; it is not illegal; and it is virtually no risk - it really works!!!! If all of the following instructions are adhered to, you will receive extraordinary dividends.
PLEASE NOTE:
Please follow these directions EXACTLY, and $50,000 or more can be yours in 20 to 60 days.
This program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants. Please continue it's success by carefully adhering to the instructions.
You will now become part of the Mail Order business. In this business your product is not solid and tangible, it's a service. You are in the business of developing Mailing Lists.
Many large corporations are happy to pay big bucks for quality lists.
However, the money made from the mailing lists is secondary to the income which is made from people like you and me asking to be included in that list.
Here are the 4 easy steps to success:

STEP 1:
Get 5 separate pieces of paper and write the following on each piece of paper "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST."
Now get 5 US $1.00 bills and place ONE inside EACH of the 6 pieces of paper so the bill will not be seen through the envelope (to prevent thievery).
Next, place one paper in each of the 5 envelopes and seal them. You should now have 5 sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the phrase "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST.", your name and address, and a $1.00 bill.
What you are doing is creating a service. THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL!
You are requesting a legitimate service and you are paying for it!
Like most of us I was a little skeptical and a little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-725-2161) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal!
Mail the 5 envelopes to the following addresses:

..1) Jason R
3702 Werner Ave.
Austin, TX 78722

..2) J Arenas
1600 Malibu
Carrollton, TX 75006

..3) Richonda S
CMR 402 BOX 274
APO, AE 09180

..4) J Roth
2901 Barton Skyway ..3406
Austin, TX 78746

..5)Jesse James 1778 Swift Ave.
Ventura, Ca 93003

STEP 2: Now take the ..1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (5 becomes 4, 4 becomes 3, etc...) and add YOUR Name as number 5 on the list.

STEP 3: Change anything you need to, but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now, post your amended article to at least 200 newsgroups. (I think there are close to 32,000+) All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post, the more money you make!

This is perfectly legal! If you have any doubts, refer to Title 18 Sec. 1302 & 1341 of the Postal lottery laws. Keep a copy of these steps for yourself and, whenever you need money, you can use it again, and again.

PLEASE REMEMBER that this program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants and by their carefully adhering to the directions.
Look at it this way. If you are of integrity, the program will continue and the money that so many others have received will come your way.

NOTE:
You may want to retain every name and address sent to you, either on a computer or hard copy and keep the notes people send you. This VERIFIES that you are truly providing a service. (Also, it might be a good idea to wrap the $1 bill in dark paper to reduce the risk of mail theft.)
So, as each post is downloaded and the directions carefully followed, five members will be reimbursed for their participation as a List Developer with one dollar each.
Your name will move up the list geometrically so that when your name reaches the ..1 position you will be receiving thousands of dollars in CASH!!!
What an opportunity for only $5.00 ($1.00 for each of the first five people listed above) Send it now, add your own name to the list and you're in business!

---DIRECTIONS ----- FOR HOW TO POST TO NEWSGROUPS------------

Step 1)

You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computer's memory.

Step 2)

Open a blank 'notepad' file and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into notepad so that you can add your name to the list.

Step 3) Save your new notepad file as a .txt file. If you want to do your postings in different settings, you'll always have this file to go back to.

Step 4)

Use Netscape or Internet explorer and try searching for various newsgroups (on-line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions, etc.)

Step 5)

Visit these message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the Subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button.

Congratulations...THAT'S IT!

All you have to do is jump to different newsgroups and post away, after you get the hang of it, it will take about 30 seconds for each newsgroup!

REMEMBER, THE MORE NEWSGROUPS YOU POST IN, THE MORE MONEY YOU WILL MAKE!! BUT YOU HAVE TO POST A MINIMUM OF 200

That's it! You will begin receiving money from around the world within days! You may eventually want to rent a P.O.Box due to the large amount of mail you will receive. If you wish to stay anonymous, you can invent a name to use, as long as the postman will deliver it.

JUST MAKE SURE ALL THE ADDRESSES ARE CORRECT.

Now the WHY part:

Out of 200 postings, say I receive only 5 replies (a very low example). So then I made $5.00 with my name at ..5 on the letter.

Now, each of the 5 persons who just sent me $1.00 make the MINIMUM 200 postings, each with my name at ..5 and only 5 persons respond to each of the original 5, that is another $25.00 for me, now those 25 each make 200 MINIMUM posts with my name at ..4 and only 5 replies each, I will bring in an additional $125.00!

Now, those 125 persons turn around and post the MINIMUM 200 with my name at ..3 and only receive 5 replies each, I will make an additional $626.00!

OK, now here is the fun part, each of those 625 persons post a MINIMUM 200 letters with my name at ..2 and they each only receive 5 replies, that just made me $3,125.00!!!

Those 3,125 persons will all deliver this message to 200 newsgroups with my name at ..1 and if still ONLY 5 persons per 200 newsgroups react I will receive $15,625,00!

With an original investment of only $5.00! AMAZING! When your name is no longer on the list, you just take the latest posting in the newsgroups, and send out another $5.00 to names on the list, putting your name at number 5 again. And start posting again.
The thing to remember is do you realize that thousands of people all over the world are joining the internet and reading these articles everyday?, JUST LIKE YOU are now!!
So, can you afford $5.00 and see if it really works?? I think so...
People have said, "what if the plan is played out and no one sends you the money? So what! What are the chances of that happening when there are tons of new honest users and new honest people who are joining the internet and newsgroups everyday and are willing to give it a try?
Estimates are at 20,000 to 50,000 new users, every day, with thousands of those joining the actual internet.
Remember, play FAIRLY and HONESTLY and this will really work!!!

I heard this on SW radio today and decided to look it up on the net tonight.   So to make it available on the fur end of Valentine's Day, but I guess that's better than you not getting it at all.  :-)

=============

Redneck Valentine Poem

Collards is green
my dog's name is Blue and I'm so lucky to have a sweet thang like you.

Yore hair is like cornsilk a-flapping in the breeze Softer than Blue's and without all them fleas.

You move like the bass, which excite me in May.
You ain't got no scales
but I luv you anyway.

Yo're as satisfy'n as okry jist a-fry'n in the pan.
Yo're as fragrant as "snuff" right out of the can.

You have som'a yore teeth,
for which I am proud;
I hold my head high when we're in a crowd.

On special occasions, when you shave under yore arms,
well, I'm in hawg heaven,
and awed by yore charms.

Still them fellers at work,
they all want to know, what I did to deserve such a purdy, young doe.

Like a good roll of duct tape
yo're there fer yore man, to patch up life's troubles and fix what you can.

Yo're as cute as a junebug
a-buzzin' overhead.
You ain't mean like those far ants
I found in my bed.

Cut from the best cloth like a plaid flannel shirt, you spark up my life
more than a fresh load of dirt.

When you hold me real tight like a padded gunrack, my life is complete;
Ain't nuttin' I lack.

Yore complexion, it's perfection, like the best vinyl sidin'.
despite all the years,
yore age, it keeps hidin'.

Me 'n' you's like a Moon Pie with a RC cold drank,
we go together
like a skunk goes with stank.

Some men, they buy chocolate for Valentine's Day; They git it at Wal-Mart,
it's romantic that way.

Some men buy fine diamonds from a flea market booth.
"Diamonds are forever," they explain, suave and couth.

But for this man, honey,
these won't do.
Cause yo're too special,
you sweet thang you.

I got you a gift,
without taste nor odor, more useful than diamonds...
IT'S A NEW TROLLIN' MOTOR!!!

Inheritance would be my guess. Or drug dealing. Those are about the only ways you can get a lot of money without having a lot of brains. The really rich heirs, like Paris Hilton, have professional money managers handle their financial affairs so they can party all the time. The money managers take their fees out of the estate's profits. This is also a way that really rich families ensure that the assets aren't blown by really stupid offspring, they just put the money into a perpetual trust (therefore the "trust fund") and require that it be managed professionally. That's how the idle rich get that way-they're born into the right beds and their parents have "old money" and are probably idle rich themselves. The du Pont fortune goes back 200 years, the Rockefeller fortune almost 150.

Take a close look at the usernames. This is a case of shill bidding. And the top bidder has only 1 feedback. Very suspicious.

They steal them from the police, military, manufacturers, stores, and legitimate owners including old widow ladies.
If they can't steal them those kind will make their own.  Then only they will have them.
The genie won't fit back into the bottle!
Permits and laws only enrich the lawyers, bureaucrats and public coffers to provide more pork.
Deterrence always works better that punishment!

I just wanted to share the results an antenna experiment I did tonight.  In the rain, no less.

The antenna was simple. 300 feet of solid core 20 gauge copper wire.  I ran it from the 500 ohm connector of my R-75, out of the shack and all the way into the back yard.  The yard extends about 200 feet, so I had to double the wire back in the direction of the shack for 100 feet.

No mater what I tune the dial to, I'm getting splashed from the local 50 kilowatt am stations.  The preselector doesn't clean it up either.

Every time I exceed 200 feet of wire, I have the same problem.

Weird...

There, there, Steve. Everything will be alright. Stay with the sensible shoes after the operation, ok? Have you rented that little love nest in Toronto yet?

I have both (have the very early one) and don't blame him for not wanting to trade. Found my one at an estate sale. It was sitting in the garage with an inch of dust on it and a $2 price tag on it. I assumed it had problems but thought I would "take a chance". I got it home and blew off the dust and cleaned it up and it looked like some one bought it and never used it, not a flaw or scratch on it, antenna (original fake loading coil) straight as an arrow and don't believe it ever had batteries in it. RM~

PS, It has batteries in it now. ; )

I pretty much ignore the links king, since much of the time he seems to be interested in promoting "groups" rather than actually saying anything, so I don't know if he included this.

David Moisan, who I've not seen here in some time, put together a faq years back about the GE Superradio, and it has nothing to do with dummies or idiots.  It's probably on various places, but the first result with a websearch is:

I have a GE AM/FM table model transistor radio (actually,I own about 200 old radios) here that says on the lower part of the dial,LONG RANGE HIGH SELECTIVITY.MODEL NO.7-2880B.It used to have a push button switch on top to turn it on and off but the push buttom quit working about ten years ago so I cut a little hole in the back of the radio and I hooked up an old toggle switch I had laying around to turn the radio on and off.The radio can run on batteries too.

Yes, I think a crystal radio would be far more interesting for a science fair project, since a crystal radio does not need batteries or any form of power other than the radio signals it receives.

I have a crystal set book in .pdf form on my webpage at http://www.geocities.com/n2uhc/homebrew.html .  I plan to build one but just haven't had the time to sit down and work on it lately.

Sounds like your front end is being overloaded by the AM stations.  I guess the simple solution would be to not exceed 200 feet of wire.  A 200' random wire should work well, I'd think.  But if you have local 50 KW stations, then it's not unusual to get a lot of imaging and intermod with a long antenna.

You will make the news group more readable with a lower noise floor.

What do you mean by "splash"?

I have Beverage antennas of 450 and 700 feet, oriented toward my desired targets and (unfortunately) a number of 50kw MW stations in the Seattle/Tacoma area. I also have a 1 kw station 1.4 miles off the end of one of the antennas. I have a number of S-9+65db stations on the dial, but my R-75 and IC-756Pro handle them well. However, I'm not using the hi-Z input but the 50-ohm unbalanced input via a Beverage matching transformer and grounded, double-shielded coax.

Have you tried adding a transformer and the 50-ohm input?

But it may work badly, or practically not at all, without a decent antenna. Especially if the antenna is inside, and the building may have a lot of metal to block the radio waves.

With something using gain elements can at least make an attempt at compensating for both these factors.

That's a Super 1, mine is a 7-2880A and I think the only noticeable difference is that yours has an external antenna connection. I've never had mine apart but have heard that it's real easy to damage that on/off switch when separating the case during disassembly. RM~

I have listened to the 11,655 frequency in the past. Generally fairly weak signal but listen-able. Since I'm going to be home a few more days from work now that my flu has turned into an ear infection I'll have to listen to it with my remaining good ear.

Radio Netherlands 11,655 18:00-21:00 UTC all days of the week from Madagascar 250 kW to africa in english. Prior broadcasts on this frequency are in Dutch.

From ILG it looks like:
Radio Netherlands 9,345 14:00-16:00 UTC all days of the week from Uzbekistan to Asia in English.

3 gun men open fire with automatic weapons in a NY mall shooting serveral people.

They were wearing all black and had machine guns.
What does that tell you?

They shot people randomly also.

Watch then try and cover it up..

At this very moment, they are making up plans for a cover story. This is in retaliation for the Iraq elections I bet. They will never say it was terrorism. Have you any idea what this would do to retail mall sales if it;s true?

Here's one question I've been unable to figure out myself:
When was the first dual conversion shortwave receiver made, and which model was that? The earliest model I could find so far via Google was a 1935 Tandberg Huldra 1B with a 2 MHz + 137 kHz config - not too bad for a start (I hadn't expected to find something that old), but was there anything yet earlier?

There are (at least) two different types of slas.
GellCells, and regular lead acid batteries that are sealed.
I have only used the GellCell variety.
It is hard to get a AC mains powered supply really quite.
You can reduce maybe 99% of the noise.
Most of the time that is enough. Givent he local and worldwide noise 99% is below the noise floor most of us deal with.
For me the biggest advantage to using a gellcell is for emergencies. When the lights go out I an keep listening.
I have a Lamda 12V rated at 8Amp, but will deliver about 14A before going into current limiting, power supply that I bought for $10.00 from a local surplus dealer. Big ugly and heavy.
No meters and a barrior strip for the AC mains 120V and the 12V out. It was already wuite, but I added some more noise suppression. A Coreman heavy duty double stage IEC female power connector to help keep it's noise from getting back into the AC mains. I bypassed all 8 of the bridge diodes with 0.001uF mylar to help prevent IM via the diodes. I added several ferrite cores to the +12V out. I drilled a lot of additonal holes to add 1 connector (more or less) to the case halves for better RFI
"containment". I added a 120V 60HZ relay to open the PS +DC output and a connector for my gellcell, a 24A/Hr panasonic unit.
I replaced the single turn voltage adjust pot with a10 turn unit that Imounted onthe case. I keep it adjusted to +13.69V, the suggested "float" volatage for gellcells.
It has worked great for several years now.
I power all of my 12V equipment from this single supply.
The main advantage being that it is much quiter then the built in supplis on my radio and scanners, and I only had to cleanup one supply instead of five.
Does it make a dffference, yes. My shack is much quiter, that is has much less RF noise and I can connect any of the five receivers/scanners to 120 and use the built in supply and the noise floor jumps over 10dB.
I have also added the best ground I can afford. Used double shielded coax for all my receiving antennas and connected all my equipment with 1/2" tinned braid to a single grounding point.

Terry

99% would mean you are left with 1 part in a hundred, or 20db reduction. I don't think it would make that much difference. At least, I never heard that much of a noise reduction.

I think everyone should have the means to run their rigs from an automobile, so instead of running out to buy a SLA , rig up a cigarete lighter interface for your radio. Run the radio from your car (engine NOT running) and see if you can hear the difference. Now that you can listen on your rig mobile, drive out to the middle of nowhere and compare the noise (assuming you don't already live in the middle of nowhere). I've found locally generated noise to be a bigger problem than my AC, though my radio uses a soap on a rope style power supply.

Once you have run your radio from the auto battery, if you think iti makes a difference, buy the gell cell. I pull two 12V 7AH Yuasa from my gate every other year just to be sure the thing doesn't fail when I don't have time to fix it. I use the old SLAs for radio power supplies, but only when camping. I notice no difference at the house.

If you really want less noise, get a Wellbrook loop. An added advantage is you no longer need a ground since the Wellbrook floats. I use the ALA 100 and a homemade loop. Mine is also set up to run from 12V, though you need to note that the power to the Wellbrook is positive ground. If you build your own cigarette lighter adapter, this is not a big deal, just make sure you label it so you don't blow up gear expecting negative ground.

I believe in gun control, but in fairness, these attacks are almost always using semi-automatic weapons.

It should be noted that Bill Cosby is NOT referring to All African-Americans.
- rant -
He is talking about a segment of the African-American 'community' that in his words do not hold-up thier end of the Social Contract with the rest of Society and the African-American Community.
But, he also Challenges the rest of the African-American 'community' to be a "Community" and Act with Compassion and Understand to Help Their Brothers and Sisters "To Be" All They Can Be.
His Primary Theme for the African-American Community is to :
*  Educate-Yourself
*  Educate-Your-Children
*  Become-an-Educated-Community
*  Respect-Yourself
*  Respect-Your-Family.
Educated Yourself to replace 'hate-white' and 'blame-the-white-man' with
*  Black-Is-Beautiful
*  Love-Yourself
*  Love-Your-Family
*  Love-Your-African-American-Brothers-and-Sisters.
Understand "Your" African-American History, Culture and Traditions, the Strong Family Values of the African-American Community; and most Importantly Teach-Your-Children all these things so that they can Live Better Lives as Proud-and-Strong African-American Men and Women.

I will be mortgaging the house soon to bid on this one! .....

http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&category=4673&item=5751142933&rd=1

Not that this is one of the "later" Japanese Star Roamers......jap power transformer and jap electrolytic. I put one of these together in 1968 and was very disappointed at the lower quality of the components as compared to a "USA" Star Roamer. Soon afterward, we all know what happened to Allied Radio.

I sold my Star Roamer along with my Span Master to buy a brand new Allied A-2515 receiver....another mistake.

Meaning that if there was a terrorist attack, watch them try and cover up that fact to keep people calm. On Fox news they were asking the detective if this could be terrorism. He laughed and said no. They asked how could be know that? He said well it's still too early to tell. If it's too early to tell, how does he know it's not terrorism?

We still don't know the whole story.

I just posted what I saw on the news. At the time they were looking for 3 gunmen. You find it in print. All earlier reports were 3 people and still are.

Can someone recommend a kit for me to build with my daughter. I am not a regular hobbiest, but I built a Heathkit when I was a kid and thought it would be fun and a good way for her to be introduced to electronics. Any thoughts?  Thanks..... Of course the Science Fair is in a couple of weeks!!...lol

Hey, a tribute to the Republicans for letting the assault weapon law ban end.  Let's put more in the hands of terrorists.

And FWIW, the Hartford Courant endorsed Bush in 2000, as most newspapers did.
So much for the theory of a monolithic liberal media.

I honestly have not seen a similar report for 2004.  I expect most papers endorsed Kerry because we've seen Bush's track record.

I actually use one of the Wellbrook loops, and they do help a lot with noise reduction. However, as I learned when I attached ferrite cores to a lot of the cables in my house, it's the noise you don't notice that can get you. I had no idea ferrite cores would make a significant difference in my noise level, but they did. Now I'm wondering if there are other things I can do to bring the noise level down even lower, like operate from a gel cell or regular sla battery.

That was a stupid thing to say. What differance would that make? With your way of thinking, we should outlaw airplanes because they were used to take out the Twin Towers.

This whole thread only proves the point that people are paranoid of terrorism. There have been whack cases in the US for decades popping off people at random. It's not terrorism, it's crazy bastards taking our societal lack or respect for others and for human life in general to it's most absurd conclusion. In a time when kids kill kids for their shoes, or just for the fun of it, it seems to me that we have a lot more to be concerned about.

I don't like it. I found the "dumb customers" forum offensive. After reading through a few stories, I now realize that I've done every thing with those credit card readers except try to use the stylus as an ink pen.

Hey everyone. Happy to say I'll be going on vacation to Europe this summer. We will be spending most of our time in England and Germany, with a little bit in Amsterdam and possibly Prague. Anyway, I figured it would be a good opportunity to hear some exotic stations, and get a taste of European radio.

I'm wondering what to bring. I probably don't want to bring my YB-400, since I don't want to risk losing it. I have a Grundig Mini World 100, which is a small analog-dial handheld. Do you think this would suffice, or should I spring for something a little more advanced? Any recommendations for small but decent handhelds that will do well in Europe? Thanks.

Oh, I see that you are talking about a wire along the TV mast. Depends on how long the mast is if it worth doing. Chances are it is not long enough. Better would be a horizontal wire across the roof.

Yeah, but the Egyptians reigned supreme as the masters of ancient electronics.  They had batteries and were electroplating.  Big deal.  The art was lost and not rediscovered 'till the after the Romans left the scene.

The Greeks and Mayans made some impressive stoneworks, as well. If shortwave radios could be made from piles of stone, they would have done it first.

Do you honestly believe the pace of innovation of a slave society can compete with the pace of innovation of a free society? If so, how? Where is the evidence?

Slave societies hardly innovate in a technological way. Nearly every worthwhile invention has come in the years since the common man has had a chance to profit from his own labors.

Modern architects HAD to study the dome? Does that really mean the new St. Peter's Basilica couldn't be built if the Pantheon didn't exist?

Law and government isn't technological innovation. The greatest advance is civilization was the concept that all men are created equal.

Of course, the Romans built things to last.  They had to.  They were technologically ossified.

Mark Maron was funny referring to this review.

He said that the Advocate is one of the most powerful papers on the Eastern Seaboard. It's just that no one reads it.

If the Romans had short wave, they might have started an Empire

You can deny all you want that the majority of the media is leftist bent but that's your problem.

The parent company does not necessarily interfere with the operation of the junior company.

Looks like we can only expect you to make bad assumptions.

OK, I won't have any expectation that you are capable of making any intelligent decisions in your life.

At the time of the Bush/Gore election I could understand a liberal vote for Gore but after the last four years to continue to desire a Gore win is just so wrong on so many levels that I can only classify you as a regressive thinker and an anal one at that.

I just did a search on you and the result is about 8 anal regressive political posts to 2 radio related. Bad average.

Yes, they were part of Radio Shack at one time, I believe they may have been the parent company that purchased RS. Spun off now...

I've built a couple of these Ramsey kits and think they would be quite suitable for a youngsters SciFair project.  If all goes well you also get a surprizingly good radio...much more satisfying than a crystal set on an oatmeal box.

Honestly, I have enjoyed listening to shortwave for a number of years, and still enjoy it very much.  Radio Japan, BBC, Radio New Zealand, CBC, Radio Tiawan, CHina...etc.

Approxiately how much longer will broadcast shortwave, be around?  I hear alot of people say its dying.  And being an older technology, perhaps it is.  I know that most people my age, don't even know what a shortwave radio is, or what it does.  They have never even heard of shortwave.

How much longer does it have?

One of the big questions is will the diodes in a radio power supply cause cross modulation. It doesn't happen all that often, but when it does it is a nightmare. I prefferred to take my time and do one supply right. I actually have 2, it is nice to have a spare, just in case. On the R2000's and my Pro2004, the internal supply always adds a little frying noise. Most of the time the residual "background" noise swamps that minor noise.
But on nights when the band is quite, that little bit of noise is very frustrating. I have used salvaged ferrite cores on the power, audio, video, and RF cables going to EVERY piece of equipment in our house. I took a bunch of GE MOVs, the kind that plug into the AC outlet and have a female socket, added a 0.1uF cap between both "hot" and "nuetral" to ground, and found it to help quiten the house way down. While the nuetral and ground are connected in the breaker box, it did help a great deal to quite the TV, alarm clock, and microwave down. The microwave is still nasty, but my wife doesn't like it or use it that much. I was goong to add them to the duplex outlets but the local electrical inspector nixed that idea. Getting all three PCs, my wifes, mine and the  dedicated MP3 "juke box" PC, was the biggest heartache. I had to put multiple ferrite cores on every cable that had anything to do with the PCs.

For my car Iused an unused power tap in the main fuse box, and routed the wire through the firewall to a Cannon style 4pin female XLR. That type connector is often found on commercial TV field gear, so I decided to standardise so I can hook my 12V devices up to the supplies at work.
I used a "bunch" of ferrite cores in a failed attempt to quiten my 1991 Civic.
It is much better then it was before, but it is still way to noisy to even think about adding a SW to use while  driving. Thank God for MP3 players. I get to choose what music I listen to, with no DJs, ads or idiots.

Terry

It all ends tomorrow at noon. Feel free to send me any and all of your shortwave gear and I will personally see that it gets a decent burial. It is an end to an era....my condolences to shortwave listening.

No, all kidding aside, shortwave radio is not coming to an end. As technology advances, so will monitoring equipment. Just as in digital scanners, the hobby will keep up with technology - it always has. There will be doomsayers and pessimists to argue the point, but just watch - shortwave radio isn't disappearing. If it were, there wouldn't be technical enginners

Yep. And as the domain name suggests, the site sucks royally.
First, we get plastered with bullshit graphics and huge text.
After scrolling to the bottom of the page, we now get to enter the site and are forced to read a court order no less.

IMNSHO, even though "radio shack" is a registered trademark,  that does not give exclusive rights to the words as the term "radio shack" had been around and established well before the business came into existance.

Problem is, you apparently got nailed for copyright infringement.
Shouldn't be messin with companies who have high priced attorneys.

OK, I don't seem to be making myself clear, so I'll restart from the get-go. Feel free to tell me where I'm wrong.

Slave states are just plain immoral.  The fact that many nations accecpted the immorality of slavery doesn't make it less immoral.  Yes, the US was part of that immoral group.

Slave states have slooooooooow technological progress.  Give the Romans a couple of hundred years and they ought to build better buildings than the Greeks.  Big deal.  No era in human history has learned as much and has had as much technological progress as the era which commenced with the beginning with the antislavery movement in the late 18th century.  This movement was part of a larger movement which believed all people are equal in God's eyes. Am I wrong about any of that?

If I recall correctly the Confederacy's Virginia/Merrimac was a technologically simple, hulking ironclad.  The Union's Monitor had most of the actual technological innovations, including a rotating turret.  Am I wrong about that, as well?

Not much longer, because there's really only enough room in the world for a single information medium. Very shortly, television will cause all movie theaters to close and all newspapers to go out of business.
After that, shortwave (and FM) will disappear. Satellite radio will also disappear because it doesn't have pictures. Then, in one final elimination round, television and the internet will have to duke it out. Then we'll be left with only one medium for information. My guess is that the internet will win, since it's more 'interactive'.

The question then is, will the internet render the spoken word obsolete? I say do all the jabbering you can now, because spoken English will soon be an anachronism.

Didn't say it was that simple, but it was a factor.  Remember, Henry had defended Catholicism rather eloquently before this, so I don't believe it a simple conversion experience that caused him to perform an abrupt 180.

Considering Henry's title of "Defender of the Faith", to turn around quickly and reject the Roman Church at the specific time when he felt he needed heirs, needed a divorce and wanted to marry Anne smacks of a certain Machiavellian style, not altruism.  Certainly, Henry felt he could get away with it and not have Civil War (that came later) and still do with what he felt he needed to preserve the throne.  It wasn't all that long before that the Wars of the Roses had ended, and he felt he needed to preserve the line and ensure a united England.

Did I say anything denigrating the CofE??  No.  I just simply found it curious that everyone is up in arms over this, when a precendent has already been set.  One, I might add, that was a bit more ruthless and Machiavellian than the current scenario.  Considering that many of the German barons who supported Luther did so for both Machiavellian as well as altruistic reasons, I see no reason why that would denigrate what Luther accomplished.  Nor the same for Henry; were it not for him, the Protestant Sects that helped to found the Colonies would probably not be around, nor would William Penn found Pennsylvania, nor would Maryland be founded as a haven for Catholics, nor Georgia as essentially a "reformatory" experiment.  The Colonies might have turned out completely different, as might have England's relationship to it.  Nor, I would argue, would England have become the power that it became without what Henry set in motion.

I should have known better than to ask....hehehehe

Personally I'm amazed at the sophisticated technology going into even the inexpensive shortwave receivers today.

I have two radios made in china, neither over $60.  And they have the options only availble on the most expensive recievers of 10-15 years ago.

I certain have found alot of good broadcast content to enjoy, even though everyone says the sky is falling.  I even have my wife listen over my should at night when I curl into bed.  She'll say, "Take your headphones off and let me hear."  Personally i think more people would be into shortwave, (especially the younger 35 and under group) if they just knew about it, and what it offers.  I tell my friends I spent 50-50 bucks on a RADIO.  And they think I'm crazy.  Until I tell them I can hear Japan and China with it.  Then their stunned, like its some kind of magic box.  Even in this day and age of the internet, and cell phones.  I think shortwave just doesn't get enough publicity.

Maybe if Grundig ran ads on MTV....hehehe.  I'm just kidding of course.

Personally I don't see shortwave going anywhere any time soon either, especially with so much news out there about the Middle East, Aids in africa, North Korea, Nuclear Disarmement, and China's emerging role in the whole big mess... :)  There is alot to monitor on the world scene today.  And when I can take it anywhere I go for 60 bucks (for a life time subscription) I'm all about it!!!

We'll probably lose a couple stations a year for several years - but odds are there will be plenty of kooks and crackpots to listen to for many years.

Tandy started as the leather company.  In the sixties, they had comic books about leather, the same way that Radio Shack had comics about electronics.

Tandy bought Radio Shack, which had been a regional chain of electronic stores in the Boston region, in the early sixties, and turned it into the widespread chain we know today.

It's been a long time since I've seen mention of Tandy Leather, so I wonder if it even exists anymore.

Who knows?  But you do realize that the imminent "death of shortwave" was around in the early seventies when I first learned about shortwave radio.

I suspect it's as easy, or even easier, to find a shortwave receiver today than it was back in 1971 when I bought my first shorwave receiver. Back then, you either could get really cheap multiband radios (ie am/fm/policeband/some shortwave) as generic imports at the corner store, or go to a specialty store to buy a receiver from one of the traditional shortwave receiver manufacturers.  Even cheap receivers are now easier to use with digital tuning (albeit they may not be better performers than the cheap ones of decades ago), and I think you can get a better receiver for less than what it used to cost.  And you can get them at Radio Shack, or since mainstream companies are making them, at various other places. Sony, for instance, because it sells all kinds of consumer electronics, is better placed to get shortwave receivers into stores than in the days of Hammarlund and Hallicrafters when they basically only had shortwave receivers.

I agree. I'm personally just now getting back into the hobby after a 14+ year absence. Sitting here one morning with a cup of coffee reading the news on Yahoo, the thought just popped into my head that it would be fun to have a shortwave radio again.

Right now I'm waiting for the radio to arrive on my doorstep. It's a heavily modified DX-394 found on eBay - nothing really fantastic, but enough to get my foot back in the door. :-)

I will argue Bush as murderer, makes my "threats" justified against his as the guilty.
No evidence to substantiate his accusation, makes the accused an innocent person, straight across the board. Any laywers you know of who might provide some insight, or tips on warrant challenges?

Release the Press

In regards to Johnny's criminal charges.

Being in possession of that I know not of until it reaches my computer, puts the onus on the distributor's server to be held in the same regard equally. To argue for criminalizing the possession of materials that are granted full legal rights to be propagated, as not for sure either way then, but now that they're multiplied to others, makes little sense. For, it only increases a problem that will end up costing the public a great deal more to deride, if the said material is found to be, without reasonable doubt, objectionable from a legal framework set of criteria. Instead, in my case, they've used every impractical assumption regarding the content of what I may have witnessed. I am beside myself dumfounded to learn a picture termed of a topless youth smiling, is a sight the officers involved wish to draw me with as evidenced pedophile. A term classified to include dehumanizing personal acts of sexual assault against the rights of actual children. This is unacceptable. And, I will not be found guilty of approving such conduct. As to other depictions of cruelty I've witnessed by information gathering, I can say without doubt to any as a seeker of injustice, has motivated me personally as a public figure, to take direct steps few others do in defense of the innocent. Unlike the two officers who are my public accusers, I don't believe indiscriminately murdering people by bombing a country brings about protections for those involved for example, and yet, my accusers proudly stated, they were supporters of such unprovoked, and unwarranted ILLEGAL criminal conduct against our children left undefended under their limited bushite haze.

Nothing will bottom this episode of my life, where as a lover of children everywhere, and a champion for human rights around the world, am judged not fit for freedom by a couple expert, pro-war "liberating" bushite bombers. [they both survived serving the military before taking up this police business as Bush supporters for lawlessness - (they PUPOSEFULLY sabotaged, the planned video recording of public evidence against Bush, that I made to the National Security Division of the RCMP in writing, and in approximately, ten separate audio recordings. [Oops... ])]

The bushite bombers searched for depictions of behavior sexually impressionable readers could arguably, lose their self respect or control over, but can be found by any desperate conniver, searching in depictions of a rape scene, naked people on a beach, or in a cloud storm. So, some guide lines on how best to stop their depictions of the rights of children being breached most definitely, should be handled where the questionable material emanates, not with the quester of good taste, out looking to see what is widely, and freely, publicly available by the thousands. Again, not perceived until within the possession of the observer to witness. The classifications of all that is accepted to include in the definition of "child pornography", should not include the beauty of what it is to be nakedly human, or normally affectionate. But that is being open, honest, and beautiful, traits an advocate of tyranny through censorship will run and hide from, for they fear the private human element in our public political affairs speaking freely. Bushitism. [Think of Life, a struggling to survive for better times profiteer, and ourselves, a distant relative nobody's ever heard of till now at most.]

I've been a widely published internet psychology columnist, almost since ideas have been broadly shared as such. And my writing testifies to the subject of human rights denied, as the struggles I attempt to find, real solutions for. The artistic impressions created by the artist, like the words defined within this sentence of words, is but streaming reference points to the larger unbound projections of the manifested mind. A defined, definite conclusion on it's meaning, loses it's truer state. Recognizing the subjective relationship on communicating through media, is ultimately the reader perceiving this conclusion. It is not therefore a conclusion the reader becomes for, but is held in consideration, when creating it's over all pretext, in the form of personal insight or imagination. An imaginative state of fiction, does not preclude it from still being, a shared artistic work suspended through disbelief. I can read a fictionally exciting murder mystery, all the while knowing, the characters who suffer misfortunes, are not living worse because of me, nor to learn the reasons someone is obtusely perverse, make me then, more inclined to disrespect real living, in a similar kind. [read anything from corporate media challenger, the lover, Johnny Wizard] The actions of a character in fiction, does not compel me to give up my own belief of reality, or a respect I grant in those who protect the rights of any child, or adult for that matter. I have many written works for example from those who accolade Bush as of unprecedented prowess when it comes to believing in the holy scriptures, but come on, who believes that make believe horror show, and how did I get to know people could be so deceived without knowing the indisputable consequence of Bush's deliberate criminal actions? The opinions I hold in reference, are not opinions I just automatically except as my own without thinking for myself in other words. If America witnessed without censorship the vicious evil bombing of God's children in Fallujah or Samara, or the torture of innocent people to death by liar Bush's satanic sadomasochists, every bushite repuglicon who voiced political support for the irrational murderous acts, would be hunted down by millions of armed America men, tried, convicted, and executed in time square, that we all know for certain without room for question.

/ / Expression that degrades or dehumanizes is harmful in and of itself as all members of society suffer when harmful attitudes are reinforced. \ \

But does the witness of such a relationship, granted only to the mind of an officer? Harmful attitudes depicted in Nazi film archives, works of fiction, or artistic expression, does not every time, have us rooting on the bad guys. For if so, police officers investigating harmful child pornography possession, would be left without an ability to even discern a care for any one. But they would and do care. We can see a need, and a honor to defend the rights of children, and I can't think of a more noble police position, to try defending those principles to the best of our ability. Not infringing on free thought access of everyone because some are arguably, more impressionable to the false view of the bushite conspirator. DISTRIBUTERS of illegal material is where the law should not be denied a place to practice. Making criminals out of what someone picks out in coffee grounds, is to say, some thoughts considered, are thoughts better left alone as forbidden when alleged thought of. That is where no god or person should be allowed to falsely determine for our selves, with what words can be thought "about", and what words can not. Of course threatening the freedom of another living individual with the law, better be based on the tangible as documented offences, otherwise, our rights wouldn't be publicly challenged for protection, but of denial. So Hammurabi came up with: A person accused of a criminal offense without any evidence is innocent, and the accuser, especially when it comes to capital crimes, is the bad guy every time. And gee, if America does that, Mr. bush Jr. could go to jail from Canada, China, or perhaps somewhere off somewhere's else where they have laws enforced against the crime of murder.

I am a behavioral psychologist, who's not only written on psychology's pillars of understanding, but also on the struggles of lawless war committed by sexually dysfunctional sadomasochists. I was interested to watch The Learning Channel's special, The Meaning of Love, a four or five part series, hosted by "The Naked Ape"'s, Desmond Morris. This world's most recognized, widely publicized human behaviorist, reporting on juvenile properties of mutual expression between lovers, lending well into nurturing a caring relationship for each other.

Therefore, is a reader of fiction regarding adult themes, going to read all about who get their toes piggy wiggled, or the professional accountant, who at spin the bottle, becomes the lucky "loser" of a sound deserved spank or two, secretly though, underneath it all, a pedophile who thinks unclean thoughts? Examples of sexual boundaries: Is not a heterosexual, secretly gay when they play with themselves that way? Perhaps a trans cross dresser? And some men may relate to this, but man, lesbians are a dream come true. But then... well, your a guy too right?

Such normal dynamics of continuous change through development within relationships, can not be denied a place, as being mutually beneficial as human in quality, (and maybe fun,) and being, private, none of our business, almost childhood like high jinx of that moment in time. But, leaves a, any person public view of definite acceptance, intolerably immature as inappropriate across the public spectrum. Publicly get into the intricacies of private relationships with your new book why don't you with the Court now John, you have all our ears a-flutter. Grandma doesn't need to know about your proficiency at.. and I'm not the same to Dick as I am to Jane, if you catch my drift.

While two male bushite, who are now helplessly stuck appearing plastered to protect Bush from arrest for mass murder through the advocation of censorship by tyranny, could quip to us being lovey dovey, means your ripe for picking on as, the soft and mushy easy push over in the corner they see. Me? This is why bushite think allowing brave men of our communities to speak openly as would be, calmly, against the criminal dictums of the demon anti-Christ, shouldn't be allowed, because they know, the world would then recognize them for the cowardice and betrayal they hold of our human spirit. A spirit that craves for all, the end to the continuing neo-con wars with the freedom to love Life for being truly ourselves. I see life everywhere, for trying to make some happiness and prosperity. If only we would listen to reasons for believing in creating a better world where life in cherished, is a world where bombs don't drop indiscriminately from the sky in God's name left for blame by the thieving liar bushite scoundrels.

The inner world of artistic creations by story line, is a world of pretend make belief, forwarded by the observer's conclusions. I am concerned to read struggles for entertainment, to include, cruelty against anyone for sexual gratification, but all literature regarding such, does not change my respect for the rights of others, especially those of children. If anything, it makes me more concerned on how respect for another can be better served by the powers and freedom of the unshackled word.

I've seen more child pornography on the television news regarding child pornography, than I've ever mistakenly got through the internet. Providing illegal depictions for public consumption, is where the law should be exercised, but it's often not on the grounds it doesn't prosecute as many. See my point? The FBI did an expensive child porn sting, running for two years in total I think it was, and in that time, they gave away tens of thousands of images to thousands of, who knows how to copy customers, that much later, the FBI would argue were illegal to have possession of. That is like a huge wasted effort OF OURS to distribute such offenseble materials, particularly if it was sold as, "teens in action", "youthful beauty", "buttercups", "a day at the dentist", or something of some sort to entrap more crime business. For our police agencies to set exact criteria on what would constitute child pornography, and scan internet traffic for such distributors, would be far more effective in halting such proliferations. They don't largely because, they'd have to be more precise in determinations, and therefore, many would lose their jobs as then redundant. By not doing so, we can pay billions to have people arrested, labeled pedophile for witnessing depictions of God's beautiful children being normal - while then pleading guilty to avoid the public tarnish such new bite revelations would bring. Destroying families, and future job prospects of individuals such as myself, who hate the thieving, murderous, ignorant as truly ungodly bushite liars to the core of my eternal being. Currently, our legal services, can't help but learn, bush did 9/11 with General Ahmad, and are left speaking "nothing" too - in news public suits regarding the injustice they're recorded not to answer about. Instead, a couple confessed bushite, will conclude who ever witnesses depictions they suggestively reach for as inappropriate, to not possibly also, hold children, and their rights, paramount. Well, that's just simply not true. I call for the arrest of those that ran d squads against only known as innocent families including children in Afghanistan, (Tenth Mountain Division), what do the, two self confessed once blind Bush worshipping police offers, who stand as my public accusers as job requirement, have to state on that denial of our rights to cherish life and liberty? As bushite bullshiters, they don't want to answer to not presently asked public media enquiries, because being "embarrassed" sadomasochists, they then may likewise, get off on accusing community members to be pedophiles, with flimsy examples of what, in their minds, in an insult to our sworn values. Children can be beautiful, but certainly aren't, as adults, interested in being so naked, on the six o'clock news. Do they care to make a scene bigger than it first appears? Imagine me hosting the evening news and the Johnny Jamboree, hashing it out with my opponents on the tough questions, rolling with the insults and the cash offerings, while taking time to sample the world's "best" pizza an beer joints?

Or, do they adroitly believe, they'll teach that Johnny image something or two on their own behalves for our Humanity?

George W. Bush is primarily motivated ultimately with how much they can sucker out of our public coffers, thereby in spirit, advocate censorship on my calls for traitor bush's capture for 9/11.

What they are doing is this:

My "official" court case, (Involving all good people I believe) is enforcing our Law by suggesting everything in my possession can be isolated, onto itself, and made into something I'm not of entirely. All the while pretending, we ain't at all aware of Usenet servers, or my, Johnny Wizard saves the World writings of DOCUMENTED CRIMES AGAINST YOUR HUMANITY. Writings that dominate the interest of the whole investigation, locally, and internationally. But gee, without your help, two bushite "coppers" are going to appear still pressing that bush not be arrested in their contempt of silence, while praying, I not be granted a moment in my trial to speak for my own defense literally. Well, maybe not, after all, we all change with the times. My last conversation with the said two, was quite a way back when they were asked to prosecute Johnny Wizard, and likely came back with the reply, Johnny Who? So, let's not kid ourselves, my words are quite amazing when you think about it. Well, I'd hope in these last days, before this coming media flop, they've taken it amongst themselves, to get together with the loving family to discuss anyone of the hundred or two, Johnny Wizard works of the world, and conclude, George W. Bush is truly bad news to their world's view too.

Even.

Well.. how a you been doing anyway? Are not these developing story lines to be something good going live mainstream... will we demonize the principles of Christ, in censoring ourselves like the individual person of Johnny Wizard is to be, as, being denied personal freedom by "unaccountable" George W. Bush's dictatorship of tyranny through enslavement of the human species, or, will You consider the equal freedom of a telephone call, a cassette tape recording, or perhaps, photo copier to bring us around this, we want our still living rights heard too man. Right now before we alls go it to the clink. Coast to Coast should be broadcasting for America's interest, by openly discussing the still paying costs of the bushite war crime business.

America! - bush's war is something you do not want to lose to in further dying silence. Take it from me. Be a hero. Dream of the babes! - Movie deals. Lives saved!!!

Business is business.

Look you might not care for me personally, okay, but this George W. Bush's treason of nine-eleven is an evil we together, will never, be too weak to stand against as. As indecisive humans without a leader, we will never be too few from demanding Justice be served in respect of Humanity's interest.

In nabbing those who committed treason against our America's America on 9/11, needs to be completed by firstly, following the crime scene leads at the beginning with Bush's prior 9/11 plans worked with the ring leader's financier, General Ahmad, and how Condi, rumsfeld, and Cheney with Myers, fits in the picture together as likewise traitors. The Iraq war is also a crime against humanity. All stolen monies and property must be sought, then returned to a legitimized democratic government. Torture is outlawed, and finally, all innocent people held in prisons by bushite forces, held without out charge for trial, need to be released immediately as ourselves being denied liberation truly. Let common sense prevail.

Your Kingly King of a Dreamer's dream, seriously considering prison time to be,

a major downer for my chances at partying,

Johnny Wizard

Psychodynamic Theory

Freud suggested that there were conflicts between conscious and unconscious forces that influence our feelings, thoughts, and behaviors, theorizing that conscious thoughts only comprise a fraction of mental activity, therefor concluding we, as individuals, are psychologically, more that we can speak as understood completely. Freud used the term unconscious motivation, to address that of which we dont consciously know of as elements of personality, to offer explanation and study of what can not be stated as direct awareness of the persons living relationship to existence with our infinite nature as. To reveal these hypothesized underling forces of personality, Freud developed three techniques: Free association, dream interpretation, and analysis of, slips of the tongue. By researching these areas of experience that are not direct results from conscious abstracts, or conclusions, Freud hoped to reveal an order to causes that reflected a hidden instigation of behavior included. (Freud was secretly a theologian). Freud, naturally, considered that our personalities begin at the start of development, so emphasized childhood experience as the foundation, or framework from where our personalities would be more so dependent upon. Freud formed his theory around divided states of mind: id, ego, and superego, along with 5 psychosexual stages to help structure an understanding of our progressions through human development.

Such wrestling with Freuds ideas, brought me to consider, are our deliberate actions not based on sound judgement? If there are unconscious motivations driving our will, where does that leave principles, as we measure ourselves in honesty? When things are uncertain, do unconscious motivations, gain decisiveness on our faulting conclusions? Can some forgotten childhood experience, unknowingly convince ourselves, one plus one equals something else?

Humanistic Theories

Humanistic Theories emphasize our capacity for personal growth, development of our potential, and freedom to change our destiny. Unlike more defined branches of Psychology that seek underlining hidden forces, Humanistic theories stress self realizations are ultimately, like plans, responsible for the directions we take in personal development, and through the motivations we have as the human species. The phenomenological perspective, speaks of our individual perceptions, be they accurate or otherwise, become our reality, while the Holistic view, speaks of the individual person, being more than individual parts described through divisions of statement, but of a unique entity that is, in part, identifiable to all things mentionable. It would be then right to say, Holistic is a definition that defines its own meaning, as something more than can be completed by its own explanation. Much like dancing poetry that holds lasting truths, or a leisurely good beer on some sunny afternoon. In the field of Humanistic Theory attributed to Maslow, we concede we have desires, that are framed in a hierarchical manner, where the basics for survival are primary, while social and personal needs ascend us through greater living by open communications with the Universe as ourselves. Social Cognitive Theory

The field of Social Cognitive Theory has categorized personality development, to be attributable through three wide based assertions: Environmental factors, cognitive-personal factors, and behavior, which in turn, interact to form everything. Bandura portrayed personality's development into four main processes: developing language ability, observational learning, purposeful behavior, and self-analysis. Bandura emphasized that our cognitive thought out conclusions, is our personality development. He too however, like his predecessors, also dealt with consequences we can attribute partly to forces we are not solely consciously responsible for, and the strengths of those forces upon our outcomes. The perceptions of where we are at succeeding, Bandura argued is a balance in our beliefs in what we are capable of, and so being, brought forward the outlining term, Locus of control. Internal Locus of control is dependant on how much we believe our particular actions can control some outcome for personal reward. While the designation of an external Locus of control, is a delegation to our self on some situations, as having little ability in our world as malleable to our own command for gratification, now, or in the future somewhere. Though, it should be remembered, our living existence with nature, wouldnt be entirely hostile to the idea of bringing ourselves enjoyment by simply only trying to better ourselves, and the threat of law winning to protect the community serves better than chaotic anarchy. Not much would ever be gained, if failed attempts were concluded as complete failures of experience. Much of Bandura is widely correct as generalized statements about the human condition, so much so, that his, Self-Efficacy construct, regarding self confidence being crucial to succeeding, is as much a reiteration of his Locus of control theorem.

Trait Theory

Trait theory is an attempt to be more scientific regarding the sometimes, ambiguous nature of getting to the absolute truth of our universal condition as individuals. Trait theory's five-factor model classifies all personality traits to be associated into five categories: openness, conscientiousness, extraversion, agreeableness, and neuroticism. (OCEAN). With the theory parsed with a fluidity for change for an individuals classification as developing, while naturally becoming more stabilized as we grow older to our vises, and conceptions of conviction on who we figure we are. The designations, OCEAN, are almost arbitrary, and are prone to relative bias for conclusions. Objectivity in assessing ones agreeableness, regarding a mathematical certainty for example, only comes from whether the person understands how to formulate the answer. Perhaps it is insecurity of suffering ridicule for being stupid, that an individual would publicly argue with his calculator at the grocery store. Or in another way, ones agreeableness, without question, could lead to doing jumping jacks in Brookland if ones not careful. Now substitute agreeableness with openness, or conscientiousness.

An attempted, conscious or otherwise, confrontation to the limits of relative fallible human reason it would appear this is heading for in the field of psychology's relationship to the categories of philosophy, theology, and the true science of measurement. It is the explanation made through the divisive qualifications of language, that fall us to the deception that we are actually aware as could be of our infinite selves, a living part of existence. In the beginning was the Word, and only some super freaky God could figure out what it meant really, maybe. I could be right, to say I may be wrong on things that are not truly separate from everything else, as effects have causes, and no living thing is separate from existing. So, to successfully compartmentalize our identity, is to include our relationship to the winds on Jupiter, and the electromagnetic properties of consciousness being also timeless in nature. (Science teaches us that.)

Genetic factors are recognized to play a significant role in trait theory, particularly when looking at the comparisons of separated at birth twins, who not only have commonalties in appearance, but occasionally, also in experience with our physical reality, with decisions made, as once thought completely independent, have shown through in life styles, such as employment choices, or naming a pet dog, Toy. Which would beckon to theorize DNA's multi-dimensional space-time design, such as with horizontal gene transfers, to not just a blueprint to making something else, but to some never understandable living holographic relationship to all things in this universe, as intelligence ourselves.

for all mankind...

The EVIL anti-Christ "un-accountable to American law cos hees duh president" demon bush Jr., has ordered the commitment of mass murder in our names, while his enemy bush bitch cult following in the corporate news establishments, have refused our communities to publicly address the DOCUMENTED evidence made public by the FBI. Alleging, General Ahmad, bush's business partner, was "secretly" responsible for a wire transfer of 100,000.00 to 9/11's "ring leader" Mohamed Atta, and in addition, that the demon anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr,, had a top secret CRIMINAL war plan in place, worked on with condoleeza rice, and implemented in part by General Ahmad, to criminally invade Afghanistan signed September 9th, 2001, provided to and reported on by Jim at MSNBC. All centered on not apprehending bin Laden, (prior, during, or after) as a prerequisite to guarantee invasion. (, to secure a liquefied natural gas pipeline for pension thievers Enron.) THEREBY, forbidding the apprehension of the true culprits through following the crime scene leads at the real murder scene. See, with a talk radio program we could take calls and help any others who have some difficulty in understanding the logic of reason, as super simple thinking.

So, as many know, the bush regime is FOR REAL pushing still to have me incarcerated for speaking these truths, truths that stand irrespective of my personal opinion, or spin doctoring. Will you, as a complete stranger, but a fellow lover to life, help my cause by requesting also, I be allowed to face publicly my accusers on the, censorship for bushite tyranny radio networks Coast to Coast, or CBC national radio here in Canada? Before, god forbid, a couple, once self confessed bushite "police officers" of tyranny, (death squads against school kids, happy funders of heroin pushers, and who in silence, work getting un-informed soldier teen/bushite sacrificed as the bad guys for Bush's thieving. Done all to gloriously please the fabulously wealthy, safe at home from the clutches of power, neo-con "Cabal" of enemy traitors.) get lost in the translation. The fascist corporate interests are likely not going to factually report on my trial, but attempt to demonize me with their falsehoods and betraytals against our communities, that is now presently on going without your voice also heard raised yet for objection. A trial, where the evidence that factually establishes bush guilt for treason against all the American People will be sought as immaterial. What the evil enemy as godless bushite dogma blindly hope for is, a silently feared coercion through suggestive threat against Our entire Justice system, leaving the court to have quoting perhaps, only one or two lines written by myself out of context from "The Trial and Conviction of Our Mr. bush Jr" to a jury, while disallowing the documented facts, surrounding my allegations to be refused as my defense. [the criminal leads end at the bush administration's door step with bush's own signature, but bush, as Presidente', can't be arrested under American law, only impeached by the majority of already bought out and sold whole repuglicons.] Counting that our community of peers will have not a inkling what is contained in the very first paragraph of "The Trial...". You my friend alone, you alone, could help US change all that. I, as a single person am trying to stand on the principle, that ANY individual, that is accused of a capital offense without evidence, is UNIVERSALLY INNOCENT, as they would be tomorrow, today, and way back in Hammurabi's day also. And that by reason, the false accuser, is the number one suspect to start with. The enemy bushite MURDERERS try to confuse this extremely simple matter with the powers of hypnosis, or suggestion through the dictate of "our" television and radio cult broadcasts that promote tyranny by fascist censorship.

The nature of hypnosis shouldn't be feared, but learned from to gain a better understanding of the true human condition. Something a bushite hates like our public education systems, is where we through improved communications, halt their criminal transgressions against our better selves.

In the warrant to take all my writings, and computer stuffs, (to begin on their fishing expedition to protect the war monger demon anti-Christ,) it was argued, that the information contained within their possession should remain TOP SECRET. The document has now been made available for my defense, and here is the reason it was argued THREE YEARS AGO, to not have the charges publicly heard.

/ / FROM TIME TO TIME, the NSIS section receives threats from members of the public who after investigation, turn out to be suffering from mental illness. On occasion, proceedings under the Mental Health Act as opposed to the Criminal Code may be more appropriate. In cases of a mental illness, the publicity and sensationalism of an incident such as this one may turn out to be negative to mentally ill persons. \ \

Yeah but, what about DEFENDING the FBI's findings "copper"? Is it that anyone who stands up for Justice in America, who asks loudly for a public platform in OUR media market place, should only be considered, top secretly, mentally ill to think they have a right to contribute on an equal basis, among the oh so lauded, intellectual power breaking crime pushers of our World? (The woman hating child killers, like naive bushite nazi demon liar Mattis wear badges too don't you know?) Are we crazies to want to defend our rights to be free of murderous tyranny? Are they secretly saying on behalf of the bushite: to speak out in praise of the good investigative work the FBI sometimes does, is a bad thing for their future top secret "investigations" on Our behalf? Or is it because, if we believe in doing what needs to be done to protect Humanity from tyranny, would truly mean, evil bushite wouldn't be able to rob further from dying sacrificed as the undefended America?, and soon, wisdom by communication through science and reason would rule our better stays? Would it surely drive me insane to have our public acknowledge our good deeds that work to have freedom really reign indivisibly through Justice supreme? Anyway, Jeeze, I'm already crazy.

The national security branches of all our governments need a major overhaul in protocols. (officers who are involved in uncovering a criminal conspiracy, a conspiracy involving the murder of thousands of now dead Americans, should receive the full support of every police unit this world over as a protective measure for fellow officers. After all, George W. Bush is an American cop killer too.)

Before my site "Wizard's World Wide Works of Wonder" was taken down, I had the center piece (still available in other places) "Stand Together or Don't" as a full page spread with graphics and everything. "Stand Together..." is an essay that only asks that our standing criminal code in Canada be enforced, when it comes to the documented thieving of our communities as committed with the notoriously miss reported workings of the "cheating at play" VLT machine. I also had "Johnny's Last Stand" take a prominent position at the web page, along with "The Alien's Take". So get this: another argument made for the warrant to confiscate my personal belongings and leave the FBI out to die, was attributed to only a single Cnst., who blanketed my entire site in reference as "anti-government". That statement was the only statement made by the officer in regards to her summation of my writing skills, and was made in argument to a Judge to obtain the Warrant, just before the site fell, so I'm now, suspecting, was likely responsible for complaining it should be shut down by maybe.. badge waving?) Strangely (unknown to me until just recently) as it would happen, this same individual I had contacted over the course of several months regarding the VLTs, (on how the DOCUMENTED crime is perpetrated, and on our communities TRUE monetary losses (maths)) was the same who, top secretly claimed, my writing on Justice was "anti-government." See, I offered to come down to the station and assist with the maths if need be, (remember we're talking the thieving of literally billions and billions of dollars each year from mostly the poorest segments of our societies) to offer assistance in any way I could. (Or, to be told "fool, your mistaken".) But each and every time, I was denied access to have implemented, the protections of the criminal code here in Canada, (that usually makes our country greater than all others,) without a given reason why. [An aside: bushite irrationally hate science and reason because we're intelligent, while I, can't help but respect life by learning something from just about anyone.]

Here is what it further said in the warrant, that up until now was considered top secret. (without the warrant staying secret, the darkness can't stand the light of scrutiny, and I would be freed from the restraints of a bogus warrant to go on shouting for TRUE Justice by DEMANDING the arrest, trial, and subsequent execution of those responsible for the crimes of nine/eleven - bush, rumsfeld, Ahmad, and condoleezza rice. With cheney and myers running a close second.)

the Search Warrant;

> AND UPON being satisfied that access to and disclosure to information filed in support of the Search Warrant referred to above might be used for an improper purpose;

[getting back stolen VLT revenues you mean?]

> AND UPON being satisfied that it would be in the best interests of the administration of justice that access to and disclosure of information filed in support of the application for the Search Warrant referred to above should be prohibited to the public;

[What?, don't want US public to know bush, rumsfeld, and condi committed nine/eleven with General Ahmad? Well, now I can see why all the hush hush.]

> AND UPON being satisfied that access to and disclosure of information filed 'in support of the Search Warrant referred to above might well pose a substantial threat to the interests of effective law enforcement;

[following crimes scene leads at real murder scenes not good enough for our police agencies? - US people backing up ourselves with as something worth reckoning a better future with?]

> AND UPON being satisfied that access to and disclosure of information filed in support of the Search Warrant referred to above would compromise the nature and extent of an ongoing investigation;

[Well, it's only been years now. Let US ask you, have YOU called the news desks of CBC or CNN, about bush's prior plan also? Are sandwich boards, posters, and placards, a police union willing to truly get behind as the untold Justice struggle for our suffering Humanity?]

> AND UPON being satisfied that access to and disclosure of information filed in support of the Search Warrant referred to above could conceivably compromise the health interests of a person;

[What about the health concerns of the hundreds of thousands of innocent people bush has since ordered murdered, along with the millions of others who will suffer the consequences of radio-active contaminations for the next few eons? National news coverage is not what I fear, I fear that no one on this lonely planet cares to hear the cries of my Humanity for mercy, or holds love for God as worth fighting for.

So, what now? Please don't leave ourselves undefended from the criminal dictums of the demon anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr. Demon bush is not America, America is America. Look, we arrest those responsible, and we carry on, by firstly reversing almost every thing G.W. the traitor implemented. Look, when Clinton implemented change, he was able to turn the country around pretty quick. Just bring back some progressive ideas. Dump the Patriot Act, and those that voted for it, and truly bring back the Constitution with a respect granted to all Peoples regardless of nationality. Christian Palestinians are humans like US too don't you know? While fixing the neo-con war mess should start by making all co-habitants equal under the principles of fair judicial due process, meaning: freeing the innocent held captive, and arresting for war crimes among other things: bush and rumsfeld, myers and cheney, Allawi and Doud, Tommy Franks, Steven Russell, Saudi wahhabi Buford Blount, woman haters Sicko Sattler and mad dog Mattis, Batiste, Miller - along with all the rest of the rapists and torturers, and then, we.. seek out all the stolen assets taken in America's stolen name. Big job. But we can do it! God is on our side.

I was reading about "Jew Boy..." and I thought, perhaps some may misunderstand my position on Mr. Felton. When I said, "And in light of our desperate challenges today of defeating the enemies of Humanity as specific unjust individuals in "hiding", an ignorantly stupid thing to say." I was coming from a position that I felt, Greg's own superbly good and strong, intellectual arguments on the bigoted demonization of the innocent, would find himself! at fault with, by not looking for another's view regarding the label of "Zionist". Perhaps I was being too picky, but then, generally speaking, disputing the indefinable public's perception of the Holocaust is a loser&#25263; argument. Arguments, that generally, refuse to realize, soldiers like today's bushite, would as mindless droids, line innocent humans up next to a ditch, and shoot them all dead for no real reason in particular. [Nazis took film footage early on, then banned it, because it looked so completely insane.] Just like rumsfeld&#25263; blitzkrieg, or when enemy bushite thieves dropped thousands and thousands of land mine cluster duds in Iraqi school districts, threw grenades into Iraqi homes indiscriminately before entering with guns blaring, and true Americans, like Germans of yester year, still don't have it together as a freedom force worth reckoning with, to immediately destroy, the known of bushite with American law for criminally implementing the sadomasochistic torture of completely innocent people, and in some cases, tortured to death because maybe they finally then admitted, they were in cahoots with whomever as the "terrorist". Thereby, according to America's new Justice speaker, Gonzales, no longer was a human with rights to begin with anyway. A publicly expressed contempt for US innocent, done in by the disfunctioning sub-human bushite traitors sitting in our office. I'm sure some might understand who the greatly knowledgeable Greg Felton was referring to when stating "Zionists", but just think of the Arab "Semite". Ariel Sharon will steal the definition to victimize innocent Jews with for the American tax payer to foot the bill as, but when an Iraqi Semite, new to English newscasts tells you he's a bonafide Semite really, can he therefore be completely wrong about his true identity? Or how about this: do you think, the persons never shown for public media interview as accepting to receive stolen property like completely furnished houses called those of "Jewish Settlements", contain anything but, bigots masked as religious observers? How else could they possibly live with themselves? Amongst US true believing Jews? What of Hillel do we fail to recognize in not condemning the brutalizing of the innocent in our own names left forsaken? A well entertained teen, growing up in dum-dum America, or here in Canada for that matter, will likely have little understanding of Palestinian Jews or "Zionism", (like we don't regarding regressive tax systems,) but for like a proud Catholic in Ireland, it's something stupid he's suppose to stand up and destroy himself about while in a drunken stupor turning orange regarding some ancient Roman history or earlier biblical teachings not ever comprehended entirely... But then, I thought, gee, I was the one being ignorantly stupid, because in that space where we were communicating during the recorded interview, we had just finished making the correlation of mutual racism/bigotry expressed between Hitler and Ariel Sharon. Sharon/Hitler steals/stole an innocent person's home, then throws/threw them into concentration camps to be victimized further because they&#25262;e said to be inferior to the war funded as ungodly criminals, by the ignorant and stupider than ever American tax payers, again. [See "Trading with the Enemy"] And it was there where, Greg brought forward, that too, they are some of the very same Ideologs, of both scenes, who want always to divide the masses by intolerance, through racism or bigotry, to get ourselves to die at war with our/their ignorance, while the true 'hidden' instigators, (non-descript billionaire weapons dealing private bankers usually,) bask on some beach somewhere in our stolen luxuries, not having to lift a finger to command a full course dinner. That is why bushite are currently working to even further destroy America's public educational system which is already the very weakest of our developed world, and why it is preached on television in America non-stop, invest in deregulating the world market so you too, can rip someone off with slave labor conditions to compete your good for nothing son/father with. One out of three workers, officially, in America earn ten dollars or less an hour. And repuglicons hired near homeless people at 75 dollars a day in Ohio to walk around carrying we vote repuglicon signs during the mock election. An informed populace, is a group of people growing tired of being taken for victims, who might wise up and stand for real Justice through the Freedoms of understanding. Can you imagine US speaking internationally? I can. If only You'll help me gain a platform to debate the facistic censorship deniers. The Coast to Coast radio netwrok don't want no Americans talking about why Americans are being asked to die for the bounty of, bad guy bushite war profiteering. The wealthy celebs don't have to risk their own lives, just the lives of other Americans denied a voice for representation. So, asking once or twice, and then fading away to give up ain't gonna do it. Coast to Coast only allows an intelectual one time a month to speak for maybe few seconds. That should change to weekly. And Americans should DEMAND America's serious political issues work to be addressed in an open forum like talk radio provides. I am open for challenging interviews. But again, bushite don't like free excange of ideas within our communities, for it puts their Satanic cult leader in a disfavorable light, who then wouldn't so easily, get away with committing mass murder in America, or allowing America's greatest pension thieves, to escape un-accounted.

So, I've been working on questions..

Do you not as an officer of our laws, require evidence to substantiate allegations of criminal impropriety against members of our community?

Would not allegations of murder substantiated without evidence, be false? And would not therefore, the slaughter of innocents, blamed for terrorism without a shred of evidence being known universally, be acts of mass murder committed against US interests? Or for the true believers, terrorism inflicted against G-d? (And, is this not why defining "Terrorism" was forbidden in the recent "Terrorism" conference in Saudi Arabia?)

To persecute an individual nation without a reason substantiated by evidence, would be then the persecution of our forsaken God as the innocent of US individually? Like Christ on a cross somewhere you'd be then right?

Come on, please, help yourself out man. This is Your world too you know,

"I share the belief of many of my contemporaries that the spiritual crisis pervading all spheres of Western industrial society can be remedied only by a change in our world view. We shall have to shift from the materialistic, dualistic belief that people and their environment are separate, toward a new conciousness of an all-encompassing reality, which embraces the experiencing ego, a reality in which people feel their oneness with animate nature and all of creation."

I Stand Corrected

Okay, I'm sorry, I was wrong. After reviewing communications with my home planet, it seems I may have goofed on location. I wanted to go to Earth, but it seems we suffered a data mix up, and, well, this civilization isn't nowhere near, here where I thought I was. Oops. And.... a.... another slight mix up has me mistaken on another as well too, with an out of date computer malfunction, a glitch, set me back a hundred years, those idiots, and, a, hells bells, I, was... also suppose to praise the Republicans. Doh. Sorry bout dat. Bush, I lied, my fault, I'm an idiot. Please, I hope you can except me for being wrong like I was, an, maybe next time I come back, I'll do it right the way I should. Your not so bad, and I know you would want to do the right thing, if you knew how, like I wish I could be certain for myself sometimes. Maybe at some point we could be friends. Hm, it would seem you people haven't begun evolving just yet though. My mistake again. I suppose that explains allot about my vanishing thrills of excitement about prospects, and our unanticipated exhaustion without explanation. I thought you people would be smart enough to catch on as humans, with me being, you know, Jesus or Satan, Mithras, an immortal child of God, stand in maker of the universe and all that. So, hmm, I guess I'll be leaving shortly, to head out to my original destination, a developing planet I do understand to be years ahead older than your own, who already kinda have an inkling about not destroying life, and really have made themselves as the living, a must see destination. I was destined to a planet system revolving around who you would refer to as Bernards, being originally from deep within the supercluster you have labeled Perseus, as humans too, interestingly through God. It's a small universe after all. My transportation device is of a free energy nature, something much like you have already available, but refuse to implement. God knows why you don't, I mean doesn't. Know I mean. Ah.. No matter where you are in the universe though, as you may discover before destroying yourselves, if your conscious, and sufficiently intelligent through life to recognize yourselves as a living part of the universes, you would come to the same conclusion, no matter where you do your thinking. They are us equally, and this is true, no matter where your from, stand, or hold. This concept represents the death of ego, but not really because your still the same, you just learn more about how to get around as best we can. The same as it ever was. We, an intergalactic federation, commandeers originally under the apices of the great, we never needed a world war, Sir Admiral General D. Wesley, who's responsibilities dictated, we recognized to be our own through his genius. After being the forerunner of the foundations beginnings, we gave us all an award, and helped many find themselves, comfortably in a state of semi-retirement of which us all, our truly grateful. We in total, so far, are the S.D.S.G., Super Duped Spacegirl Group, consisting of more than twenty thousand, distinct, well connected civilizations, (fiber optics is very popular as well as free solar powers) who through good times, have naturally become friends, in this amazing, got a have a care for yourself because we understand just how fantastic you all really is for benefits, and there are many. The Universe is compassion, love and understanding, but because we are of life, and as growed ups we can also, which includes me occasionally, be greedy, hateful, and stupid. But I guess for yourselves, because life is free, you've deemed it therefore, worthless, for the shortening time you believe you are here to take from yourselves. Survival of the fittest, we as the intelligent universe have surmised, and by you deeming yourselves consciously as obsoletes for profit politically, I guess is for the best, if you really can't figure out why you would. Hmm.. You mammals are dumb. So, I would now suggest all previous writing I've done as incorrect, and highly implausible on this matrix set. Private bankers in their private market on this planet, are clearly the best informed top secretly, Greenspan is who stands over and against our nature with his private plan is betterer, controls the world, and is in with the winners, because they own all you as money to hide from their manufactured fears of your adding abilities, because your really scared of yourself right, and that is what you are all about as them. Continue on as you were, pay no attention, it's just us losers here, take advantage of yourselves, continuing to treat the public like your, oops, I mean their corporations tell we, who you are. Continue to allow the corporations to destroy your living economy and your souls with the VLTs, while they convince you to think your stronger for robbing the defenseless illegally, like this isn't you here along this reading rainbow. Be blind to the loss of 3 trillion dollars off the market, stolen in my mind, while private bankers continue to take out your interests, leveraged with our properties over a currency that doesn't exist, sending the nation into a depression, then a war to kill all the poor stupid people. Through who, as they say, "nobody", protects your laws, and your fears of being as stupid as they all are, finding yourself isolated in their noisy universe, as we are alone apart, of all that is here silently. Clowns to the left, jokers to the right, stuck here in the middle with a little story that never has been told outright. I love love love love, the sweet things in life! Growing improbable, but still possible. Rock on Art Bell! Okay now, let it ride. Hey boo-boo.

A free of charge 17.33% increase: American right wing cowards also hide themselves as the world's biggest terrorist organization. They make us support military dictatorships with our capital and weapons against our wills, like the oppressors of the great Chinese people, or not demanding life term prison sentences of the current Dutch-Shell's board of murdering directors, and have the gaul to slander our hero, Castro, humanitarian of the millennia. The man the entire city of New York gave a party for, way back when they were actually educated, and could read in their spare time, in between working only one job, closer to earning a living wage. But Americans aren't suppose to remember that, to keep em' dumb. Like "The U.S." routinely says, Castro's commitment to education and health of people is not worth talking about, enof sed, get back to work part time full time with no free time to care, except of course for war against ourselves as the losers everytime. Am I the only person who sees something seriously wrong with the picture bush's trying to say he is not of? Would not bush call for the arrest of Ashcroft? Miller? If not, why? For, he states he is at least aware of handing innocent people over to foreign nations to be tortured by satanic lying enemy traitors to God and Humanity..

I wrote the letter following "Jew Boy..." the day a single complaint arrived to the radio station, with the threat that the ADL would soon be contacted. The letter was provided in advance of the next day, of the time scheduled for the complainant to return for a recording of the questionable broadcast. The station manager refused to give the complainant my letter, and insured me that I would no longer be allowed to produce a show for our community. Is this fair to our Jewish brothers and sisters? Is this fair to You?

Jew Boy Johnny and the anti-Semites

- or -

"The Zionist Conspiracy"

Monday, January 31st, around 3 pm, I called the station manager to ask how my afternoon recorded broadcast went, and to discuss the new week's tentative guest spot with an update regarding the falsely maligned, Mr. And Mrs. Benderman. The station manager informed me my phone number had been misplaced, and was managing with stress trying to put together an apology letter to a single individual, who came into the station, while the interview was still running, to demand action be taken regarding the anti-Semitic broadcast that he was certainly going to report to the ADL about. I told her the Felton interview itself was about bigotry through the demonization of the innocent, what the Jews of world war II suffered through, and, that I was a huge defender of religious Jewish teaching. I told her, to offer the individual a chance to publicly speak regarding the issue, with me, or by himself regarding Felton, to try getting specifically to what has got him so much, by himself, upset about allowing my voice heard defending Jewish rights within our community. She told me that she would likely, none the less, have to let me go to appease the sole complainant, for what if a lawsuit should result? I told her to consider her options, reminded her that it was only one single individual who hadn't even heard the show's context, and that the broadcast in every other way had been going well, doing good. She told me she was very busy, and said goodbye. Then a short while later, phoned me back to ask if I would write a letter, and have it at the station next day before the complainant arrived for his copy of the broadcast. I said sure, said it would be a great challenge, and proceeded immediately to do just that. The next day, I contacted the station to ask if my arrived letter was forwarded to the individual, and was informed no, he didn't receive it. It wasn't the apology the station was looking for, and my show was now officially terminated. I told her it was very unfair to me, to not allow him to read my formal response, and that I couldn't in good conscience, back down from defending my rights to be heard on this issue, or to allow us, as our public, to hear the complainant's actual complaint about my, freedom for all broadcast. She said she would try to get the letter to him, but that the show was over. Case closed.

Stand up for Jews, and look at where it gets you, Jeeze.

Let us not put aside, the station manager's legitimate concerns. Who has the money or the time for a frivolous lawsuit? Why do expensive independent research, when the Bush Administration can hand us all the free news they want us to have directly without any costly questions? Saddam wouldn't let the inspectors in, right? Why risk standing up for someone else's rights, when doing so, will get the (anti) Jewish-Defamation League calling you an anti-Semite (Semite=Arab) for communicating some understanding with Felton? Felton, is bizarrely quirky as interesting, for his recent book is about the demonization of the innocent, (you know? Nazi gas chambers and ovens?) and as such, we can learn from, as too, we can teach. If he'll listen.
Ariel Sharon is not Jewish my friend, NOT JEWISH!!!

Greg Felton : "The fear is necessary for two reasons. And the principle reason has nothing to do with Iraq. it has to do with the government itself. The bush government is criminal. [...] The problem is: how do you keep people from paying attention to this? You keep them focused on an external enemy. [..] so they forment this fascistic hatred of a definable group of people. So, the war on terrorism so called, is not much a way for the United States to protect itself against it's enemy, it is a way for it to create enemies, to justify the kind of repressive measures that would otherwise be intolerable in peace time."

To whom it may concern, regarding the January 31st broadcasted interview with Greg Felton.

May I, on behalf of only myself, ask that you pardon my failures in judgment, in not allowing what I should have gave: an immediate re-dress regarding, 'who is the Zionist label?', or 'What Holocaust are you referring to?', during the broadcast of January 31st. (bet you we can't get two Christians that agree on everything.) However, I can offer perhaps a show centralized on a chance to exercise your personal views, be they pro or con on where you think we should go from here, or whatever may have you regarding said interview. Or, if you would like, you may wish to do only, or else include, a written work that I promise, will reach as far as the original broadcast. So, actually, this could be a prime moment to have a dialog regarding racism, bigotry, and intolerance. I confess, I may be unaware, and still have much to learn, when it comes to communicating well with all others. But, I know I'm getting better, and I'll tell you, the Justice-Freedom thing, sure seems to be our ultimate calling.

I was not so surprised that the broadcast interview with Greg Felton would be considered controversial, (as every show I've ever done always has), although I wasn't prepared to hear criticism against the show as being defamatory to a group, or groups of people. As certainly that was not my intent, but however was the difficult subject addressed within the interview. The fundamental teachings of Law, as it pertains to justice and freedom, along with every legitimized religion, is that all free people should be thought of as equals to each other in vigilant protection. And by doing so, one would be serving G-d's interests. (Even if a G-d doesn't exist - an Atheist too, could become a proponent by understanding Jihad). Thereby insuring\realizing that a just intelligent life force rules our chaotic timeless universe in service ultimately to ourselves individually. Giving us in the Torah of Moses, ``all people are created in God's image'' teaching all peoples are Sacred. And as such, would be so in God's interests to defend as the innocent. While in eternal pursuit of happiness and prosperity for all through just means.

Under Greg's definition as being a "Zionist" conspiracy, negates the failure of himself personally to recognize the public connotation is too vague, and that Hitler's Nazi Germany, like Bush's America, is politically expressing an inability to represent ourselves with respect as truly worthy of fair deliberations amongst ourselves. Sacred, every-one. (Or as in, to rise to the defense of those we know to be irrationally victimized as the godly and innocent, victimized in our un-addressed names.)

Greg "This is why the Holocaust is such a very dangerous thing to talk about because, it's not really understood. It's preached at us like a sermon. We're suppose to accept at face value what we're told about it, as if to, criticize it, is some how disrespectful. Much of what we know about the Holocaust has been propagated by the Zionists, and can be shown quite untrue"

I replied shortly later "One thing about the whole situation is that innocent people were targeted for murder. End of story. That's what the war was. All wars are like that."

Greg's mistake I believe, centered in his Zionist labeling through an apparent bigotry expressed, and as such, was too narrowly defining the larger established history of the Holocaust, as being the struggle of the human species in halting, the demonization and then subjugation of the innocent millions, Jewish or otherwise. Perhaps it was strangely on his part a testimony to a real struggle we all have when it comes to identifying ourselves to others. Considering it is the exact subject matter he wrestles with in his book writing, regarding our corporate media's perception of ignoring an innocent people's concern or cries. That said however, for Greg to blankly criticize Greg's false construct of what is publicly understood about the Holocaust, is to deny that much for sorrow and suffering took place against the whole of Humanity, especially, of those who held the practiced Jewish faith. To think the nazi regime would have the gas chambers and the ovens, while the whole of humanity were not strong enough to communicate the unjustness of it all to the German people while it was happening. I have read of a recent documentary that provides film footage of nazi soldiers committing the worst war crimes imaginable to god loving Jews, interspersed with film from the same dated period where, the German people were living civilized lives, left unaware of the atrocities that were being committed against God in their names. Same as America and Canada today, with Fallujah&#25263; 300,000 People being, the undeniable example. Or, are you too, a convinced denier of that which is fully documented? (Needless and irrational was the indiscriminate murder of the people of Fallujah, but for to have more American soldiers sacrificed in a conflict created by an unjust as immoral totalitarian dictate.) The Holocaust deniers are those the same of today, who refuse our Humanity to nationally communicate those screams of mercy, or for justice regarding the People of Iraq to be served in our true interests as legitimate. More than ten million Russians died fighting the evil eugenic scourge of the "superior" nazi regime, and like those in Poland, Britain and France, as elsewhere testified our established history, (albeit only later), the sadistic ungodly as lawless barbarity that Nazism inflicted upon the general masses, went largely undeterred from our "informative" television and radio broadcasts. The same, almost word for word, and action for action, can be found in Rumsfeld's "blitzkrieg". Bush's freedom by tyranny doctrine. Or the criminally sanctioned unchallenged news pronouncements of a Mark Kimmit, Buford Blount, Steven Russell, Mattis, Allawi or Sattler, when it pertains to accepting without our objection, to the victimizing of Iraqis collectively as an indiscriminate act of criminality, like murder. As like in the policies of Ariel Sharon, where an innocent, haven't committed an accused crime in their life Christian Palestinian, is denied the earned home they worked and paid for, on a parcel of land shared up until recent times for countless millennia. My personal struggle has been to inform the public on the "forgotten" importance of established evidence, being the only requirement to convince ourselves on who is a bigot, tyrant, a criminal, or a murderer. Will you not therefore, as a fellow humanitarian of this shared world, speak against those you know of, who victimize the innocent to thieve from? Sure you would, if you knew as much for certain about God and this universe, or the under reported, freed to go General Ahmad, funding the mastermind ring leader Mohammad Atta of Bush's 9/11 game. But will together our Humanity ever learn? Well, my plan is to search for guests to speak with, that I'll try not to offend early on. Greg knows, like the Pope knows, as every legitimate police officer worth their grain of salt knows, as so too does include a great many Jewish Jews, George W. Bush used absolutely no evidence to substantiate his therefore, false accusations in our names against bin Laden, while then ardently with Cheney, worked to close outstanding criminal investigations regarding their extremely suspicious behavior. All according to his official publicly documented plan. And speaking the news as thus, does not make anyone anti-Semitic, anti-American, or anti-Human, but pro-Jewish, pro-Christian, pro-Muslim, pro-Justice pro-Freedom, almost wholely human like even. Not of a long gone as lost and forgotten religious dogma, but for now as it always has been found, a mutual respect for all life as we find ourselves being part of. Or, so we would for Atheists, argue in all likelihood to get to the same reasoned to be, just political decision, to this or any another life and death matters matter.

Because the unjustified criminal war actions of George W. Bush are our shared documented history, others, with an ulterior agenda to propagate their weakness through bigotry or racism, will arbitrarily blame a subjective grouping of people, instead of demanding by godly individual might, the arrest of specific individuals who are actually responsible according to the established as public evidence. So, now who's fault is that? We live in difficult times. To admit weaknesses regarding our corporate news control content decisions, is to seek a better world for our lives through stronger open communications.

I believe the defense of the Jewish faith is found in the indivisible properties of Creation, and who's central belief is made simpler than any other. Hillel was asked: Rabbi, who is a Jew truly? Hillel answered, "What is hateful to you do not do to your neighbor. That is the whole Torah. The rest is commentary -- go and learn it." So my challenge in defense of the Jewish faith during the interview, was that those who practice criminal misdeeds, are therefore found by the official definition taught by Hillel, to be not practicing the "Golden Rule" of the Jewish Faith. (as so pronounced by the religion's recognized ancient oratator.) By calling alleged criminal actions, the conduct of an entire people, faith, or branch thereof, is to fall into the fascist minutia of bigotry, or racism, held by those who judge us "others" unfairly. After re-hearing the interview, I did find the allegations made by Greg, regarding the Holocaust being blanketed by falsehoods, generally, a failure on his part to recognize the true horror of what that war wrought. And in light of our desperate challenges today of defeating the enemies of Humanity as specific unjust individuals in "hiding", an ignorantly stupid thing to say. While I, perhaps wasn't thinking along those conceived lines, where at that time, I had just left the thought of: the struggles of the Jewish faith, are the same struggles all young adults go through by naturally establishing our associative identities. Who are you I truly ask? How many news channels even allow us as Humanity to know about the absent reason for the bombing of the Jews of Samara? The Jews of Fallujah? The torturing of completely innocent People to death, as in Guantanamo? Or still unaddressed publicly: the willful lawless criminality implemented by the, therefore tyrannical Bush Administration in suffering God's Iraq? (See missing ``Development Fund of Iraq'', or private mercenaries discipling for Bush as deemed un-accountable to every conceived ``natural'' law? [see the entire Bible for the judgment call on that one...] or, Bush's declarative, he magically owns everything in stolen Iraq now, [where did it go?] and I can't say anything because he signed his John to 13303 some time back, but as still is left unreported in Your dying world?)

Publicly question our reality, by taking the station up on doing an interview with me, along with your own impressions of our world. Or, if you prefer, you can do a solo written piece, or a recorded statement for the station. I look forward to finding common ground with your concerns. I hope I have got you wondering more, about what trying to save our world from injustice and slavery, in whatever way we can is all about for me really. In these words I can say, I apologize to you, for a resulted perception, that wasn't with better words, my true intent towards us people together.

I will, after some small revisions of this paper, include it as well as the broadcast package. So I do thank you for bringing up your important view, that otherwise, would have gone farther without this opportunity, that I offer as a starting point for deliberation, or argument regarding my foolishness. Thanks for speaking, and I hope I have met most of your concerns with a positive light on where I'm trying to come from.

John.

The Benderman Cause

I felt compelled to support the Benderman's cause in any way I could, so I am providing America some arguments that I would use in a court of law to defend your freedoms. If America would so desire, I would also be prepared to make a recorded statement from here in Canada. (I have been denied access into the U.S..) My positions of rational argument are naturally based upon our established facts, and as such, are something few Americans are afforded the luxury of through corporate channels. I hope my forcefulness on these issues does not fear you to doubt I have the best of intentions when it comes to serving the interests indivisibly inherent within the American Constitution. God, I believe is just, and as such, the ungodly war actions of George W. Bush dictate are criminal in the worst degree, being a harbinger of suffering and misery against all of Humanity as US being the innocent. The innocent in our entirety, is my "God" that I love with all I can will. I am compelled as a living human being to defend America to the last bush supporter praised if need be. I fight the enemy of God and Humanity with reason, understanding, Akeido, and a conviction that our justice system must prevail for me to be truly myself really.

"He explained to "60 Minutes," "I was told in basic training that, if I'm given an illegal or immoral order, it is my duty to disobey it. And I feel that invading and occupying Iraq is an illegal and immoral thing to do."

The war was declared "illegal" by the U.N.. Why? Because Saddam wasn't found in breach of the internationally agreed upon resolution 1441, (Saddam did EVERYTHING POSSIBLE that was asked of Iraq by the bush administration, and then some Mr. Bush refused to even take him up on. Like national Iraqi television broadcasts.) despite the lies quoted by corporate news America. There was no need for the conflict to begin with as was so reported internationally on march 7th, 2003. U.N. inspectors had complete unrestricted access to go anywhere without delay, and known stock piles of WMD were burned, so could not possibly be completely accounted for by evidential findings due to the fact that they were destroyed beyond recognition. American soldiers were put in harms way to be sacrificed for no better good, but for to allow as has happened, the misappropriation, or as some have alleged, the criminal theft of Iraqi resources, including monies of the Iraqi Development Funds through Presidential decree 13303. Which include the unappropriated, desperately needed, humanitarian aid provisions still denied innocent Iraqis, such as potable drinking water and food stuffs. Democratic principles are DENIED the Iraqis by the neo-con military forces, such as holding all individuals equally accountable to a rule of law. The outlawing of torture, or the outlawing of false imprisonment has not been professed as the action of the neo-con "liberating" force. Mercenaries are not obliged to obey any laws for example. And, "Dr. Germ", and "Dr. Anthrax" are held solely for the fact that they know of the scientific hazards of depleted uranium, and may have warned the uninformed sacrificing American GI, if not held illegally against their wills by the enemy. Commanders such as irrational war criminal Sattler, forbade all men and boys between 15 to 50 from leaving the city of Fallujah, while refusing to negotiate with anyone, (because as so was openly confessed, Sattler had no evidence that Zaqari was in Fallujah) then leveled the city to kill all it's inhabitants, estimated at that time near 300,000 people. Using a napalm type WMD, cluster dud land mine munitions, and as reported, nine two thousand pound bombs in a city 3 1/2 km by 4 km. Serving for a military not strong enough collectively to prosecute such lawless criminal barbarity, is serving for a military not principled in the American virtues of freedom and democracy. In truth, serving for such ungodly criminal command is a cowardly act of treason. George W. Bush is an enemy of our Humanity.

Seriously Folks

Napoleon Bonaparte wrote forming governments are forged only through the public witness of shared mutual experiences, simple, yet, the bushite strategy implemented continually on behalf of the enemy forces in Iraq have been to divide the nation's people with different "legal" definitions, while speaking for typical bushite bigotry, by then offering distinctions of human value between US some from "others". Not freedom, nor democracy. [Remember: Evil is dumb]

Example: Allawi forbade surviving Iraqi doctors and nurses from medically treating any of the estimated 200,000+ innocent victims from Falluja [IRAQI vicinity].

Example 2: DYING two-bit bushite war with "foreign" soldiers paid especially more than a thousand dollars a day as self confessed RACISTS, and THEREFOR, left "officially" too weak as, "pissing post illiterates" to go after real terrorists who torture the innocent, or real thieves, that have stolen BILLIONS from the Iraqi Development Fund. Done all to sacrifice life's purpose for no better good to the ANTI-CHRIST EVIL bush "cabal" of lying neo-con Christ haters. Allthewhile stating the objective worth dying young America as bushite for is "Democracy" in Iraq. But, isn't a founding principle of any democracy to outlaw thefts, sexual assault, murder? Again, bushite kills bushite for a stolen nickel that they just as soon, stole from anybody. If you can believe it. We need YOU to make some effort to engage American talk mediae. Perhaps it's only YOU, who hasn't yet heard a responsibility to this once greatly revered world of wisdom, of the enchanted, and mystical, or of the tyrannical as hell bound for suffering and sorrow. ,in which you share allegiance too my friend.

Being caring and compassionate for the victimized innocent not only feels good, but it is a choice we would make at being alive to help US survive. To not speak against the bushite war crimes against YOUR Humanity, is to not speak in defense of our ancient dying God no longer found worthy of you Peoples humble respect. Currently corrupted bushite want my voice of truth silenced by censorship with false imprisonment, and those who advocate such hatred for myself and our humanity, speak no public word or disagreement on my allegations of high treason by Our Mr. bush Jr.. While I want to openly debate the, "censorship for tyranny", corporate talk radio bushite bitches on their furthering commitment to not allow objections regarding their contempt for true justice and freedom in America. But if you singly decide not to support my cause, like corporate news control encourages, We will be left forsaken, again. God is Just to the core, like Johnny Wizard tries to be, while bushite liars lie, cheat, and steal from America as ourselves measured unworthy for deliberation to gain true understanding. The Coast to Coast radio network in America disallows America learn for why American soldiers are currently sacrificing their LIVES irrationally. Why? Because there is no legitimate reason, while bushite pretend in YOUR name, that there must be another reason but for to rob our humanity in George Bush Jr.'s name. For if there truly wasn't another reason, not so then blind, stupid, and cowardly American soldiers wouldn't be too happy about the wealthy corporatist bushite commentators silencing America's dying cries by bushite enemy command. Now would they? Remember: wealthy blind and stupid bushite kills/gets killed, poor blind and stupid bushite for a stolen nickel - a nickel in all likelihood, they rifled as thieves from some pensioner, that just as soon, would be their own "grand" parents. Or Yours as someone elses beside.

Phil Donahue had the highest rating, number one money making news commentary show on NBC as it was canceled. Why? Too good as enlightening and INFORMATIVE. Then there was the recently canceled Crossfire. Or how about Barry Zwicker on VisionTV as Canada's greatest broadcast before it too was canceled. Why? Too good as enlightening and INFORMATIVE. VisionTV, a "religious" channel now likely forbids anyone to suggest that God would be good as just, and REALLY INTELLIGENT. Forbidden knowledge we are the corporate bushite insist with Your stolen rights. Why so? Because Americans might learn of what it is to be a true Christian, and therefor stop to have arrested else immediately executed for high treason regarding 9/11: the enemies of Johnny, Justice, God and Humanity, the evil doers George W. Bush, Rumsfeld, and Condolezza Rice. Alone with Myers and Cheney for good measure. Then, those responsible for the needless bombing of Samarra and Fallujah.

Under EVIL bushite tyranny, We are criminally fighting for needlessly dying as bushite here, but corporate newsCASTers don't find "our" costs worth getting a discussion group going, after all, American soldiers who die for the bush regime, as the kept in the dark, will less likely be going after the real bad guys for 9/11 then right? Corporate America refuse US just basic rights of legitimacy to at least address the absent war reason issue from time to time - Jeeze. But no. As bushite, they're prepared to not inform the bushite soldier that depleted uranium is radio-active, that the stolen American Enron pension money is sitting in the Cayman Islands, or that the war itself has no justification. See, the bushite war is a TRUE CRIME against all Peoples of Humanity, for the war against Iraq has no reason available to explain enemy military action, but for to die thieving from ourselves as the bad guys. The Enemies of Freedom. Why we have Law. God is Just, and evil is just the slavish ignoramuses who censor our Words of empowerment for freedom through Justice represented indivisible as Eternal. We rule.

Therefor, George Walker Bush is guilty of treason to US all, not only including your one and only King Johnny Wizard as Heaven's afar, but also the not going anywhere but yet still sacrificing ungloriously as the stupidly blind as almost completely incoherent,. devote bushite nazi dumfuk soldier grunt enemy vermins.

Will you not help these words reach a larger audience? I ask you to consider your helping me can do good for your real world too. Perhaps it is ONLY the single individual that hasn't yet understood, this once greatly revered world of the Word is of which you share allegiance too.

Speaking for a just battle of freedom for all humanity, is a right you could exercise in brightest intentions of a muted God who sure could use your help right about now man. Our family is in so a desperation for needed support. I am fearing your fears have got you believing, you have no dying right to speak against Mr. bush Jr. for the crimes he has committed in Your name, but You do. Think of it this way: anybody who stays silently connected secretly to the crimes of nine-eleven, can not be trusted as a sacrificing bushite thief by the enemy bush administration. [Secretly speaking in all strict certainty.]

The warrant that allowed the confiscation of my computer equipment, was to prove that I was the one and same who demanded true justice for our humanity by following the crimes scene leads for nine/eleven, arresting those responsible, or killing the escaping culprits, bush, rumsfeld, and condolezza rice by the hand of our guns. (Why do you think Police officers carry guns after all?) It is now argued that because demon bush is President, it therefor doesn't matter where the actual crimes scene evidence for the murder of thousands in America leads to according to the FBI, for George Walker Bush (666) in above all the laws of the universe. Despite! the reason they obtained the warrant, was to charge me for "threatening the life of an international person", they instead decided not to as saboteurs of liberation. They argued after the warrant gave them my personal possesions, (hundreds and hundreds of video tapes, ALL MY WRITING, computers, disks, along with approximately 50,000 tasteful images.) That the reason for the warrant being originally issued, no longer, if ever, was justified. For if they were calling for justice, the demon bush, and his co-conspirators might get caught by America, and pay the ultimate price for their treason by death sentence. After two self confessed PRO-BUSHITE (support death squads against Afghanistan school girls, and propping up the heroin trade by arming women slave traders) "officers of the law" reviewed my images, they now contend, that several can be argued to be illegal in an almost fixed to win proceeding. (No more than a small few pictures of beautiful girls in different states of undress - "Home Lolita" I think.)

The charges they offered to the prosecution to argue for a "life term prison sentence" (almost jokingly it was quacked) were complete fiction, of which the crown offered me "a deal". Plead guilty for being a shamed ostracized sex offender, [I'D HUNT CHILD KILLER ENEMY BUSHITE EVERY DAY OF MY LIFE IF I HAD THE BUS FARE AND THE AMMO] and maybe, the Judge won't argue for a long term prison sentence for another charge that has absolutely nothing for substantiation. Substantiated, that will surely do nothing but testify to their attempts at demonizing my better name. Nothing doing darkness, the court of Law, is Our court, and I intend to make my case heard among my peers. Here.

Please, I beg you for my life, forward this document to the propper authorities, post these passages to any church, or, phone talk radio America and demand my public case be heard for Your benefit too, or don't and get what we'll deserve by not making a miracle happen with your single sole but sure, human will power!

1. I obtained the questionable images through Usenet group "youth-and-beauty". Images can be downloaded a thousand or more at a time. I can't not perceive the images until they are on my computer! If they had told me they were coming as bushite, I would have been sure to delete anything near objectionable for argument's sake. They laughed when I told them that.

2. The service companies that offer such groups as child-rape and so on, have an easy ability to filter out subjective objectionable material, along with the truly grusome stuff. But they don't, nor, are they found legally liable for not doing so. I suggest the reason is, it would put out a billion dollar industry of these child-porno cops that view real sicko slime routinely, while then arguing anyone who witnesses such depravity must be guilty. Guilty to have their professional lives destroyed, their life invested property removed till whenever/perhaps stolen, and then be publicly ostracized as senseless victims. All because some guy maybe believed women are worthy of worship in the highest respect and honor, while cute adorable boys he couldn't help but feel compeled to cover with praise, or mutual hugs and kisses., as long as there are no other men in the room with him and the gals perhaps one day chatting over maybe child care let's say. (no wonder the two child porn cops in question regarding my public case admittingly were/are staunch bushite offenders.)) I know of no nobler lineage that that of our police officer. For protecting the rights of our children, is what we've always been committed to gaining respect for. We want to do right for ourselves, and despite Johnny, this world really is something remarkable to concider a future with on our own terms as a foundation of wisdom with the ever presnt will to succeed at something greater than first realized. Evolution. The Revolution of reason while jiving with justice for freedom holds many perks per praised principle. Hammurabi's number one thang.

3. If a search warrant can be made against anyone who a criminal bushite finds objectionable, (bush and rumsfeld made the charge against me through the Secret Service, then to the RCMP.) then what freedom fighter is safe from pictures of godly and beautiful children in bath tubs? Swimming? IF, the bushite demands the images appear seductive, and compel them to commit sexual assualts? Or, what if you download a program on cars to have the bushite find, it contains bin Laden's secret where abouts in code? Would you be guilty, and if so, of what? No thinking freely?

So, the warrant brought the officers of law the right to prove my Johnny Wizard writing was of my own, but yet, after doing so, refused to enforce the law by giving me my day in court on the reason the warrant was granted to begin with. Also, I, as anyone can not perceive potentially objectionable material until it is in my possession, while a service provider would have little of no problem. (The still working child porno cops could look for child porno all day, and actually get closer to catching those who proliferate actually objectionable materials. [See?, an internet service provider could defend thus: they're not guilty because the subjective material, that would be questioned, is subjective, and so would the porno cops if they got someone intelligent to defend themselves. But for Christ who needs to know what's going on in the realm?, while loving girls in general like they were his own distant siblings? They'd put Christ up on a cross for loving schoolgirls, by demanding such thoughts come only from a criminal prospective. The problem here is child porno cops can view a suggestive cute girl smiling in her panties, or witness some heinous bushite rape or torture, and measure them equally when charging US for their deviant sexual sugestion. As alas, they refuse to support the Law when it comes to the easily provable criminal actions of enemy bushite, as for would be, the defense of the lives of our innocent children in Iraq mean something to me too.

Anyway, apparently, the reasons for the warrant were not as was so intended. To charge me for threatening the freedom of bush, rumsfeld, and the evil witch condolezza rice. (Can I get some legal advice from someone out there on this then bogus? warrant please?). The Court will (try) argue without allowing ANY voice of objection, that because I demanded the immediate arrest or execution for the individuals responsible for the crimes of nine/eleven, (relying primarily on the Whitehouse, FBI, and the public spewing of the war criminal demon anti-Christ itself,) the prosecutor, it has been alleged, will demand justice not be served in that respect, and that the search warrant that obtained the bushite's evidence against me as a truth teller during their fishing expedition will not be allowed for re-dress. Is this Justice on behalf of God I ask you?

Nature of the Beast

(Again, remember, nobody from the RCMP, the Secret Service, or the FBI, state that I am incorrect in my allegations of treason against the bush administration.)

The prosecutor is going to press for incarceration if I plead not guilty for a crime I'm not guilty of, while my public freebie lawyer, contends my defense of innocence and corporate news agencies forbidding the pursuit of Justice in protection of our Police services, like the honorable FBI officers that contend Ahmad funded Atta will likely not be allowed heard. [Are you a member of a Police Union somewhere, or know of someone who is? Or, do you just not give a care for you fellow officers either?] See?, bushite falsely believe bush can not be arrested for nine eleven, no matter where the actual evidence leads, because he is not judged an equal among men by corporate news standards, but as the anti-Christ, FALSE deity, an enemy to every free person standing.

That is our, for real court case against the Bush administration as it stands today. While some have warned, bushite are pushing to have me taken in now, to try stopping this from speaking in our Humanity's true defense. They just might succeed, if you decide no care for Freedom from tyranny either..

This is was/is/will be my last Wizard Wire public service announcement regarding this, George Walker Bush

(666) wars America, Humanity, and me as the Lord of Creation. I've said everything I can say twice over, and if you can't find it within yourself to pass this post on to every church corner, with a, "I love life too" set of priorities, I can guarantee you no greater reward. But for to be present if not in person, but in spirit during my public trial where the bushites will publicly judge my character unworthy, while attempting the silencing of our own voices for Justice as We stand in TRUTH, indivisible. Be it known, the prosecutors of Law in my case have read Johnny Wizard's "The Trial and Conviction of Our Mr. bush Jr.", and likely a few others that will be asked by the hiding in darkness bushite enemies to completely disregard as crime scene evidence. It's going to be a case worth getting to, considering the newspapers, talk radio stations, and National News desks are expected to forbid honest coverage of by the higher ups at corporate command. Call your Church group to organize a call for Johnny!

Or don't.

I thank all those with whom the true liberation of Humanity from tyranny could not have been made possible without themselves individually. I know it seemed like no one was listening, when we spoke for God's cries, but WE knew better, and we knew soon, all of US will then learn it too, defending God is of no greater privilege. So, cheers to You, our Humanity's defenders of the human challenge, for being there to speak for this life when we needed You as a contributor. Fare thee well with your pride and honor, and no bars will ever hold your undying spirit.

Breaking Camp

I will advocate full compensation for every mistreated soldier who had been tricked into believing something without reasoning.

Johnny condemns George Walker Bush (666) to death for the crimes he has committed against God's Humanity.

Let it be understood, that Saddam gave America 100 percent access to do anything the anti-Christ wished without delay prior to the needless military conflict beginning. So, every treasonous thieving bushite life taken, is done in protection of God, and the American dream. See?, TRAITOR bushite Art Bell's amerikan talk radio forbids BY CENSORSHIP anyone in America to speak in the defense of the undefended American People. Art Bell, America's enemy, with ensure that America "never" learns that bush's business partner, General Ahmad, funded 9/11's mastermind ring leader Mohamed Atta, or that depleted uranium is measured radio-active, or most especially, that billions of STOLEN American pension money is sitting in bushite bank accounts in the Cayman Islands. Instead, he'll do another show on UFOs, or bigfoot, while broadcasted to the wordless bushite grunts their dying is for naught. Who cares?, bush's war against freedom in America isn't anything bushite amerika ever wants to get persnickety about.

<http://www.chapelhill.indymedia.org/uploads/bushite-kills-bushite.mp3>

/ / Who cares? CNN is not going to cover it, we know that. CBC in Canada, they're not going to mention it to anybody. It's no concern of themselves to show a caring word for the [thieving] sacrificing soldier. \ \

The EVIL bushite liars die for no better good, but as the ungodly bringing further hardships against US innocent people they target for murder. God says, the Magna Charta says, the American constitution says, let US all arrest or kill the TRUE ENEMY bushites instead. "See lawless bushite, kill it in defense of all that are innocent", I always say as the Son of Man and Living Creator. No joy greater than saving the innocent victims of the enemy bushite thieves, torturers, and first degree murderers. WHO WOULD DISAGREE? in a true Democracy?

Every American soldier who dies as a bad guy in Iraq, dies for cowardly worshiping bush instead of Life. The demon anti-Christ as their false, untrue, dummy deity, sends them into harms way for only to steal from the innocent. The innocent left in God's trust. There was nothing that could have better been done in Iraq by bombing the country. The blind attacking of the population, along with it's functioning public institutions, brings only the STOLEN cash rewards on trading in the American soldier's LIFE as a fascist criminal. All that is bought to by putting cowardly bushite soldiers in bush's un-needed conflict, is to steal from their very own families back home left almost completely undefended. [Have no fear, Johnny Wizard's here!] A criminal military force that deems some soldiers from Apartide fame as "un-accountable" to American or "Iraqi" law, while paying them a thousand dollars a day or more as rewarded racists who fight allong side black and Hispanic dying bushites, to not allow equal rights for those classified by different colorations. Allthewhile with spokespeople smattering the sacrifices are to bring democracy together in Iraq to arrest bushite for thieving then? [No matter whomever you are, George W. Bush is truly evil to God in YOUR name too see?] Regular Joe in the Army, 47$ before expenses concurrent and impending.

I will advocate full compensation for every mistreated soldier who had been tricked into believing something without reasoning. Example: those who had been taken in criminally to handing over their military pensions for five year loans at 56%, or a 20,000 loan paid in five with 60,000. No competion exists for this racket because it's an actual crime scene. Guess where American Gis can hear the sales pitch advertised? The Army Times.

No thoughts of understanding are expressed (OR COULD BE) from the soulless bushite on why they are in Iraq dying, or why depleted uranium is harmless, or why depriving Iraqis of medicine along with food and water, is a ploy to win the hearts of every man who owns a gun. Or why the bushite demands through the censorship of tyranny, that Our Humanity has no rights to speak for our freedoms and liberty, or on behalf of Iraqis who have had billions of much needed dollars stolen from themselves by the bushite enemy. (The billed for taking bushite soldier itself, will not receive a penny of the ill gotten gains, just like their own grand parents were robbed of the pensions, and the bushite couldn't find a word of outrage to say against their false idol then either.)

/ / As the soulless disciples of the enemy anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr., their "officially" granted legal immunity from all prosecution means nothing to me as a honorable man defending my humanity, or as living Creator, who brought all into this new world to be free, and can just as soon, take you all nazi bushite out the old school way. \ \

The ungodly evil bushmob fascist totalitarianists are pushing to have US specially arrested. The demon anti-Christ enemy forces have gambled an attempt to find prosecutors and judges, lawyers and defendants, who together wouldn't let the truth be spoken in our own defenses. I have had many discussions with the National Security branch of the RCMP, CSIS, the Secret Service, the FBI, and several commanders in the Canadian Military, and WE all know, this upcoming trial is something a great deal of many are lookiung forward to, however, an agent of law recently approached me to warn, some are working to try having me arrested without bail, and spend maybe a few years behind bars before a trial could not be postponed any longer, all in an attempt to try stopping my words of truth that represent the interests of all defendable legitimate legal enforcements. Canada's system of checks and balances, and our honorable police services have too many good guys in place, to want to silence my calls for Justice by measurement. And, up until now, our security people have advised the bushite case would never fly in a public court room, for Johnny Wizard would just make his case as it stands FACTUALLY DOCUMENTED along with that which was FALSELY ALLEDGED, and the wealthy do nothing corporate news agencies would be caught as culpable to being accessories to first degree murders in New York City, where they deliberately with malicious intent, refused to report on the FBI's findings that General Ahmad funded Atta, or that demon George W. Bush with condi and rummy, had a top secret CRIMINAL plan to invade Afghanistan dated September 9th, 2001. Just like still, CBC and CNN refuse to report any human concern for those murdered irrationally by bushite in Iraq today. No concern for those Humans, but in Asia, where bush isn't yet anyway, thieving in the wide open from God, they can try to make up for lost respect by claiming those People are better People worthy of our commpassion with wall to wall coverage on the suffering we have little of chances in preventing. But for to stop needlessly droping tons and tons of toxic bombs into our Living Earth. It is the bushite enemy who refuse to allow YOU speak in your defense as an Earthling.

However, this being said, I have been recently informed that, since the godless bushite enemies would wish to have our freedoms censored, it will likely be pushed to do so without a public trial allowing a jury of my peers to judge the case accordingly. Up until recently, Guantanamo could never happen in Canada. But now in Canada, the enemies behind closed doors are talking about sending intelligent innocent people away to be tortured for sadomasochistic satanic tendencies, and further have argued to no one that persecuting People in Our names without evidence, maybe isn't such a bad idea, when you think of all the people we could rob our humanity from like the "popular" and "Democratic" bush regime does. Bushite corporate new censors are fighting for a return to the dark ages. Don't let this happen to YOUR world. Care not for my freedoms as an honorable man who stands with America's FBI, and your given up life wont be worth nothing but as yet another sacrifice to bring further glory and stolen riches to the American cop killer, pension thiever, 9/11 perpetrator, war mongering anti-Christ, Your unbelievably EVIL Mr. bush Jr.. The enemy of God anti-Christ who continues to hold your real life in mistrust and dishonor, while wealthy corporate "celebs", talk freely about their pride in such ungodly sacrifices as Christ's forsaken name.

I ask ONLY you to argue this paper with your best intentions, for I will perhaps not receive another chance to publish, if as usual, the Internet community at large extends me little support in my UNCHALLENGED assertions on who truly committed the crimes of 9/11. A single bushite corporatist sends a complaint to a Internet provider alleging I talk "spam", therefor, without any hearing, private owners are threatened to lose their privilege to communicate, by an enemy bushite protagonist who exercises his "authority" by stating only, "spam", and not even providing my actual post in it's entirety. One Internet service was shut down for the sole reason that discussing George W. Bush as the 9/11 perpetrator in tx.politics, was against the rules, for such subject material must be confined to only a American nation political forum. I talked to the kid on the phone who made that power decision on behalf of all usenet, and let it be known, he knows what he's doing. But "they" can't do this everywhere. I can not "take over" your big old lonely world that you must work to protect for yourself as an equal citizen sworn to freedom. I have written all I need to say about Justice and Freedom, and if the human race can not still find enough care for themselves to propagate my writings for others to read, or demand Art Bell be removed to allow Johnny Wizard to debate the ungodly dumfuk bushite vermins, there truly is no hope for US continuing.

/ / The Red Crescent's Falluja coordinator, Jotiar Nafaa, estimates that between 150 and 175 families are left in the city that once had a population of 300,000. \ \

REUTERS up to their old nazi tricks again. Jotiar Nafaa, "coordinator", should surely know, that it is 175 families that had requested for the help of Red Crescent totaled several days previous, (without phones, nor abilities to leave their homes (150?)), NOT, "left in the city". [THINK: how could they possibly know? (nazi bushite whores were ordered to murder innocents indiscriminately as enemies to God)] Also, is "Jotiar Nafaa", the same woman hater, who LIED in REUTER"S anonymous hand previously, as the Red Cross, that the women held illegally as hostages by the thieving evil nazi bushite forces, didn't really exist? (and who the "sovereign" Justice system of Iraq, along with World opinion, God, and JOHNNY had demanded to be let go for lack of any real criminal charges? (despite CNN and CBC WILLFULLY refusing to report on the issue as important. (You know, INNOCENT women held hostage by bushite goons who acquiesce COWARDLY for rapists and torturers? (Just like Jew killer Ariel Sharon never gets a fair mention by "America", nor Zarqawi, as he was in the second Bigley flick, right before Samara.)))

LOOK AT THIS - LOOK AT THIS - LOOK AT THIS

Aljazeera.Net - Aid trickling in to desperate Fallujans

/ / The organisation estimates that only 150 to 175 families stayed in Falluja after the start of the US-led offensive on 8 November \ \

The organization does not estimate the incorrect fantasy conclusion held by this pro-irrational Bush article from Aljazeera.NET. By god Johnny, where tell us could such lies begin at? Well, let's go investigate... If as it is, a misrepresentation of Red Crescent's actual findings, wouldn't you think "they" would put out a press release to correct this falsehood of public claim?, to suggest 150 remain in a city the size of 300,000+?, but no greater than 175? without access for numbering by anyone, but for the only near 15,000 HUMAN BEINGS known escaped as refugees??? Or, are the "reporters" just conveying the "facts", by putting no investment in our validity? Leaving us for further victimhood, by hiding ourselves from the war crimes the anti-Christ bushite nazi savage commanders have committed in my name, America's name, God's name? as our enemies?

Our cause as Humanity is for freedom's reign, not to sacrifice Humanity as misled bushite nazi facist teens further, so bush, condi and rummy can fi-nah-lly escape

"The True Patriot's Wrath", for the crimes they committed against Freedom America on "bush win", 9/11. So... Why so do I think Justice is going to get GW, making no mistakens? Because the Patriot's Patriot is you too my sworn believer, and now that's this: America's craftier than that George Bush Jr. makes living out for, in "our"-OWN news broadcasts. As the "censored" contributors who learned our gathering skills some time ago already, I say, Freedom is paramount. Mr. bush's unbiased corporate news agenda doesn't hold America to an account before the Lord, nor to God as being, an honest spoken word, or deed of good measure. Of friendship, of kindness, of compassion and caring for our fellow human beings. I have rights too you know. As cowards, the bushite refuses to defend the innocent they rob and murder from to serve as enemies of Life, done in to die pleasing their false idol, corporate america's glorious leader, the un-elected dictator, Our Mr. bush Jr..

It should be further noted, as reported, that all aid agencies contributing have accounted for only near 15,000 families stationed in refugee camps that escaped the indiscriminate anti-Christ demon bombing campaigns. So, total deaths tolls could exceed 200,000 just for Falluja alone., what with the napalm, land mines, 1000 lb bombs, snipers, tanks, mortars, essential services, police protections, denials of foods or water, thefts, vandalism, and so on. All along with the refusal to allow the People to escape before hand, or even enter now. I've only heard that the nazi grunts will only allow the "staff" of "Red Crescent", to quickly as can be, come into the demolished city, and dispose of our corpses with bulldozers likely. You know?, any males between 15 to 50?, like their "Hero", the bush family's Hitler regime did. You tell me, would you enjoy as a True Patriot Warrior, killing a LYING enemy bushite nazi bomber, on behalf of saving yourself and family, God and Humanity? God?, that the demon anti-Christ disciples murder to steal from US as the innocent? To kill an evil and mindless devaluating corporate bushite facist slave, is to save the untold lives of thousands of US innocent they target indiscriminately for criminal plunder. Dying as cowards too weak to defend their own country from the neo-con conspirators, they die. Die.. Get this measage out to the American forces, and stand back, cause America's gonna win this fight for freedom, or die as slaves remaining unworthy to a blind comitment of tyranny by furthering enslavement against our Human species.

Continue doubting in silence fledgling Patriot, and bushite america's war will continue refusing to speak on it's needless sacrificing through bushite criminal decree. We know, wealthy con man Art Bell, Limbaugh, and O'Really will try and refuse such truths discussed in Your America, care for the lives of sacrificing American teen soldiers are of no concern to their profit margins., so far. You, my friend, just need to try starting a demand for justice as Freedom commands. (And, if you wish, you can thank us with a small cash donation to help me escape this nearing starvation.)

I'd, as the Son of Man, (but you can call me Dad.) proudly teach, or kill godless thieving bushite to save the lives of any child, and so would the rest of Humanity likewise. There is no known fate worst, than a Mother Nature scorned, or near 7 billion People really very angry with you.

"if the USA's honor can go along with these [bushite] tactics . . then the USA is a country without honor."

And, boy, real America wouldn't take kindly to George W. Bush Jr. as understanding, the elected President has leadered the murder, of thousands of decieved Americans as the innocent, all to only steal from, as the left "officially" undefended. Hell, as the true Leader of this Free World, and holy roller god child, George W. Bush Jr. pisses me off to no end, how about you?

/ / Washington says the Falluja campaign was necessary to bring the Sunni Muslim city back under the control of the central Baghdad government ahead of planned Iraqi elections in January. \ \

Reuters up to their old nazi tricks again. It was only mindless nazi savages who indiscriminately murder good honorable people, who advocate thieving and torture, rape and murder, and the willful destruction of America, that were banned from entering the Holy city.

No evidence, so then, for what? What but to get more cowardly american marines dead, to serve soullessly further - as the stolen riches of the evil enemy demon anti-Christ, evil personified, Our Mr. bush Jr.. (the same from 9/11 fame)

<http://www.truthout.org/docs_04/112604I.shtml>

/ / By targeting civilians, he said, an army could advance more rapidly. ``Air-delivered terror'' effectively removes civilian obstacles. \ \

Pure, unadulterated fascist nazi evil. "Never again"?
Killing un-arrested bushite (Saudi wahabbi) commanders, is like killing the enemies of America, Humanity, and Jesus' God. Do ourselves and Johnny a great big favor, when you see a loyal bushite nazi grunt, thief and murderer, imagine, "yah, that's right, that's what being a kind neighbor is all about, for Christ said so in John's Revelations." Bushite! your false Idol religion is too stupid to remain for dying spark under the anti-Christ's evil criminal dictatorship of, wannabe dumfuks. I'm Your God see, and Your coming and going.
As for Royal King Johnny, he's just standing in for this time being,..' hey you!, pay no attention to anyone behind what curtain! Boo!

America is wonderful to truly believe of it as in the making. So, let's get the work done that needs doing, so God can get back to trying to enjoy some time at home. I'm here for a good time, not a long time, and the sun don't shine every day. So get off your asses, and demand some real Justice for Christ's sake. Johnny has awoken, and he's cranky they say.

Israeli Soldiers Going In For The Kill: A 13 year embankment, scared to death."

"Anyone who's mobile, moving in the zone, even if it's a three-year-old, needs to be killed.

Will all Jews join me in calling for the public World trial of crimes against God's Humanity, done by these truly godless fascist nazi enemies of the Holy Jewish

Sure it does -- its ascii 0163

See URL:
http://tlt.its.psu.edu/suggestions/international/accents/codealt.html

1.. Place your cursor in the location where you wish to insert a special character.

2.. Activate the numeric key pad on the right of the keyboard by pressing Num Lock (upper right of keyboard). The Num Lock light on the keyboard will indicate that the numeric key pad is on.

NOTE: You must use the numeric key pad; if you use the number keys on the top of the keyboard, the characters will not appear. If you are on a laptop or computer without a separate numeric keypad one of the other methods is recommended.

3.. While pressing down the ALT key, type the four-digit code on the numeric key pad at the right edge of the keyboard. The codes are "case sensitive." For instance, the code for lower-case � is ALT+0225, but capital � is ALT+0193.

�      Like so  �   �

Lets see if these go thru

Hi,

be happy to own a Grundig YB 400!!! Take only that radio to Europe, you will have real fun with that good radio - from longwave, interesting medium wave to so much to listen on shortwave!

Have a good time - and take a lot of Euros with you indeed!

Greetings from Germany, J�rgen

What I need to do is take out the street lights!

Since you have a Wellbrook, build the cables and do the car battery trick.  You will probably need one of those cigarette lighter boxes that increase the number of outlets.

Be sure to check out the cables for shorts. I really don't like those coaxial connectors. You need to use heat shrink to make sure nothing shorts. What I do is get junk wall warts just for the cable and coaxial power connector, then solder the cigarette lighter connector. The cigarette lighter connectors are pretty foolproof.

Ferrite is good stuff, but one noise source are those cat5 cables which I beleive you can't use a ferrite without degrading the network. I know they sell shielded cat5, but I wonder if the extra capacitance will cause network problems.

The canon connectors sounds like a good idea. There are quite compact and very secure, i.e .the plug doesn't fall out.

It seems to me the MOVs provide protection, but I don't see why they would limit  noise UNLESS they are preventing spikes from shooting through your power supply. Moto has a family of diodes used for snubbing spikes. These go on the DC path.

The most complex of Greek architecture does not equal the sophistication of the most complex of what the Romans built.  Not even close. That is not to diminish the tremendous and positive influence that the Greeks had on the Romans and ultimately, the world. The Mayans could stack heavy blocks in nice tall pyramid shapes.  There was no room in any of their large structures because they didn't have the arch or anything like it.  They were hulking piles of stone blocks with tiny rooms at the top that weren't big enough to live in.  The Mayans also out did the Romans in horrific and bizarre human sacrifices.

Yet another reference to slavery is pointless misdirection. I've already pointed out that the US had the institution of slavery. Do you know how many patentable inventions there were on the CSS Virginia and the Monitor ??? That was done in a slave country. Is a civilization without slavery better ??? Yes... Sure is... Does that mean the Romans were all bad ??? No.... Does that take away from what they accomplished and left for the world ??? According to you, yes. According to anyone else who studies history... No. Done waste your time arguing against that.

No, but the fact that they did study the Pantheon speaks volumes about the level of skill that the Romans had. It wasnt a pyramid shaped stack of blocks. It was and still is sophisticated archetecture.

All men are not created equal. No two living things have an equal chance. That is where law and government comes in. Law and government assures that all men will be given equal and fair treatment under the law. Human rights are cataloged and driven by law. Assured equality is ENTIRELY legal and social, not natural.

DLEHMA,
Three Questions :
? Does your existing TV Antenna has three or more TV Guide Wires to help support it ?
? How Tall (Long) is the Mast of your TV Antenna ?
? How Long are the Guide Wires that help to support the TV Antenna and the Mast ?
THEN CONSIDER - Using these TV Guide Wires as the Elements of a Shortwave Antenna on top of your Metal Roof.

1 - Use the TV Guide Wires as the Multi-Elements of a Random Wire Antenna.

2 - Use a TV 300 Ohm to 75 Ohm Matching Transformer as a UnUn between the Antenna Elements and the Coax Cable Feed-in-Line.
3 - Connect the the 300 Ohm Leads of the Matching Transformer one to the Guide Wires and the other to the Grounded TV Mast.
4 - Use as 75 Ohm Coax Cable Feed-in-Line between the Antenna and your Radio.
5 - Use a combination of a Right-Angle "F" Adapter and "F"

Good gun control requires two hands and a wide stance.

Semi-automatics are the most common type of gun sold.

If this guy tried this in a state with a liberal CCW policy this guy would be dead right now instead of in custody.

OK, I seem to understand better now, too.  I used to have a random wire that was over 100' long and had the near end of it attached at the top of my VHF/UHF antenna mast.  It came down next to the mast (lead in part) down to the radio, and I never had any problems with the mast affecting the signal. Of course the main part of the antenna was up & away horizontal with the mast with only 15' or so of the antenna running down the side of the mast.

If you think there might be problems with it, you could always put standoffs on the mast and run the lead in wire down through them.

Currently at 506 filter rules. About 20 rules are positive or in other words bring people or topics I care most about to the top of the current posting list and the rest are kill filters.

The kill filters ban anonymous news servers and / or domains Trolls like to use. I also ban any curse words, sexual anatomy type words, sexual verbs and religious topical words in subject lines.

Most filters are on individuals. Many are currently not active because once the Trolls figure out that they are not being read they either leave or change their handle. Then I have another entry on them. I have kill filed some people dozens of times and they are still here so I expect that I will be adding another filter when they change. It only takes seconds to create a filter and then I just re-filer the current list of articles and they go away.

I kill file on all aspects of the article headers but it often does not work due to my wonky news server that provides only some of the header information depending on the age of the post.

When things are bad I find the average of killed posts to be around 60%. Usually other people start complaining that the news group is unreadable around those times. I don't have that problem. The news group is always readable for me. I have noticed that the news group always gets worse around school vacation times, which leads me to believe that the trouble makers are juveniles and the rest are attention deficit disordered arrested thinkers.

Recently my filters have only been taking out 35 to 40% of the posts, which required new filters to make the news group more readable. Usually the right ratio is around 50% killed when things are good to more like

60% killed during school vacations or contentious events the last presidential election.

Of course the Science Fair is in a couple of weeks!!...lol

A couple weeks is a short time to build a shortwave radio.  But hindsight is 20/20 so they say.

There aren't a great many SW receiver kits out there that I'm aware of.  I think TenTec makes one but it's a general coverage HF receiver and may be kind of pricey and complicated for a science fair project.

You might try looking at one of the Ramsey kits at www.ramseyelectronics.com.  They have some amateur band receivers matching their QRP transmitters, plus they also have AM, FM, and shortwave receiver kits.  It could probably be built & tested in a couple days, depending on your kit building skill.  URL is:

Don't you mean "guy" wires?  At any rate, make sure they're not grounded, and it should work fine.

If you have some electronic background, you might just try building from scratch.  Charles Kitchin has done a fair amount of work on regenerative receivers in the past decade, trying to make them good rather than just translate tube designs to solid state.

Some of them have been specifically for beginners, which have the advantage that he's used easy to come by parts.  Variants of some of the designs are all over the web.

One of his articles is online (well I did a search, and this one came up early), is at http://www.arrl.org/tis/info/pdf/0009061.pdf  I've not built, but he knows what he's talking about, and I gather many have built this one.

The deadline is the problem.  I could throw one together tomorrow, but then I have tons of parts.  All the parts, or suitable substitutes, could be had by taking apart some junked consumer equipment, though I'd say two, the germanium diode and a variable capacitor, might take a bit of looking.
And sadly, both may be harder to buy new locally.

This is a simple receiver, not just in terms of building but in terms of perforamce.  But that makes it a good science fair project, and it makes room for a good sidebar. Howard Armstrong received the patent for the regenerative receiver, US patent number 1,113,149 in 1914. This provided a really useful receiving circuit at a time when many were still using "crystal radios" (ie no amplification), or at best tuned RF receivers.  And it helped to explain electronic oscillation, which was important for radio and electronics to advance. In 1920, he received US patent number 1,342,885 for the superheterodyne receiver, advancing the state of the art much further, and oddly, freezing design to that early, since only variants of the superhet have come along in the years since.  And then received the patent for the superregenerative receiver, US patent number 1,424,065 in 1922.  You can see all these patents at the US Patent office website at http://www.uspto.gov/patft

Howard Armstrong pretty much invented every type of receiver that has seen common use in the past few decades.

No.  Tandy briefly owned Allied, having already bought Radio Shack.
There was a brief time in 1971 (I seem to recall checking the magazines once and it changed within that year) when Radio Shack was called "Allied Radio Shack" but only briefly.  From when this has come up before, Radio Shack had to sell off Allied, because of conglomeration laws or something like that, and it stood alone for some years/decades until it was bought up by someone else, though it remained as Allied.

Everyone's reality is but a mere perception of what exists. Perhaps the knobs are missing because the past has not produced a person able to observe them. Doesn't say much for us does it? Obviously nothing exists if there is not an observer. You know, like that cat in the box thing! Well, looks like we might have exhausted the knob topic. whew!

Hi.
I tell you to bring your YB-400 with you. Take the best you can!
You'll not having fun with your Grundig MiniWorld-100 especially if you want to catch exotic stations.

I bet you'll have more luck with receiving exotic stations when sitting in the prairie far away from any man-made noise and having enough space for some real directional long wires of 1000ft or more just laying on the ground....
You'll be wondering how much more crowded the SW-band are here in Europe. Even my commonly high rated portable Sony ICF-2001D (2010) is just good enough for some basic listening. So I go with my NRD-525.....

"Allied Radio (now known as Allied Electronics) is a company with a long eight decade history. It was founded in Chicago, IL. in 1928. Its purpose was to distribute radio parts for Columbia Radio Corp. By 1932, Allied was selling electronic parts by catalog. Storefront sales operations were established with the goal of selling to amateur radio operators and electronics experimenters. During WWII, Allied devoted itself to the war effort by handling government contracts and high-priority industrial needs. This was Allied's first real experience in industrial electronics. After the war, Allied continued to sell to the consumer and industrial markets.
Sometime around 1962, Allied Electronics was created as a subsidiary of Allied Radio. In 1971, Allied was acquired by Tandy (now Radio Shack Corp.) and moved its headquarters to Fort Worth, Texas. Around 1981, Spartan Manufacturing acquired the company. In 1997, Avnet took over ownership. In 1999, Allied Electronics was acquired by Electrocomponents plc of the United Kingdom. Allied Electronics continues to sell electronic components by catalog and Internet ordering.

Allied Radio produced a line of kits under the Knight label. They were called Knight-Kits. Although not as extensive a line as Heathkit, they had many offerings in test equipment. Amateur radio, SWL, audio, entertainment and educational/experimenter kits rounded out their product line".

Tom Sevant [N2UHC] - YES :o) Guy Wires = Guide Wires ~ RHF

If you go to the 'original' Link :
TV "Guy {Guide} Wires" as a Shortwave Antenna
- The [Hidden] Inverted 'V' Antenna
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Shortwave-SWL-Antenna/message/1689

In it I point out that Insulators or Nylon/Poly Rope should be used at both ends of the Guy (Guide) Wires to insulated then from Grounding where they attach to the structure; and Grounding through the Mast.

The Guy (Guide) Wires can be Strung-Together at the Top and used as a Multi-Element Random Wire Antenna and the Mast as a Grounding-Point along with a TV 300 Ohm to 75 Ohm Matching Transformer to connect it to a 75 Ohm Coax Cable Feed-in-Line.
Note - Three to Four 15 Feet Guy (Guide) Wires add-up to a 45 Foot to 60 Foot Long Random Wire Antenna.

Or the Guy (Guide) Wires can be Paired-Off (Two-by-Two) at the Top and used basically as an Inverted "V" {Dipole} Antenna using the TV 300 Ohm to 75 Ohm Matching Transformer to connect it to a 75 Ohm Coax Cable Feed-in-Line.
Note - Two-by-Two 15 Feet Guy (Guide) Wires add-up to a 30 Foot (60 Foot) Long (Dual) Inverted "V" Wire Antenna.

IMHO - This can be a very effective [Hidden] Shortwave Listeners (SWL) Antenna where 'ground space' is limited and there already is a TV Antenna with a Mast on-top of a Roof.

 Stirring around in the mix of mankind has always been a dangerous proposition from the beginning of time. It's just that now days we are so damn rude and have a total lack of manners about everything we do. This modern media with it's constant emphasis on the negative and split second news coverage only makes the world smaller and more cramped. Anything negative sells on TV. Hum? Why is that? There's just too damn many people and we are all getting tired of each other. I think we finally perfected our art of being a bunch of real selfish pricks. Poor f--kin me!

You have a bizarre thing with the shift key going on there.  I have absolutely nothing to do with the Democratic Party.  Not everyone who can see Bush is a phony is in the opposition party.  Free Republicans with brains can see it too.

The same frequency (13254) is active again this morning, if anyone's interested.

I would agree, basely on the fact that RN used to identify their mailing adress as Holland.

I think, though, that the name "Holland" reflects a much older standard that has, for practical purposes if not sentimental ones, been superseded by the name "Netherlands."

Show us the gun permits held by the shooters.

When it becomes obvious that you can't, because they didn't have permits, then everyone with any intelligence will realize that the assault weapon ban wouldn't have stopped these guys.

Hi Invader..
Congratulations on going to Europe, btw..
Bring a Good SWR ( YB 400 ) and a bit of external antenna..

The SW reception in europe is generally good, but iff you're lying in bed, in a modern hotel..and theres 15 feet to the window you might want a bit of co-ax lead-in from a funky window antenna to your YB -400

I usually travel with a ( double reduction ) Sangean 606A and a Sony AN-LP-1..

& extra batteries & headphones..

& if your out in the country at a " normal European Hotel"
( Think U.S.  1950's)
- You might be able to forgoe the Co-ax..

& HIDE your radio when your not in the room..
Hide it!
leave something else shiny around the room  & see if it vanishes mysteriously..

& buy some Euros before you depart..

Dan

Yes, cash rules in Europe....  ;-)

There is only Visa-card and Mastercard widely accepted. In some cases American Express. But do not count on it.

The last non-ham RTTY station I remember receiving was a news service for North Korea, years ago.

I had a PK-232 TNC, with it's SIAM ( signal identification ) mode that would sniff out the parameters on a mystery signal and attempt to display it for you. It worked pretty well, I thought, decoding oddball digital stuff more often than I expected it to.

It was strange to see outdated old Soviet propaganda phrases about "imperialist capitalist dogs" and about how the standard of living in North Korea had gotten so good that they were having to turn Americans immigrants away from the border, seeking asylum.

I've looked for - but not found - anything quite so funny and tragic at the same time as that RTTY news service from "the people's democratic republic of Korea" or whatever it was called back then. - It's been a while, I can't remember for sure.

People that have had little or no contact with guns usually rely on the TV info they see to base their opinions. Us that have grown up with guns realize that guns have little to do with crime and that humans are the ultimate weapon and guns are only a tool. They have a hard time understanding why any one would need or want automatic firearms. I like all types of guns and collect them primarily because there neat and I collect a lot of other things to I find interesting including old radios, guitars, antiques and small handmade brass trains. I'm the type of person that loves mechanics and guns represent some of mans greatest achievements in mechanical design. Yes it's sad that some were designed to kill humans but war is a catalyst that pushes the envelope in technology and these thing are product of that. Is my collecting guns making the world a worse place? I don't think so and NO guns don't turn you into a killer.

About five years ago I mentioned a gadget I had bought at a local Radio Shack store to a lady in England.She said the Radio Shack stores in England are called Tandy stores.There is or used to be a Tandy Leather store here in Jackson at the old Zayre shopping center on Terry Road.I haven't been out that way in quite a while,so I don't know if the store is still there or not.Let me check my phone book right quick,,,,,,,,, I don't see the store listed in my phone book,so I guess it isn't there anymore.Didn't Tandy Leather used to have something to do with the Tandy electronics stores? I could be mistaken though.

It's not a flop if you learned something.

Could be overload problem with a longer wire.

How about using that 300 foot wire for a three sided loop? 100 feet toward the back, then 100 across the back of the yard and 100 feet back where you started. Connect one end to shield and the other to the center conductor of a coax lead-in.

Yeah I didn't think about that... you'd need a good outdoor antenna and a good ground, niether of which would be practical inside a high school building.  A SW receiver may or may not work poorly under the same conditions, though.

On the other hand, the crystal set could be constructed and tested, with the results reported in the report or thesis or whatever, but wouldn't work well for a live demonstration.

Yes, at 0600Z she's still repeating SYN2Z58. I'm sure you're probably correct about it being important as usually she only transmits SYN2 (2 meaning no traffic) for a few minutes and then stops. I don't think I've ever heard one transmit this long.

I bought the radio brand new.I used to work at a factory (the factory closed down years ago) in Florence,Mississippi that manufactured auto/truck/lawnmower batteries and once in a while some six volt batteries for the older model MG cars.I used to take the radio to work with me and listen to talk radio stations.There was a married woman there and we used to cuss each other out all the time and she would run over and unplug my radio so she could hear her loud ass boombox radio better.It got to where the push button switch on my radio wouldn't latch down in the on position so I replaced it with an old toggle switch,it works fine now.I am listening to the radio right now.All of the chrome looking paint or whatever it was that the GE factory used to put on those radios is long since gone because of battery acid that used to get on my radio.

But have you looked?  Here, the ham clubs are lousy about promotion of the hamfests beyond ham circles, despite it being a means of reaching a new audience, and even keeping the hamfests going when the buyers and sellers come from a bigger pool.

In other words, a hamfest could happen locally and you'd never know it.

Be sure to check http://www.arrl.org if you're in North America for upcoming hamfests.  there may be a local one, or one within reasonable distance.

If in other countries, chances are good that there is a national group that similarly keeps track of such events in that country.

Michael

Hi,

May be this has been beaten to death in  the past, but is there any online schem for an outboard sync detector using modern chips? Most of the stuff I've run accross use really old chips that I cannot get locally.

Doesn't doubling the wire back null the effect of the same length of wire?

DRM -- if it had a 7 bit ASCII teletype 'subchannel' type added to it, could eliminate numbers stations...

Binary files can be transmitted using only 7 bit ASCII chars, preferably with a little error correction.
There is a LINUX program that can convert binary files into alphanumeric telegram format, similar to VENONA.

This would be most true if layered AES + modified (A5/1) or Blowfish + (MD5 + SH1) encryption and digital signatures were supported in some way.

AES (inner layer) : http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rijndael
A5/1 (outer layer) : http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/A5/1
Blowfish : http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Blowfish_(cipher)

To be called Bizarre by 'you' - Makes Me Almost Feel Normal :o)
Speaking of 'normal' if one thinks of it as being the composite of "Nor" & "Mal" = NorMal = Normal.
Where 'Nor' would mean "Not" and where 'Mal' would mean "Bad".
Then 'To Feel Normal' would mean "To Feel Not Bad" Therfore Feeling Normal is not about Feeling Good
. . . it is simply Not Feeling Bad.
feelings... wow oh feelings - feelings are facts ~ RHF

Can anyone point me in the direction of a repair/service facility that would be best to tune up and align a Sony ICF-6700W? I just purchased one and would like to have it professionally serviced. Nothing wrong with it - I just want it cleaned, tuned, and aligned.

I Googled but came up dry. Thanks in advance.

MICHAEL,
First make sure that you have both of your Icom IC-R75's Pre-Amplifiers turned OFF.
TRY A LOOP ANTENNA :
Re-run the Wire as a Loop-On-the-Ground (LOG) Antenna.
Try to have the Out-Leg of the Loop separated as much as possible from the Back-Leg of the Loop.
Use the Two HI-Z Terminals of your Icom IC-R75 for the input for this Loop Antenna.
USE AN "EXTERNAL" ATTENUATOR :
Build the GIZMO Box and use the built-in Attenuator to reduce the Signal Levels.
READ - Portable AM/FM Shortwave Radio-to-Antenna
"GIZMOE" Connector Box
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Shortwave-SWL-Antenna/message/2070
NOTE - If you use the NE-2 Lite-Bulb and on a 'normal day' the Bulb is always Glowing or Blinking; then Trim your Antenna by 25 Feet and check it again - repeat as needed.
USE A MATCHING TRANSFORMER AND GROUND : Continue to use your 200+ Feet Long Wire Antenna and Build a Voltage Step-Down Transformer :
Use a Ferrite Core with a 25:1 or 36:1 Turns Ratio.
*  25:1 Ratio = Thirty-Five (35) Turns and Seven (7) Turns
*  36:1 Ratio = Thirty-Six (36) Turns and Six (6) Turns Use a Ground Rod and Wire with this Matching Transformer.
CUT THE SIZE OF THE ANTENNA DOWN BY . . . . . . . . . .
*  Cut the Size of the Antenna from 300 Feet to 250 Feet and use 50 Feet of Coax Cable as a Feed-in-Line.
*  Cut the Size of the Antenna from 300 Feet to 200 Feet and use 100 Feet of Coax Cable as a Feed-in-Line.
Plus use a Matching Transformer and a Ground Rod at the junction of the Antenna Wire Element and the Coax Cable.
TIP - In the Future - Pick a Dry and Warm Sunny Day 'to do' your Out-Side Antenna Work :o)

REDNECK
Defined by Merriam-Webster.

n. red-"nek

Sometimes disparaging: a white member of the Southern rural laboring class.
Often disparaging: a person whose behavior and opinions are similar to those attributed to rednecks.
-rednecked

The term redneck has taken several forms over the course and development of the civilized world.

The term Afrikaans Rooinek, which translated literally means redneck, is a disparaging term the Boers used to apply to the British and later became associated with any European immigrant to South Africa as detailed by David Wilton at UselessKnowledge.com. Wilton also states there is a tale in which it referred to striking coal miners who wore red bandannas as a means of group identification. The Anglo-Boer War was a conflict between British Imperialists and the Afrikaner Nationalists at the turn of the 19th Century. The British wanted to unite all of South Africa. There were two main Boer states, the South African Republic(Transvaal), and the Orange Free State. The war escalated soon after gold was found in the land. One of the more formal definitions, a reference to pellagra, a disease caused by vitamin deficiency, may have been the true meaning for the term redneck. More can be found at http://www.anglo-boer.co.za/.

Another cause for the evolution of the term may come from those who had sunburned necks from working in the fields all day. That term also became a loose fitting term for the Native American who had a darker complexion than the Europeans who colonized America.

Whatever the case, the more modern term redneck has evolved into the more Southern, rural, white member of the laboring class and a disparaging reference to the dialect. Often called Slack jawed or a Yokel, the person often is associated with non-traditional behavior and opinions that may be outdated or modifications to more traditional language or terms.

The redneck is often portrayed as slow, shallow in thought, and regulated to the rural areas, often out of their element when introduced to new concepts or ideas.

Media stereotypes include certain types of country music, commedians, television shows

Another quick way to search is to use Google and search "hamfest" and "LOCATION", where LOCATION is where you're at.  Some of the hamfests don't show up on the ARRL site.

BTW, RadioMart had an R-5000 for sale that was running ~$127 or so when I checked last night. Considering the quality of things that he says is immaculate, he downplayed the quality of this R-5000. Makes you wonder what the real quality is, eh?

I agree that it has to work reliabily but if there's a strong local AM station that's a fine signal to use for demonstrations.

You might want to put a high pass filter in place between the longwire and the preselector, nulling out the AM band as much as possible before the preselector.  When I lived closer to the antenna for WCKY 1530, I homebrewed one that got rid of the AM BCB band.  You can find the schematics for one in the ARRL handbook or one of Joe Carr's Tech Notes on DXing.com:  http://www.dxing.com/tnotes/tnote06.pdf > with the hobby.

The Lib Net are a bunch of aging lightweight crackerheads compared to something called The Eastern Regional Patriot Net.
You can catch these ultra-goofballs right now, every evening at 7:00 PM Central Time (8 PM Eastern) on 3.860 LSB.
This bunch is your genuine core-group of ultra-paranoid misfits what seems to believes in chemtrails, colloidal-silver, the Protocols of Zion, Planet X and Aryan purity among other such longtime short-wave radio crapola, what everyone else knows is both pure bullshit and the rantings of screwballs. The ERPN itself was started by noneother than famous UPR Radio goofball Steve Anderson (..currently incarcerated for firing a fully automatic AK-47 at a Kentucky State Police officer during a MVA stop) who once broadcast from his home in Northern Kentucky. Steve's eventual arrest and conviction has not stopped these fruits and nuts which still meet nightly on 3.860 for passing of Militia-related "traffic" on a nightly basis, some check-in's of which have included known Militia members and several others using both bootleg or invalid made-up ham callsigns. Of late however check-in's to the ERPN have been sparse or made up of valid ham radio callsign holders, as the word was out that both RH and a certain "Homeland Security" type Agency of the US Govt. (hint) has taken recent 'interest' in some of the traffic being passed on this so-called net, or so it was alleged at a midwestern ham club recently..........

Then again, that's is the consistent & nice thing about your average right-wing Domestic Kookinschlong...every one of em LOVES to blabber their openly Seditious and Insurrectionist incitement either thru a telephone to a kook call-in short-wave radio show, (..like Alex Jones' daily hit parade of paranoia) or from behind a ham radio microphone live and nightly like they've been doing on the ERPN for several years now.  What a bunch of sloop head dopes, poebuckers and moe-rons!  SWL them now boys while you can, before they operate "dx" later at Guatananamo Bay or some other similar 'amusing' place.  ; )

Hello Friends
I am considering investing in a C.Crane Radio Plus receiver . If anyone out there owns one and uses it for BCB DX'ing, how do you like it?
Good and bad points?
Thanks 73 Greg WDX9KHY

I was talking about rednecks (by the way,I am not a redneck) as pertains to Americans.Most people believe all that stuff that hollyweird shoves out and that stuff printed in those fiction books,gone with the wind books and that fiction hollyweird gone with the wind movie comes to mind.Hollyweird loves to steriotype the South.There was slavery as far North to the State of Maine,but do ever hear about that? People are People and there is no difference at all between People in the South and People in the North.I was born on November 5,1941 in Carthage,Mississippi.   www.thecarthaginian.com    I lived in Martinsville,Indiana in 1947,I lived there for one year.I lived in Bozeman,Montana in 1956 for about six months.I lived in Salina,Kansas in 1957 for about four months.(My Dad was a Supervisor for Michael Baker Engineers Company home based here in the Jackson,Mississippi area and my family lived in a few States) After I finished my two months of boot camp at Fort Gordon,Georgia in December 1962,I was in ARADCOM (Army Air Defense Command) at Scott Air Force Base,Illinois from January 1963 through October 1963.I have lived in several Northern States before and I could see no difference between People in the North and People in the South.Some People believe Southerns are slow,dull,rednecks or whatever,Visit the South and make up your own opinions.

Not to mention the black market trade in all countries of all nations of the world. There's knockoff weapons being made all the time too in clandestine factories that resemble Mac 10s and AKs etc... We have major countries like Russia that have people in military supply strapped for cash letting things slip by. There are arms dealers running around all over the globe pawning this stuff.

Here's some English/American bucktooth:

Fee! Fie! Foe! Fum!
I smell da blood o' an Englishman.
Be he 'live, or be he dead,
I'll grind his bones ta make muh bread.

I bought one of those ccrane radios about six years ago that Art Bell and George Noory (are y'all listening,Art Bell and George Noory?) tout so much.Believe me,they are way over rated and over priced and that ccrane radio wouldn't pick up any better than any of my old ratty tatty radios I own and the sound quality of that ccrane radio they tout about isn't anywhere as good as the sound quality of many of my old radios.I sent that ccrane radio back withing the week,back to ccrane in Fortuna,California.But it is your money,go ahead and buy one of those radios if you want to.

Try here:

http://www.arrl.org/hamfests.html

...usually at any given hamfest, there are people from the next one handing out flyers for it and its location.

For $100, I bought an R-392 (Plus Lambda power supply) and a FRG-7 at a fest.  There often are receivers there at bargain prices.  Because of money concerns I recently had to pass up a mint-condition HRO for $100.  (I cried.  A lot.)  That one sold within the first 5 minutes of the fest.

I have not been able to nab this one yet, at least clearly enough to ID.  Have heard weakly, I believe, using SSB.

We try to help the less fortunate <g>

An early reference to 'redneck' may be found almost four hundred years ago.  The word 'hill-billy' is, surprisingly, not limited to dxAce type characters.

A good read:

=============================================
The origins of this term are Scottish and refer to supporters of the National Covenant and The Solemn League and Covenant, or "Covenanters", largely Lowland Presbyterians, many of whom would flee Scotland for Ulster (Northern Ireland) during persecutions by the British Crown. The Covenanters of 1638 and 1641 signed the documents that stated that Scotland desired the Presbyterian form of church government and would not accept the Church of England as its official state church.

Many Covenanters signed in their own blood and wore red pieces of cloth around their necks as distinctive insignia; hence the term "Red neck", which became slang for a Scottish dissenter*. One Scottish immigrant, interviewed by the author, remembered a Presbyterian minister, one Dr. Coulter, in Glasgow in the 1940's wearing a red clerical collar -- is this symbolic of the "rednecks"?

>>And it's a well established fact that plants respond to light and temperature.  So they too appear have some sensory response akin to pain.  Why should we be concerned about fish but not plants. <<

We should be concerned about as much as we can.  We still need to eat, so we simply do the best we can and eat to the highest level of compassion .  Your comment on akin to pain is interesting, BUT.., evolutionarily, it would not be worthwhile or advantageous in any way for a plant to develop a "pain" sensor, since it cannot do anything to run or defend itself.  My guess is that anything that gives discomfort akin to pain in plants is probably nonexistent.  To say that response to light is like pain is a stretch - it is more like saying we humans prefer relative warmth to cold.

Fair enough, and I agree.  You must have some real concerns with the Wednesday at 18:00 it's S6 and kind of fluttery, but very listenable here in Seattle.

Yea, one of the problems with this broadcast is waking up enough to actually listen to it.  (There's also PM on Radio Aus, and Newshour on BBC which can be more interesting).  It's also repeated at least 3 times for North America, so there's not that much incentive.

Last week while tuning around, I ran across a US "buy by the hour" station (WWCR? in the 9 MHz band?) where the topic was largely DX and Radio, but the host was talking about the Mayo-ists in Nepal and the way he pronouced Mao Tze Tung was in the most amazing fashion.  It's a pity
I didn't take note of the program details, as it be fun to send him an email asking about the differences between the Mayo-ists and the Salad Dressing tendency.

Radio Australia said that it's a Category 5, with 300 KmPH winds.
There probably won't be too many antenna towers left up if they get a direct hit.

A week or two ago, when a cyclone was going to hit the Cook Islands, RNZI said that communications were down at one location because they took down their tower in advance of that storm.

Actually many plants have evolved responses to dangerous situations. Some close up or fold in response to cold and heat, some curl when cut, and many move in reaction to sunlight or darkness.  Those are responses to stimuli that in some cases are akin to what we generalize as pain. So again, why are you concerned only about animals experiencing pain when it is clear that plant life responds to dangerous or painful situations too.  I think you should exhibit the same level of compassion for the carrot that you have for the sheepshead.  Don't you?

So do plants, but I don't see people advocating the stoppage of agriculture anytime soon.

No, that would make the concept of rights more important, because we could not understand what we were doing.

Ah, but PETA does not stop there, which is why I said what I said.  Relying on PETA for data means that you are opening yourself up to criticism about the source, and allow your argument to be lumped in with the extreme, rather than the mean.  I may not like sprawl very much myself, but I do not in any way, shape or form want to associate myself with the eco-terrorists (the Earth First! people, for instance) who will destroy property in the name of the environment.  That only provides sympathy for the property owners, and in effect encourages the very thing that the eco-terrorists don't want.

Which receiver??  The DX-440??  Mine still does a serviceable job as a backup, and for getting the kids interested in shortwave.

My thinking is that if you're interested in a big spaced radio for something like legal blindness but not total blindness, you can use a Grundig Sat 800, because it has wide spacings between buttons and good sized knobs to work with.

If you pretty much require a computer to work with the radio, go for one with an advanced instruction set.  The older Icom IC-R71A and Kenwood R-5000 don't have the instruction sets that the newer models do.  Aside from that, I'd not be much help with computer control of a shortwave, since I don't use one that way.

As I said before, I will eat and live my life so as to avoid as much as possible causing grief to other living things.  For now, and until I am shown something like proof (internet assertions do not fill this void), I am going to have to assume that animals have the most developed nervous systems and greatest potential for feeling pain...and that they will get first consideration.  That represents the best information I have.

All of life is a compromise...it is unavoidable.  What we can avoid is doing any more damage than we must to survive.  That is what I do when I choose not to harm animals.  I also try to use products with minimal packaging, recycle as much as possible, work to preserve natural areas and give other living things the best shot I can.  You can argue it any way you want - but when it comes down to it, I am acting on my conscience and the best information I have.  As one who apparently requires not as much from yourself, you may wish to consider whether you have a leg to stand upon when lecturing someone else when he is trying to do what is morally right.

You really have no idea what you're talking about. The so-called "assault rifle" is just a plain old semi-auto that looks scary to liberals. They work EXACTLY the same. A true assault rifle, fully automatic, has been extremely regulated since 1934. I have a .22 rifle that is semi-auto and tube fed, it holds 18 rounds. Is this also an "assault rifle"  The rifles you speak of as being "highly prized" are also highly expensive and have been found to be used in less that 1% of all firearms crimes. There basically a non-issue, well, to rational thinking people that is.

This is just silly.  People do what they must to survive.  If you and your eskimo friends need to fish, then fish.  If you need to pollute your lungs with tobacco to survive, then puff away.  I, too, will continue to do what I must to survive - but since that does not include eating animals, then by my conscience and sense of justice, I will not eat animals.

Be assured, my comments are not designed to lecture anyone, and each person's set of morals is his own.  You do what you think is right and necessary.  If you like my comments, then think some more on them.  If you don't like them, then reject them.  Know, however, that when someone takes me to task for trying to do what I believe is right and compassionate, I will defend my point of view.  I am secure in my belief that I do the right thing, and will stand up for that belief.

Hi everyone. I enjoy listening to shortwave but I've lately been unlucky trying to keep them in one piece!

I just bought a Sony 7600GR a few months ago because my favourite radio - the Panasonic RF-2600 - was bumped and it fell off a shelf onto the floor. It broke the antenna which I could deal with, but afterwards to found out that it had no AM/SW sound, yet the FM band worked fine.  I took iit apart to see if I could see if there was anything on the circuit board that was physically broken or loose, but I couldn't find anything so it's either a) try to find somebody with the proper schematics and equipment to repair it or b) get rid of it.

What do you think? Is it a good enough radio to get repaired or should I maybe just sell it for parts and save up for a decent modern tabletop shortwave radio? I see from ebay that there is still a large demand for older shortwaves which I find perplexing. Is it more of a collecting thing or are they really better radios in so far as their signals go, their analog dials, or do they just sound better because of their larger speakers, etc? I'm happy with everything about my 7600GR with the exception of the sound quality, which could be better and would still like to have a good reciever with big speakers and nice, crisp sound.   The FM discrimation on the RF-2600 is better than ANY radio I have ever used.and listened to SW on it for many hours, I hate to see it go, but maybe I can get a few unbiased 'expert' opinons here on what you would recommend?!

Other woes: I lost the large band changing knob for a heavily used Zenith TransOceanic Royal 5000. Anybody know where I can find one? I can barely turn it using pliers now. Is there still a demand for these?

I also have a Panasonic RF-5000 which also was hit and which feel on the floor which broke one of the antennas and bent the case. Luckily, the circuitry wasn't hurt but it's just too large and bulky and don't have the room for it. How good is this radio relative to a others of the same period and can I get an antenna for it anywhere?

Do you think it might be best to try to sell these and use to money to buy a Satellite 800 or something comparable..... or which ones are worth saving/repairing?

Thanks for all your time!

Good grief. =A3399 for a Satellit 800. That's really a rip off.

None, 'tard boy. So your mommy will have to head to the druggist to get your prescription filled as I have none to lend you.

Now go ask mommy if it's time for your nap.

It really depends what is wrong with the 2600.  The fall may have jarred something loose that can be easily reconnected.  OTOH it might be more serious.  It would probably cost $35.00 for an estimate if you don't get the work done.  To be honest you can pick them up for well under $200.00 on Ebay.  I don't think I would put the money into it.

The 5000 was a really nice sounding and good looking radio.  I owned one and absolutely loved the full and slightly mellow audio.  It is a radio with 30 year old components, so it's performance (other than good audio) will not come close to that offered by say a Degen DE1103. In it's time, it compared well with Zenith TO's and the equivalent sized Sony...Globetraveller(?)  It never was meant to be a DX machine, just a big, heavy, good sounding radio.  Because it doesn't have a bandspread, critical tuning is touchy and identifying a SSB frequency all but impossible.

>>Yeah, but it's conservative opression, so it's ok.  Right?<<

No oppression is good oppression.  Exercising responsibility is one thing, and the basic reason for rational laws (to help people along); exercising influence is debatable; but oppression simply is untenable.

Ok.  Now I understand.  You don't like the Constitution.  Yet you like the protection it gives to bear arms.  Maybe when your conservative buddies take that away you'll start crying.

Look, you've already made 'Tard of The Day... trying to suck up now isn't going to get you a gold star on your award.

Now run along, maybe mommy will get those Leggo's out for you.

Folks - I have an old DX-160 in decent shape with plenty of sensitivity (except on AM, but I think I can remedy that) and fair selectivity. It gets its share of IM junk, but this is the big city after all, so what the heck...it's still a fun radio, even if its frequency is off a bit.

Anyone have a fair idea about the typical cost for alignment and recapping of this beastie? I am willing to hire it out for a fair price...

Thanks,
Bruce Jensen

Although all of your radios are pretty good, the Sat 800 would be better. The RF2600 shouldn't be too hard to repair. Probably either a cracked circuit board or a broken connection to the regulator that supplies V+ to the AM/SW sections. Hopefully, the bandswitch isn't damaged. Your best bet is to put them on eBay, but they would need to be repaired first, unless you represent them as "needing repair". If I didn't have so many kettles on the fire, I would be able to repair them for you, but unfortunately, I've got two new designs in the works.

As far as analog vs. digital tuning, there isn't any difference in the perceived sound unless the digital synthesizer has a high amount of phase noise. Fortunately, the later versions of PLL have improved over past designs. Exceptions are the synthesizers used in some of the premium receivers such as the Collins 651S-1, HF2050, HF8050, etc.

The larger speakers, along with the audio chain help the sound somewhat, but if you really want to hear good portable sound, try to get ahold of one of the older made in Germany Grundig portables, such as the Satellit 210 (TR6005). A dual-conversion unit on the SW bands, with 3-gang tuning on all ranges, including MW/LW. In direct comparison with a Sony 2010 on the MW band, the Grundig unit was better, with none of the 2nd order IM products that the '2010 had. Of course, no Sync detection, no digital readout, but the best portable sound. Some of the upper end Nordmende and Philips units were also good. Nobody makes portables the way the Germans did in the 60s and 70s. A lost art.

Bad news for anyone who had hoped to hear or work this station:

 PETER I ISLAND. Anticipated Peter I Island DXpedition postponed until 2006 (Feb 17, 2005) --- The anticipated Peter I Island (Antarctica) 3Y0X DXpedition has been called off at the eleventh hour. The DXpedition team announced February 17 that its charter vessel, the Cavendish Sea, has been delayed until February 20 instead of the hoped-for February 18. With a projected February 21 departure, the DXpedition ran out of time. "This latest delay, on top of numerous previous delays, simply makes it impossible for us to spend a sufficient amount of time on Peter I to justify the DXpedition this year," said the announcement from Bob Allphin, K4UEE, and Ralph Fedor, K0IR. "So, we have no choice but to postpone the DXpedition until 2006." The DXpedition`s first vessel and helicopter backed out at the last minute, forcing the team to quickly regroup with a new vessel and helicopter earlier this week. All 20 3Y0X team members had assembled earlier this month in Ushuaia, Argentina.--The Daily DX do a google search on halliburton fraud and you get 172,000 hits.

Cheney and Bush are EVIL. as are of course halliburton management sounds like a good reason for an invasion, to make the VP's friends wealthy !

Hi Guys
Well, I went ahead and bought it in the end, It cost me �50.00p ($94.58 USD)
It is in excellent condition and works well. bit of a big thing though, isn't it :-))

"This sort of Public 'Visible' Bidding is called Ladder Bidding.
[ Just How High Do You Want To Climb "The Ladder" With Me ? ]"

It's just an attempt to discourage anyone else from trying a bid. The potential bidder is suppposed to interpret that series of bids as having an impossibly high ceiling. In reality the current bidder's the last bid takes precedence over all the others he made. The only way to find out how serious the first bidder really is would be to put in a proxy bid for your maximum price.

"It says that not only did I "Bid Up" the Item : but there are Several Bids so you can not come in at the Last Minute (or as little as 6 Seconds) and Steal the Auction"

I think it is also an example of a bidder incrementally increasing his proxy bid. There is only one bid in force and that is the current bidder's last bid. His last bid is the one you will be bidding against should you decide to join the battle.

That's silly. Everyone knows global warming is caused by evil smokers and the heat from their evil cigarettes.

It doesn't appear consistently, which is strange.

I do have to give Google credit for listening to the users of their free news group service. When the Beta version was available to all there were several bugs. I sent at least three emails and received a cordial response that addressed the specific problem and assured that they were working on the bugs. And those bugs are now gone.

I have found Google to be far more responsive to user problems than the fee-based services like AOL or Compuserve ever were. And Google is free.

I don't listen to the Profit, so I really don't know.

My prediction is that eventually we'll all get washed away by something.

Honus, this transcript was taken from an interview on an Arab Al-Majd TV program broadcast somewhere in the M.E. on January 16, 2005.  The home page of the link is an organization that monitors and translates into english M.E. media news.
This is a factual interview!

Just think of what they can do if they had "the bomb".  :-o

Could be.  I figured it was just a poor receiver with bad filters, 16

Wanted: An Investigative Reporter to Break Open the Explosive Story of a Mainstream Press that Betrays America

The White House apologist mainstream press corps is now flagellating the Internet blogs and news services, such as BuzzFlash, claiming that writers on the net are fast with the truth.

What the reality is is this: sites like BuzzFlash.com are fast, fast in telling the truth. The New York Times and Washington Post are so interested in protecting the status quo that they are now the tail end of breaking White House scandal stories, rather than breaking them. They can lay claim to be 12th and 13th to publishing hot news stories, two weeks after they've hit the Internet.

You've got White House protectors like Howard Kurtz, who is laughably called a media reporter for the Post. If Kurtz saw Karl Rove drop Howard Dean's body over the White House fence, he'd call his good buddy, Scottie McClellan, the White House Press Secretary, and ask him what happened.

Scottie, 'ol chap, would tell Howard that it was only Karl tossing out an old rug. Kurtz would tell him, "good to go," and the story next day in the style section of the Post would be, "I called Scottie McClellan and he assured me that Karl Rove was doing some late evening cleaning of his office and decided to throw out an old rug himself. That's all it amounts to." Oh, yeah, and on page A16 of the Post, there would be a small article, below an add for Filene's Bargain Basement, "DNC Chair Howard Dean Reported Missing."

The layer of editors at the Post only ensures that no story will end up in the news section that will bring down Rove's wrath. That's the definition of "truth" in contemporary Washington journalism. The recent Wolf Blitzer-Howard Kurtz CNN program blowing off of the Gannon/Guckert scandal as a "piffle" was a mindboggling, specious, unprofessional effort to come to the defense of the indefensible: a White House that manipulates the press like marionettes.

Besides which, during the Clinton impeachment, the mainstream press gravitated to every salacious detail leaked by Matt Drudge (illegally secreted to him by Ken Starr's staff), like flies to excrement -- and nary a complaint was heard. The New York Times and Washington Post were among the lead flies circling the Drudge dung.

As we noted when we recently named Howard Kurtz, our BuzzFlash GOP Hypocrite of the Week:

Following the Gannon story, anyone with half a brain cell realizes that Kurtz's comments are simply damage control bullet points from or for the White House. The blogging world did what the lackey mainstream press will no longer do, expose a story that is at the epicenter of the deceit and propaganda media campaign central to how the Bush Cartel continues to control America. The Gannon story touches upon everything from manufactured news to manufactured "reporters" to the Valerie Plame affair to websites that have a connection to the White House, but appear independent, to a Bush Cartel hypocrisy about gays, to payola, to scripted Bush news conferences, to who knows what. This is a BIG media story that should be on the cover of the New York Times and Post.

But it isn't, is it? The real investigative news story that needs to happen is not in the mainstream press; it is about the mainstream press.

It has been a mindboggling Orwellian week when a Capital Hill/White House Press Corps that couldn't stop salivating 24/7 over a blow job dismisses a non-journalist getting access to CIA documents and questioning the President of the United States, while he moonlights as a gay military hooker, dismisses the story as nothing, even as untold numbers of questions are raised about the White House credentialing process, with enormous implications for potential lapses in national security.

Hey, Scott McClellan admitted that he knew Gannon was operating under a pseudonym, but that didn't seem to disturb him, until he later qualified his story. In fact, there is so much damage control going on at the White House now, you would think that the White House Press Corps would be popping out with revelations of improprieties; that is, if they were doing their jobs. But that would be too much to ask. No one wants to rock the boat there, even when a mega-scandal is sitting right next to them.

Okay, so let's get Republican here. It's not the seedy sex and whether or not Gannon/Guckert was "servicing" anybody at the White House; it's the lying. But the White House Press Corps long ago stopped caring about Bush White House duplicity. Lying is the coin of the realm at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. Gannon/Guckert wasn't the only one to transmit White House press releases without any serious questioning of their veracity.

There are a thousand and one questions that can and should be raised about the White House stonewalling and lies about the Gannon/Guckert affair. And the only reason you will see them on the net is because it can get a reporter fired to bring them up fairly in the mainstream press (with the exception of columnists).

It's got nothing to do with credentials. You can report a Pentagon news release, get two people in the Pentagon to say it's true, and still be writing up a lie. It's who you ask, what you ask, and how vigorously you pursue the story. Most mainstream reporters can telephone in their stories nowadays after getting news releases from the Bush Administration.

Sure, there are some decent, honest journalists chafing at the restrictions placed upon them not to expose the truth about the White House chronic lying and media manipulation. And there are some swell columnists in the New York Times and Washington Post, but the accomplices to the White House are the news editors. Everyday they choose what is considered news and what is not considered news. It is a highly subjective process, subject to White House pressure and influence.

Recently, New York Times Executive Editor Bill Keller wouldn't even tell his own ombudsman why the controversial Judith Miller went on television to discuss how the infamous source of many of her misleading pre-Iraq leaks, Chalabi, was now on the insider's list of the Bush Cartel again. You see, Miller revealed this on cable TV, in the newspaper's name, several days before it appeared in the NYT under another byline. And Miller was one of the people whose pre-Iraq war reporting the NYT apologized for. But nothing's changed.

Which brings us to the Valerie Plame, Jeff Gannon/Guckert, Judith Miller, Bob Novak, and Patrick Fitzgerald axis of "six degrees of separation." Just a few of the mainstream press dots that connect one to the other. You see, Gannon/Guckert tried to nail Joe Wilson by saying that he, Gannon/Guckert, was shown a classified CIA document (but Kurtz, Blitzer and the like seem to care little about such violations of national security). And Miller, ostensibly, faces going to jail for not revealing her knowledge about the Plame leak, while Novak blissfully continues to get paid to shill for the Republicans and the White House in particular, even though he was the one who outed Plame.

So Bill Keller is getting all indignant that Miller might go to jail and is making the Plame matter an issue of the right of a reporter to maintain confidential sources. But, here is where it gets interesting. Just the other day, a Federal judicial panel including David Sentelle (who exonerated Ollie North, appointed Ken Starr, approved secret activities by the FBI, and countless other decisions for the GOP), approved sending Miller to jail if she didn't talk.

Well, why would a right wing lackey like Sentelle side with the Bush administration on forcing a reporter (Judith Miller) who is a propaganda conduit for them to go to jail? (Miller wrote stories without naming sources that Cheney then used to create "factoids" to justify the Iraq War.)

Here's why. Because the purpose of the so-called Fitzgerald "Plame Investigation" is not to charge anyone at the White House; it is to find a reason NOT to charge anyone at the White House. If the U.S. Attorney can prove that there was general knowledge among a certain group of reporters in D.C. that Plame was a CIA operative, then no crime was committed. And that is where, in the end, trust us, the go-to-girl for the White House, Judy Miller, will assist them. Alberto Gonzales brought the two key lawyers who were representing Bush in the Plame case to the Justice Department. So are you getting the picture now?

And what better way to bollix up an investigation than not to subpoena Novak, and, instead, subpoena secondary reporters to the investigation and get the media to denounce the threats being placed on their reporters? Ingenious.

Are you starting to connect the dots? The mainstream press should be connecting the dots, except for the fact that they are the dots.

Bill Keller recently bemoaned to the New Yorker that Karl Rove had berated him for not being fair to Bush. We were laughing so hard when we read that, we fell off our barstool. The New York Times political coverage (as distinct from its editorial page) is so innocuous and unwilling to connect the dots of the Bush administration, it would be useless without all of its supplementary sections, such as the editorial section and book review. It's Karl Rove's dream "liberal paper," because its news section is not liberal politically in the least in terms of news judgment.

It's had a little run on torture stories, and printed an Iraq munitions theft piece before the election because it was going to come out anyway, but it accepts the administration as if it is an honest one. If the role of journalism is to challenge authority by seeking out the truth behind the official statements, the New York Times fails miserably, with a few exceptions here and there. It in no way conveys the radicalism of the people in the White House, nor runs longer investigative pieces on their chronic deceptions and dishonesty. It pretty much accepts their news handouts at face value.

Which returns us to Gannon/Guckert. Here was a shill for the White House literally sitting amongst the mainstream reporters. A faux reporter by day and gay prostitute for Marines by night. A man who passed White House security using a pseudonym. A man the White House Press Secretary says that he was aware was not using his real name. A man who had access to at least one confidential CIA memorandum. And that's only the beginning of the unfolding story. The latest is that Dana Milbank, one of the reporters at the Post, says he believes Gannon/Guckert had a "hard pass" (no pun intended), not a day pass, as Scott McClellan has assured everyone. Gannon/Guckert couldn't even get accredited by the Capitol Hill Press Corps, but he got to ask questions of the President of the United States, as Helen Thomas was banished to a back seat.

Any journalism school graduate, untainted by the corruption of a mainstream press corps that is co-opted by the White House, would have pursued the Gannon/Guckert story as did the bloggers and BuzzFlash.

When you are young and well-trained in a good journalism school, your goal is the pursuit of the truth. Your concern is your professional ethics and credibility. Your loyalty is to your country.

That's before you get corrupted.

A BUZZFLASH EDITORIAL

No.  I like some of what these guys say:

http://www.mises.org/

http://www.amconmag.com/

I like Ron Paul a whole bunch:

http://www.lewrockwell.com/paul/paul-arch.html

If you ever manage to shake off your demons you'll find that the classical conservatives/civil libertarians and a lot of ''progressive/liberals'' share much common ground and that the Neocon/Neorepublicans are pretty much by themselves out in Neosocialist left field.

It's a new paradigm, Brother. You'd do yourself a big favor if you'd quit reacting like Pavlov's dog. And quit watching the news on television.

Radical centrists are related to what is sometimes called the Vital Center in American politics, and similarly claim to be drawing on the best of both sides. However, they differ significantly from traditional centrism, which prides itself on moderation and seeking political consensus amongst the parties; radical centrists, for example, are quite radical and populist in their stated policies. Radical centrists also can be divisive, as opposed to the non-partisan approach of traditional centrism. This leads to many moderates questioning whether radical centrism deserves to be called centrist at all (perhaps analogous to how the Left and Right often distance themselves from their respective radical wings). For their part, radical centrists are quick to dissociate themselves from traditional moderates, whom they often contrast as the "sensible center", or deride as the "squishy center."

Radical centrists can be found in both left-wing and right-wing political parties, but (like other centrists and independents) are usually penalized for being out of step with that party's dominant ideology. This leads to tension between what might be called separatist factions, who want to shed an unhelpful party label in order to run as independents, and puritans who want to reform (or take over) the party from within. This tension is particularly acute in countries with strong two-party traditions, since it is difficult for third-party candidates to win office or create governable coalitions absent significant electoral reform.

Radical centrists see themselves as building majority consensus for radical reforms by sidestepping (or confronting) what they consider the obsolete, polarized and non-productive ideologies of (social Conservatism/economic Liberalism) and (social Liberalism/economic Conservatism). Radical centrists assert that their principles represent the fusion of the best aspects of Conservatism and Liberalism, and thus interpolate at the level of philosophy rather than policy. They claim these ideological moorings (the 'root' behind their sociological use of the term 'radical') provide the basis for their critique of society, government and other political movements.

Agreed.  I pulled out mine and attached it to my 50' inverted L, and I didn't have that problem.  The old whine of the circuitry is still there, but considering everything else about it, I don't mind.  That said, I guess you'd have to have it aligned by someone to fix it.

Ace, you said you used to have an R-5000.  How'd that stack up against your current complement of receivers?
I was curious considering your R7 comment above.

Well, I did say I wouldn't buy a new receiver that lacked sync detection, but that's not to say that there aren't lots of older receivers (like the Drake R7) that are worth acquiring. If I saw a good deal on an R7, I'd be tempted. However, if I were buying a brand spanking new receiver, I would not consider buying one without sync detection. Especially in the case of tabletops, there's simply no excuse for them not to have sync detection now. It'd be like buying a new Mercedes sedan that lacks power steering.
